ARMSTRONG RALLIES; STILL IN PERIL

Today

Poor General Mah.
Small Dog, Big Bite.
Prepare to Pay More.
A Sing Sing Game.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

JAPANESE TROOPS have "dug in" at Tahsing. Tokio reports a severe attack on the Japanese by the Chinese general, Mah Chan-Shan. While the League of Nations protests, wondering if there "will be war in the Orient," the war is going on at a fairly good pace.

Gen. Mah says he knows he cannot win, being out-numbered, and expecting any minute heavy airplane bombardment by Japan, which would scatter his forces. He relies on the League of Nations.

Poor Gen. Mah will learn that nobody in the league will send men or money to share that unpleasant bombardment from the air.

A SMALL DOG, smuggled aboard a United States destroyer in the harbor of Manila by sailors that desired a playmate, bit 10 of the seamen. What happened will interest those that say talk of rabies is all nonsense; also those that think disease is not real.

The 10 bitten concealed the fact. One died of rabies, the other nine are in the hospital, undergoing treatment.

SENATOR WATSON says an increase in taxes is "inescapable." Senator Smoot, head of the finance committee, agrees. Therefore, prepare to increase your contributions to Uncle Sam.

Senators Watson and Smoot favor a sales tax, but they do not believe Congress would approve it.

More money must come from some source. The government faces a deficit of $2,000,000,000.

Under the circumstances, forgiving our European debtors sounds pious and silly.

SENATOR BROOKHART, of Iowa, says Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, should get the presidential nomination and election next year. Senator Johnson has not yet spoken.

Whoever gets the nomination on the Republican side must, between now and election day, present some kind of plan in which the people have confidence, or he must be able to point to vastly improved conditions.

"GENIUS IS THE infinite capacity for taking pains," according to one.

Democracy is the infinite capacity for making mistakes and for starting internal fights at the last minute, according to others.

But if this depression remains, it will be hard for even the Democrats to offset the advantage of hard times, millions idle, no definite plan in sight.

CONVICTS OF SING SING, fighting hard against 11 naval militiamen, beat the latter by a score of 33 to zero in a football game. The Sing Sing captain, "Red" Hope, who still has 59 years to serve, yelled persistently, "No slugging in the scrimmages!"—advice not taken too seriously. Two naval militiamen were carried from the field on stretchers.

The warden, Mr. Lawes, promotes football as a "character builder."

Cries from the 2,000 convicts looking on of "Slug him!" and "Gang him!" indicated an inclination to build character on a firm foundation.

FOR EIGHT days Ira A. King, of Mansfield, O., has suffered an attack of hiccoughs. An effort to stop the hiccoughs by using musk, from the musk-deer, failed.

This reminds us to be grateful that a structure as "fearfully and wonderfully made" as the human body functions, as a rule, so well.

Consider your kidneys, your capillary blood vessels, the thousands of millions of cells that make up your body, each one eating, digesting, breathing, as you do.

EACH KIDNEY has one million small tubes that eliminate poisons from the blood. Your capillaries, supplying tissues with oxygen, iron, liquids and food that they need, would, stretched end to end, go around the world two and a half times.

Your nerves of sight, touch, smell, taste, hearing, carry impressions from the outside world, to your brain. The brain, through the nerves, sends orders to the muscles, and you run, fight, dodge or otherwise protect yourself.

We are only beginning to understand our marvelous gland system, more extraordinarily complicated than all the rest put together.

In the words of the Bible we may indeed "praise the Lord."

THE PRINCE of Wales talked to his fellow Britons, via the radio, yesterday, urging all Britishers to "buy British goods." Britons, proud of their country, and its products, think everything "British" a little better than anything else.

But British manufacturers are undersold, in automobiles by our producers, in other lines by Germans and Czechoslovakians, etc.

Temptation to buy cheap instead of "buying British" is great. But you find no British merchant advertising foreign goods as better than British, or any British citizen paying more for something made abroad, because it is NOT British. Americans, take notice.

SONS CALLED IN DEATH OF FATHER

Children to Tell Story of Home Tragedy at Inquest; Expert to Test Shotgun

Albert L. Culbertson, Jr., 11, is to go before the Coroner's inquest tomorrow and tell of the quarrel between his parents which preceded the fatal shooting of his father in their Mt. Lebanon home Sunday afternoon.

County detectives said that the boy's testimony may prove the most important of the inquest, which is to start at 1:30 p. m.

His story, the detectives revealed, varies in certain details from those told by his mother, Mrs. Laverna Culbertson, 37, and Mrs. Hazel Walker, of Mt. Vernon, O., who, with her husband, were week-end guests of the Culbertson when the shooting occurred.

EXPERT TESTS GUN

Other witnesses who have been subpenaed for the inquest include Albert's 7-year-old brother, Charles; Countl Detective Hichael Stabile and David Carlin, Crief William Kane, Lieut. John Swoager and Patrelman Arthur Seifert, of the Mt. Lebanon police force; Dr. R. W. Lang, who was summoned to the home after the shooting; Dr. T. R. Helmbold, a coroner's physician, and James L. Davidson, a ballistic expert.

Davidson late today was to take the gun with which Culbertson was killed to his ballistic laboratory and fire it into specially designed targets in an effort to determine how far apart the Culbertsons were when the fatal shot was fire.

Mrs. Culbertson and Mrs. Walker contend the gun discharged as the Culbertsons struggled over it after the wife had

CLOONAN, VOTE CHIEF, TO QUIT

Gilbert C. Cloonan, superintendent of the County Bureau of Elections and Chief County Statistician, who figured prominently in election controversies and in a bitter feud with Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, today submitted a verbal resignation to County Commissioners, effective January 3, 1932.

His declaration was received without comment. Friends said Cloonan would be eligible for a pension 21 days after the date set in his resignation, and there are rumors that he may be given a job for a short time in the office of County Treasurer Robert Cain and then retire to private life as an accountant.

New Trial Refused Banker L. F. Ruth

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 17.—Refused a new trial today on charges of misapplication of $6,000 of the Title and Trust Company of Connellsville, Linford F. Ruth, aged banker of Washington, was called for sentence on November 30.

HOUSE BALKS RELIEF TAX ACTION

Committee Asks Report on Current Funds and Need Of New Revenue for Aid

HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—(AP.) — The question of whether the state needs new revenue to provide relief was raised today as the first of Gov. Pinchot's bills for relieving unemployment distress were pressed toward enactment by the Legislature.

Bringing to the surface an undercurrent of sentiment existing in some anti-administration quarters in both houses, the House Ways and Means Committee requested the state's fiscal officers to inform it how much of current revenue could be devoted to relief proposed.

Until that information is furnished, the committee will decline to act on the executive's bills calling for the raising of $47,600,000 by direct taxation. The taxes would be imposed on gasoline, cigarets and billboards.

FIGURES ASKED

The committee voted to postpone reporting of the bills indefinitely until the State Treasurer, Auditor General and Secretary of Revenue have submitted detailed figures on the state's financial situation. These officials were asked formally to furnish specific information regarding how much, if any, money now available can be utilized in furthering the unemployment relief program.

The three officials were directed to present their analysis of the finances to the Ways and Means Committee at a meeting called for Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The action of the House committee came after the administration forces had won victories

Hamilton of Films Breaks Other Leg

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—For several weeks Lloyd Hamilton, film comedian, was in a Hollywood hospital, his left leg broken. He was released a few days ago. Last night he visited his actor friend, Rex Lease, and undertook to demonstrate how he could walk. The crutches collapsed and the actor fell, breaking his right leg. He was returned to the hospital.

Child's Testimony May Hang Mother

WIENER NEUSTADT, Austria, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Three-year-old Adolf Beer was chief witness against his mother, Josefa Beer, today, when she went to trial on a charge of murder in connection with the death of her 2-year-old son, Hermann. The mother was arrested when Adolf prattled at the funeral:

"Mamma threw Hermann into the canal."

Bridge Leap Kills N. Braddock Man

A leap from the Tassey Hollow Bridge, North Braddock, today killed Ernest Sokop, 65, cabinet maker, of 1107 Earl street, North Braddock, according to a morgue report. Witnesses to Sokop's leap notified police, who sent the aged man to Braddock General Hospital, where he died a short time later.

Man's Body Found In Highland Park

While exercising his hunting dog in Highland Park this morning, Charles Topper, of 3457 Penn avenue, found the body of a man in underbrush. A bullet wound in his head and a revolver by his side suggested suicide. An identification card with the name Fred G. Sahrhage, 338 Spahr street, was found in a pocket.

Seeking Revenge for Girl's Repulse Denied By Janitor

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 17. — The now-famous wicker divan in the office of Dr. John T. West, principal of Morgantown High School, was figuratively moved into court today, where the principal is on trial, accused of misconduct with Esther Williams, a teacher.

Percy H. Smith, 33, janitor and night watchman in the school and one of three "peepers" who spied on the principal's office through a hole in the ceiling, told the jury of seeing West and Miss Williams in the office "three or four times." The first time, he said, was on the night of May 26.

Assistant County Prosecutor John D. Downes asked Smith:

"Whom did you see first?"
"Miss Williams."
"What was she doing?"
"Taking off her shoes."
"Then what did she do?"

DESCRIBES TRYST

Smith, under questioning, went into a description of the scene that followed. What the two chief actors wore—and what they did not wear.

Miss Williams and Dr. West were reclining on the divan when he left the peephole, a long time later, Smith said. Before leaving the witness stand he testified to more flagrant instances of misconduct.

Smith was the first of the three peeping janitors to give testimony regarding the principal and Miss Williams. Other testimony, relating to the principal and Blanche Garfield, another teacher, was

HUSBAND HELD IN STRANGLING

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 17.—Dudley Doyle, 17, was arrested today shortly after the 16-year-old girl found strangled in Lovers' Lane on Chapline Hill had been identified as his estranged wife.

Wheeling's police chief, Fred Franier, revealed that Doyle was reported to have been with his young wife a short time before the slaying.

Seven thousand persons viewed the body at the Wheeling morgue before Grover Birch, of Bellaire, O., identified it as that of his daughter, Marie Birch Doyle. He said she had left home at 7 o'clock last night.

Marie's body, a clothesline drawn tight about her neck, was discovered in the lane by a junk dealer searching the hillside for bottles discarded by petters.

The police believe she was murdered elsewhere, then taken to the lovers' retreat.

No charges were brought against the young husband, who works in a market here, and police revealed they are also searching for two other young men—Chester Kindleberger and Chester Ginesko—said to be friends of the girl.

Police Rush to Nab Burglars—Find Cat

Mt. Washington police early today sped to the home of Chili Conrad at 324 Cedarhurst street to investigate a strange noise heard on top of the flat roof of the Conrad home.

"It's burglars," the police were informed, but the police found—only a cat. The cat had jumped from the adjoining Beltzhoover School to the Conrad roof.

CANADA FETES HEARST PARTY

By CHARLES J. M'GUIRK
International News Service.

OTTAWA, Nov. 17. — Arriving here by special train today from Montreal, about 60 Senators and Representatives in the United States Congress were scheduled to be received by the governor-general of Canada. The American lawmakers are studying Canada's sales tax legislation.

Expressing a desire to greet officially the distinguished delegation, the representative of King George, His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough and Countess Bessborough planned to receive the party at Rideau Hall this afternoon.

Following the reception by the governor-general, the American lawmakers were scheduled to be received by Col. J. Hanford MacNider, United States Minister to Canada, and Mrs. MacNider, at the legation.

It is in Ottawa, seat of the Dominion's government, that the legislators will hear from officials

COUNTY HEAD IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

Condition Critical Despite Slight Gain, Doctor Says; Bar Visitors From Home

Stricken with diabetes and bronchial pneumonia, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, battle-scarred political warrior, was slightly improved today, but still dangerously ill.

His physician, Dr. C. B. Schildecker, issued this statement this afternoon:

"Mr. Armstrong is a little better today. His temperature is down a bit to 103 and his pulse is down slightly. He was in a semi-comatose condition last night, but today he is conscious and able to talk with members of his family. However, he is still a very sick man—dangerously ill."

The 63-year-old political boss who suffered a crushing defeat at the polls in the last primary was asleep when his son, State Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., reached his bedside today after a hurried trip from Harrisburg.

Visitors to the Armstrong home at 919 Carson street were barred today, presumably on doctors' orders, and only members of the family—the County Commissioner's young wife, his daughter, Dorothy, and his son, along with two nurses—were near his bedside.

Slayer of Druggist Sentenced to Life

David L. Bedford, 24, Negro, who pleaded guilty to the murder of Harry Seigel, 28, manager of the Walgreen drugstore at Sixth avenue and Wood street, was sentenced to life imprisonment today by Judge Harry H. Rowand.

Bedford, who shot down Seigel in an attempted holdup of the store after hiding in the basement until closing time, thanked the court for "the leniency."

Lost English Girl Visitor Found in Lodging House

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 17.—(INS.)—Miss Rosemary Pamela (Pam) Gilding, missing 17-year-old daughter of a London (England) banker, and object of a widespread search, was found this afternoon in a lodging house here.

Miss Gilding vanished mysteriously last Saturday afternoon from the home of Prof. and Mrs. Hamilton Crawford MacDougall. She had been traced here, having spent the weekend at a local hotel. She left the hotel yesterday forenoon in a taxicab for the Union Station and at first was thought to have boarded a train for New York.

Word of the finding of Miss Gilding was sent to Prof. MacDougall in Wellesley.

Clerks at the hotel said she talked with no one, and spent a great deal of time sitting in the lobby reading papers.

A letter, postmarked Boston and mailed at 12:30 a. m. Sunday, was received by Prof. MacDougall yesterday. In the letter Miss Gilding wrote that she was homesick and planned to return to London. She had been a house guest at the MacDougalls for 14 weeks, and was to stay another month and a half.

Downtown Begging Banned In Drastic Walsh Order

Begging on the streets has been banned by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh, in the most drastic order he has issued during the period of unemployment.

Arrest of all panhandlers, whether blind, crippled or unemployed, has been ordered and the public is requested to call the nearest policeman in making the order effective. The offenders are to be charged with violating a city ordinance.

Walsh said:

"There is no need at this time for such a condition. We have many charitable institutions working to relieve suffering. If a person is hungry or wants a bed he can get it at the Helping Hand, or if a man needs medical attention he can get it there. The practice of begging must stop at once."

Walsh pointed out that the city has appropriated money for the care of the blind and that business and civic leaders are giving their time and money to care for the unemployed.

FIGHT ON TWO-THIRDS VOTE LOOMS IN DEMOCRATIC PARLEY

MAJORITY RULE IN PARTY WILL BE SOUGHT

Popular Will Often Beaten Under Old Practice, With Discord, Bossism Results

By LOUIS SEIBOLD
Universal Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A definite and concerted move to remodel some of the undemocratic machinery of the Democratic party is certain to be made in the presidential convention next summer.

It will be in the form of a resolution to repeal the two-thirds rule which governs and sometimes stops the selection of a candidate is used by the majority of the delegates.

The necessity for this change is conceded by most members of the party who believe an intelligent effort should be made to make the Democratic party democratic in fact as well as in theory.

CAUSE OF DISCORD

The five reasons which will be advanced to support the demand for the substitution of majority for two-thirds are as follows:

1—The two-thirds rule is undemocratic because it defeats the popular choice for presidential nominee.

2—Because it promotes factional discord and engenders disastrous personal feuds.

3—Because it discriminates against the Democratic doctrine of fair play.

4—Because it encourages undemocratic dictation and arbitrary control through deals and combinations.

5—Because it makes the name "Democratic" a misnomer.

For a century (May next) the Democratic party has compelled successful presidential candidates to obtain two-thirds of the votes in a nominating convention.

MAINTAINS CONFIDENCE

Throughout its history the Democratic party has persistently proclaimed its confidence in the rule of the majority thus described by Locke:

"The majority, having the whole power of the community, may employ all their power in making laws and executing these laws, and there, the form of the government, is a perfect democracy."

In marked contrast to its articulate professions supporting this cardinal democratic principle, the present-day party organization presumably intends to select its next Presidential candidate under the archaic and obsolete two-thirds rule, unless it is changed.

The nominating convention to be held next year has full authority to substitute democratic majority for the undemocratic two-thirds system.

CHAINED BY HABIT

Probably the greater part of Democratic leaders of today fully appreciate the injustice and inappropriateness of the two-thirds nominating rule. Habit, tradition and expediency now provide the sole reasons for upholding the process. It is as out of date as the fuzzy beaver hat and the crinoline skirt.

No earnest effort has ever been made to modernize the machinery by which Democratic presidential candidates are chosen. It is more than likely that one will be organized before and during the deliberations of the nominating convention.

The question is becoming the subject of lively debate among Democratic leaders. Presidential preferences, plus factional disputes, undoubtedly have an indirect bearing on these discussions.

BOSSES ALLIANCE SEEN

Powerful state bosses controlling important blocks of delegates are believed already to have effected a combination to prevent any candidate from getting the necessary two-thirds vote, unless he measures up to their demands and those of their financial allies. Under the two-thirds system, the prospects for the success of this venture are decidedly favorable.

The survival of the two-thirds rule for a century is conceded by many leaders in the party to be a glaring anomaly in its so-called democratic doctrines.

(In tomorrow's article Mr. Seibold will tell how the two-thirds rule has defeated the popular will on several occasions in Democratic national conventions.)

in the tax collecting agency how the sales tax is administered.

HEARST SPONSORS TOUR

The Congressmen are making a week's tour of industrial centers in Canada upon invitation of William Randolph Hearst. With the sales tax being considered in Washington as a means for wiping out a huge treasury deficit, the present tour assumed unusual interest.

Tonight the government of the Dominion will give a dinner for the visitors, with E. B. Ryckman, minister of national revenue, presiding in the absence of Prime Minister Bennett, who is abroad.

Members of his cabinet and also members of His Majesty's Privy Council will attend.

Tomorrow the doors to the Dominion's tax-collecting agency will be thrown open to the United States legislators. Officials have declared a truce from their duties of collecting the taxes to tell the visitors how the sales tax has operated.

In Montreal the visitors heard from bankers and businessmen that the sales tax had proven a successful method of gathering money for the public coffers.

ENTERTAINMENT PLANNED

After a day of intensive study of the sales tax here tomorrow, the Americans will return to Montreal via the Canadian National Railways to attend a theater party Wednesday night.

After the performance the party will go to Quebec, where a round of elaborate entertainment awaits them.

Though the Senators and Representatives are here primarily to study the sales tax so that they may be supplied with facts for the impending struggle in Congress over taxation, all through their tour there have been frequent references to the cordial relations between the United States and Canada.

In Quebec the visitors will be received on the floor of the provincial legislative assembly, which now is in session, by L. A. Taschereau, Premier of Quebec, and members of his cabinet.

H. L. Carroll, lieutenant-governor of the Province of Quebec, will receive the visiting lawmakers at his official residence. The party leaves Quebec Thursday night for the United States.

NOTABLES AT DINNER

In Montreal last night Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, gave a dinner with many of the prominent citizens of Montreal attending. These included Sir Charles B. Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal; Chief Justice Greenshields, of the Superior Court of Quebec; E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway; R. J. Manion, minister of railways and canals in the Dominion cabinet, and Alfred Duranteau, minister of marine and fisheries.

NATRONA BOMB PLOT FOILED

A terrific explosion was narrowly averted early today by the discovery of a lighted fuse, leading to a half-barrel of gasoline and 19 pounds of gunpowder on the first floor of a grocery and meat store at 83 Garfield street, Natrona.

The fuse, leading from the backyard, was found shortly after 3 a. m. by Policeman Edward Hilman, of Harrison Township. The store, on the first floor, was operated by Theodore Phillips. The second floor served as a warehouse.

Phillips was held today for investigation as Harrison Township police and Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr investigated further.

barred by Judge Charles G. Baker because the present trial of West concerns only his alleged relations with Miss Williams.

Another indictment accuses him of impropriety with Miss Garfield.

Cross-examined by defense attorneys, Smith denied that he had made improper advances to Miss Williams, was spurned and sought, as a result, to incriminate her.

State Senator Mansfield McNeely asked him:

"Didn't you join with Dr. McCorkle to 'railroad' Dr. West out of the school by picking on Miss Williams because you had a grudge against her?"

Smith answered:

"I did not."

O. D. Harris, 60, another of the "peepers," yesterday told of seeing West and Miss Garfield on an upholstered wicker divan, partially disrobed.

Jesse H. May, third of the ceiling spies, followed Harris and told of the peculiar construction of the principal's office. He said:

"Why, the only way we could look into that room was through the peephole.

"There were four doors, but there wasn't even one keyhole."

The only testimony concerning Dr. West and Miss Williams was that of School Superintendent Charles E. McCorkle, who testified to the allegations coming from Smith, after his "peeping" from the cubby-hole above the principal's office.

It was generally believed that should West beat the present case against him, the second charge will be dropped, along with similar ones against the two women teachers.

Four times during the trial yesterday County Prosecutor Albert Shuman and his assistant, John D. Downes, sought to bring out evidence of the school principal's alleged misconduct with women on his teaching staff, but each time the allegations were stifled on the lips of witnesses because they did not involve Miss Williams.

Stress was laid by defense counsel in their cross-examination of the peepers on their authority in assuming charge of the so-called investigation of Morgantown High School's morals. United States Senator Mansfield M. Neely, in the cross-examination of Harris, thundered:

"Who gave you authority to deface and mutilate school property? Did Supt. McCorkle tell you to do it?"

Harris, surprised, replied:

"No, sir."

"Then who told you to do it?"

TOLD TO GET FACTS

"Nobody told me to do it—I did it myself when Dr. McCorkle told me to get the facts."

During cross-examination of Harris, Senator Neely sarcastically inquired:

"Your work of sweeping rooms, emptying waste baskets and cuspidors had nothing to do with upholding the morality of Morgantown's public school system, had it?"

To which the gray-haired janitor replied heatedly:

"I have a daughter and my friends have children in school and I want things to be right!"

U. S. RELAXING OPPOSITION TO JAPAN

Change Startles League; Russia Protests to Tokio Over Army Movements

PARIS, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Portents of changes in the attitudes of the United States and Russia today threw fresh anxiety over the League of Nations Council, which is facing the test of its dozen years' existence in an effort to restore peace in Manchuria.

Reliable indications appeared overnight that the United States was relaxing its firm stand for Japanese evacuation of the disputed area and that Russia is beginning to bestir herself against Japanese military activities close to the Siberian frontier.

The members of the council, without the Chinese and Japanese representatives, met privately at the Quai D'Orsay shortly before noon. The meeting followed private individual conversations of Ambassador Dawes and Chairman Briand with the Chinese and Japanese spokesmen, Dr. Sze and Ambassador Yoshizawa.

CO-OPERATION ABSENT

The impression gained ground that Ambassador Dawes and the United States government are not inclined to co-operate closely with the league in its efforts to settle the controversy, and a report was received from a high authority that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, has filed a protest at Tokio regarding Japanese army movements in the region of the Chinese Eastern Railway, which is in the Russian sphere of influence in Manchuria.

This news led to the belief that Russia would not keep her hands off the situation indefinitely if the league and the United States failed to halt the Japanese advance.

Chinese Attack Japanese Army, Tokio Reports

TOKIO, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The Japanese war office said today Gen. Mah Chan-Shan's Chinese forces advanced to a point 10 miles from the Japanese position at Taluing, just north of the Nonni River Bridge, and began an attack threatening to envelop the Japanese right flank.

Dispatches to the Rengo News Agency from Harbin, Manchuria, however, stated that Gen. Mah's army began a retreat northward toward Anganchi after Gen. Mah had accepted the truce demands laid down last week by Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander.

The war office official dispatches said the Chinese cavalry attacked at Shung Huayuan, east of Tahsing, yesterday morning and inflicted 10 casualties before they were repulsed.

Several air force detachments left Hammatsu, Tachairi and Pingwan, Japan, this morning for Manchuria. The groups included scout, bombing and fighting planes, although the strength of the expedition was not given.

DOG ESCAPES EXECUTIONER

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Roxie, pedigreed German shepherd dog, has escaped the executioner.

A month ago the papers printed Roxie's picture and told how Justice Paul Shafer had sentenced the dog to death on a charge of viciousness. Dog lovers took up Roxie's cause, and letters from all parts of the country deluged Justice Shafer.

Wayne Rosenbaum, Battle Creek college student and master of Roxie, was presented with funds for an appeal of Roxie's case, which was granted. Roxie was furnished with a $200 appeal bond.

Yesterday, three days before Roxie's trial was to come up in Circuit Court, Rosenbloom announced that Roxie was no longer in Michigan, and requested dismissal of the case as being outside the court's jurisdiction. Court attaches said his request would be granted, since the trial, which probably would cost the county $300, would prove too much of an expense.

ASK STATE AID IN BANK CRISIS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Liberality by the State Banking Department in liquidating closed banks was requested today in a resolution offered in the House.

The measure, introduced by Representative Peters, of Montgomery County, asked the House to petition Secretary of Banking Gordon to consider the "depressive effect" of "untimely" foreclosing on overdue mortgages held by banking institutions which have been closed. It declared:

"Such abortive attempt at collection will result in heavy present losses to the banking institutions, and the repressive effect of such a policy on real estate values in this commonwealth will very materially add to the existing unfortunate condition of financial chaos."

Bank Robberies Held Solved by Arrests

DETROIT, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Bank robberies in Michigan, Kansas and Oklahoma involving nearly $40,000 were believed by police to have been solved today in the arrest of James S. Hall and James McCoy in connection with the holdup of the First National Bank at Mt. Clemens, Mich., September 16.

Hall, McCoy, Hall's wife, Margaret, and McCoy's fiancee, Virginia Dodds, were arrested last night in Hall's house by police, who waited in Hall's home for two days, holding the women and McCoy prisoners and waiting for Hall's return.

Marrying Plumber Goes Back for Ring

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Now comes the story of the plumber who went to his wedding, forgot his ring and had to go back after it.

John Warner, the plumber, and his intended, Verencia Mary O'Shaughnessy, stood before a Superior Court Judge before it was discovered Warner had forgotten the ring. Making excuses, he took an hour off, went after the band, returned and was wed.

Britain Not Planning Return to Gold Basis

LONDON, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, indicated in the House of Commons today the British government does not contemplate an early return to the gold standard.

In answer to a question, he said the government considers that no useful purpose would be served at present by calling an international conference to stabilize the price of silver, or the possibility of the establishment of a silver standard for currency in the Far East.

5th Bakery Bombed In Philadelphia War

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Several persons were hurt and windows over a wide area were broken today when a bomb exploded on a truck outside the bakery of Sebastian Caltabino.

The bombing was the fifth in recent weeks. All were reported by police to have been the work of New York racketeers imported by a secret organization which has been seeking to raise the price of Italian bread.

Hitler's Lieutenant Indicted for Treason

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Joseph Goebbels, member of the Reichstag and first lieutenant to Adolf Hitler, was indicted by the Attorney General today on charges of treason in connection with printed statements considered to be incitations to bloodshed.

Canada Hails Americans As Good Will Envoys

Universal Service.

MONTREAL, Nov. 17.—Montreal newspapers today hailed the arrival of American Congressmen to study the Canadian sales tax as a mission that will be productive of much international good will.

Besides devoting extended space to news of the doings of the Americans, the Montreal Daily Star, largest conservative paper in Canada, said editorially:

"Montreal extends the hand of cordial greeting and friendship to one of the largest parties of American Congressmen ever to visit this city. The representative character of the delegation, the presence of the American Minister to Canada, Col. Hanford MacNider, and the fact that both federal and provincial governments and influential private citizens are taking official cognizance of their presence by entertaining the visitors, lend to this event a more than ordinary interest.

"The purpose of the visit is to study the operation of our sales tax which has no counterpart in the United States. But we hope that the gentlemen from Washington will also find the present a felicitous occasion upon which to establish contracts that may have pleasant reactions later on.

"A good deal can be done, even in such a brief period as that allotted for their stay among us to wipe out misunderstandings and to create new impressions which should be mutually beneficial. The Congressmen come from all parts of the United States and thus represent many types of community. We shall find them all animated by the American spirit, however, and we should do all in our power to make their stay here a happy memory."

Oxygen Crew Saving Life Of Man, Second Dies

Efforts of firemen from No. 5 Engine Company to save the life of a 73-year-old pneumonia victim appeared successful today.

Since 8 a. m. Monday, at two-hour intervals, the rescue crew has been pumping oxygen into the weakened form of John Cotz in his home at 61 Congress street. Nurses reported Cotz appeared much improved today.

Another rescue crew, using an inhalator, failed to resuscitate C. Z. Yost, 65, of Morris Camp Grounds, Oakmont, after he had suffered a fatal heart attack in a dentist chair at the Dr. M. Friedlander parlors, 130 Fifth avenue, last night.

Detectives said the attack occurred before the dentist had begun work.

'HORSEMAN'S HAZE' DEFENSE OF ALLEN IN SOCIETY KILLING

PLEA RECALLS HARRY THAW'S 'BRAINSTORM'

Sister Reconciled With Accused Brother as She Visits Him in Prison

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—"Horseman's haze."

That will be the defense offered for 23 year-old Edward Allen, charged with the murder of his sister's sweetheart, Francis A. Donaldson III, it was reported today.

Like the famous "brainstorm" defense offered in behalf of Harry K. Thaw, "horseman's haze" may occupy a chapter of its own in the country's legal history.

The defense already has won its first victory—a decisive one although out of court—a reconciliation between Allen and his 18-year-old sister, Rose.

VISITS BROTHER

Rose, breaking her announced determination to have nothing to do with her brother, visited him yesterday in his cell in the Norristown jail. Leaving, she said:

"I am here because I love my brother."

It is understood quiet preparations still are going forward for her projected trip abroad. She is to be gone when the time comes for "Eddie's" trial. This alone will help "Eddie's" case tremendously, since it would be a sore blow to the defense if his own sister were to testify against him.

Attorney John R. K. Scott, already laying the groundwork for the "horseman's haze" defense, said today:

"Eddie Allen has suffered three concussions of the brain. The last time was at Saratoga, last August, when he suffered not only a concussion, but a broken leg.

'BUSTED' TWICE

"He also was 'busted'—'busted' is the horseman's term for concussion—twice at Philadelphia. Each time he was unconscious an hour and a half or more.

"Persons suffering concussion often are paralyzed as a result. They become foggy, you might say they become 'punch-drunk' from horses. Eddie Allen was in that condition on the night Donaldson died."

Allen has been considered one of the best riders in the Philadelphia society horseman's set. All of the accidents mentioned occurred during society steeplechases.

Allen was to have been given another formal hearing today to keep the legal record straight, but it was not held.

When Lower Merion Township officers called at the Montgomery County prison today to take Allen to a magistrate in Ardmore, the warden refused to hand over the prisoner. The warden said the commitment papers read that Allen was committed for court and he would not let him out of his hands without a court order.

The decision caused considerable confusion, as Magistrate Cronin was holding court at Ardmore awaiting the arrival of Allen. Apparently he had forgotten about marking the papers "committed for court."

FOOTBALL TOLL GROWS TO 13

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—James Nichols, of Fort Wayne, Ind., center on the University of Alabama freshman football team, who was injured in a scrimmage with the varsity Armistice Day, died early today.

Nichols received an injury to his spine and was paralyzed from his waist down. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chase Nichols, of Fort Wayne, were at his bedside.

His death brings to 13 the number of deaths from football this fall.

Nichols' fatal injury was received in a practice session on Armistice Day, the same date on which C. V. Smith, tackle of Millsaps College, received a fatal injury to his neck in a game between his team and Stetson at Deland, Fla.

Three Held After Punch Board Raids

Raids by county detectives last night resulted in arrest of three men and seizure of punch boards and lottery equipment. Those arrested are Adam Masurich, Turtle Creek, Armin Roth, and James Lehers, of East Pittsburgh.

taken it from her husband's car to prevent him from leaving on a hunting trip with Walker.

Through hours of relentless questioning by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, his assistants and county detectives yesterday, she has stood by her story that an argument had started Saturday night about the hunting trip.

It grew noisy as highballs were served, county detectives said; so noisy it brought protests from neighbors.

The next day, Mrs. Culbertson told her questioners, the quarrel was resumed.

FRIENDS OFFER BAIL

Finally, after cutting wires on her husband's auto, Mrs. Culbertson said she attempted to hide his gun. She was hiding the weapon when her husband saw her. There was a struggle, and the weapon discharged. The shot ripped through Culbertson's chest, and he died almost instantly.

On the strength of that story hosts of friends of Mrs. Culbertson stormed the office of the District Attorney, offering bail in any amount. But the Coroner wasn't satisfied with the prisoner's story, and she was hastened off to jail without bail on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Walker was put under subpena by the Coroner and under bond by the District Attorney's office as a material witness.

Meanwhile, Coroner W. J. McGregor says he will conduct his own investigation of the fatal shooting to determine whether or not Mrs. Culbertson will be released on bail pending the inquest.

The Coroner contemplates a visit and examination of the Culbertsons' modern home in Jefferson drive, which county detectives yesterday were ordered to seal.

Included in the Coroner's investigation will be a probe into several scratches found on Culbertson's face when the body was received at the Coroner's office for an inquest.

Ex-Pugilist, Woman Face Moral Charges

Joe Keally, 52, former boxer and at present a boxing referee, and Mrs. Mary Anderson, 32, were to be arraigned tomorrow before the United States Commissioner on moral charges which were said to have been the outgrowth of a trip the couple took to Indiana.

Department of Justice agents and the United States Attorney's office charge that the couple went on an automobile trip on which they were accompanied by Mrs. Anderson's 12-year-old daughter.

GREEK EX-KING PLANNING DIVORCE

Former Monarch Reported Bringing Action Against Princess, Sister of Carol

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
International News Service.

VIENNA, Nov. 17.—Former King George of Greece is planning to obtain a divorce from his wife, former Princess Elizabeth of Rumania, sister of King Carol II, it was reported here today.

Information circulating in Rumanian court circles hint the ex-King already has taken the first legal steps looking toward a divorce, his decision coming as a result of strife that has split the Hohenzollern family.

Reliable reports declared that Princess Helen, divorced wife of King Carol, was largely instrumental in bringing George to his decision. She is reported openly antagonistic toward the Hohenzollerns as a result of ceaseless attacks upon her by members of the family because of her refusel to consent to a reconciliation with King Carol.

SPLIT WIDENS

The family split widened when former Princess Ileana left Bucharest to take up residence in Munich with her husband, the Archduke Anton of Hapsburg. For many years Ileana has been the "peacemaker" in the royal Rumanian household, smoothing over to the best of her ability the periodic disputes between King Carol and Helen and the King's mother, the Dowager Queen Marie.

An "S. O. S." was reported to have been sent to Ileana in Munich shortly after Prince Nicholas eloped with Mme. Jana Lucia Deleti, Rumanian divorcee, thus incurring the displeasure of King Carol, his brother. Queen Marie, according to reports, sent an urgent message to Princess Ileana, asking her to return to Bucharest to forestall an open breach between the brothers.

EX-KING IN LONDON

Ex-King George, according to information here, is now in London, while Princess Elizabeth and Princess Helen are in Bucharest.

The former Grecian monarch was married to King Carol's sister at Bucharest on February 27, 1921. A revolution took place the following year, and George abdicated his throne on September 28, 1922. Since that time, he has divided his days between London and the Riviera, never stopping for more than a few weeks in any one place, and thus earning himself the sobriquet of Europe's "Royal Tripper."

8 LOST IN FOG 2 DAYS SAVED

CAPE MAY, N. J., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The three high school teachers and five young men, missing since Sunday in a motor launch, have been found safe in a lighthouse in Delaware Bay.

The Coast Guard patrol boat No. 107 radioed the information to Coast Guard base No. 9 here. The lighthouse is known as Fourteen-Foot Bank Light. It is in the middle of Delaware Bay, which is 20 miles wide and about 17 miles from the Delaware Capes.

A boat was sent from Cape May to the lighthouse to tow the launch either to Cape May or to Bivalve, from which place the party of eight left Sunday afternoon for a short cruise in Delaware Bay.

Student Revolt Grips Two More Ohio Colleges

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Collegiate rebellion against established social order, which already has made the welkin ring at two Ohio institutions, spread to new fronts today.

Within the staid corridors of Wooster College, the battle-cry is:

"We want co-educational meals."

The alternative put up to trustees of Ohio Northern University, where a 33-year College ban on dancing is under fire is:

"Campus dances or road-house parties."

There are still occasional rumblings at Ohio State University against compulsory military training, which last spring became the subject of heated mass meetings and student ultimatums.

At Heidelberg College, where the president's house was stoned by irate students last year, war is still beieng waged against a campus ban on cigaret smoking, card playing and other taboos. College authorities, however, have given the students serious consideration in their ideas.

Current outbreaks are confined to Ohio Northern and Wooster.

Co-educational dining received an 89 per cent majority in campus balloting at Wooster, and men and women's representatives have begun preparation of a plan to lay before the faculty.

Proponents of "mixed eating" declare it will lead to an improvement in the college social life.

A battle of petitions is at full blast on Ohio Northern's campus, and 800 students have laid their proposal for campus dancing before the board of trustees after being turned down by President Robert Williams.

2 Girls 'Hopping' Freights Arrested

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Two New Rochelle, N. Y., girls who set out to see the country by "hopping freights" were in the hands of police today. Mildred Gracey, 19, was taken from the top of a box car on the Pennsylvania railroad, at Thorndale, near here. Her companion, Doretta Schmidt, 21, was captured as she ran down the tracks trying to get on the freight.

DREISER MAY TEST LAW ON SYNDICALISM

Author and Associates, Indicted in Kentucky, Plan to Fight Extradition

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—If Bell County officials are successful in extraditing Theodore Dreiser and members of his committee which investigated conditions in the eastern Kentucky coal fields, a test of Kentucky's criminal syndicalism statute is in prospect.

Dreiser's committee while here asked the authorities why several men they had previously charged with criminal syndicalism were released on promises to leave the state. Commonwealth's attorney, W. A. Brock, replied that if any returned they would be tried.

Samuel Ornitz, a member of the committee, said "That's just what we want you to do," adding that it would afford an opportunity for a court test of the law.

OTHERS INDICTED

Dreiser and Ornitz are among 10 members of the committee indicted here yesterday on criminal syndicalism charges. Others indicted were John Dos Passos, George Maurer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rumford Walker, Celia Kuhn, M. P. Levy, Marie Pergain and A. Gohns.

There was no member of the committee with the latter name but A. Gannes, National Miners' Union representative, made addresses at meetings conducted by the committee at which the indictments charge acts of criminal syndicalism were committed.

Dreiser and Marie Pergain are under Bell County indictments charging immorality also, but this offense is not extraditiable.

CHARGE CRIME COUNSEL

The criminal syndicalism indictments charge the group with "aiding and counseling crime, physical violence, arson, destruction of property, intimidation, terrorism and other unlawful acts," and "advising and suggesting disorder and resistance" to the state and federal governments. The writs also charge the group with urging overthrow or change of the government "by force and violence."

The group announced last night at New York they would resist extradition, and asked Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for a personal hearing. They said the charges were an attempt to "becloud" the committee's findings.

PARENTS AWAIT COURT CHARGE OF TORTURE

Rileys Face Prison, Fine If Guilty of Confining And Beating 'Closet Baby'

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Justice has bared its sword on behalf of a little child.

Harry N. and Mrs. Elsie Riley, father and stepmother of little Edith Riley, 12-year-old alleged victim of parental cruelty, are to be arraigned before the District of Columbia Supreme Court Friday and charged with "feloniously torturing, cruelly beating, abusing and otherwise wilfully maltreating" the "cupboard child," so named because of her alleged solitary confinement in a closet.

Indictments against the father and stepmother were returned by a District of Columbia grand jury after a week's deliberations. They must stand trial for allegedly inflicting heinous cruelties on the child over a period of four years.

Edith is slowly recovering at Gallinger Hospital.

GRANDI EVADES PEACE PACT QUERIES

Italian Foreign Minister Says Economic Recovery Hinges on Debts, Armament

By HOBART C. MONTEE
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Disarmament, reparations and intergovernmental debts were declared by Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, to be the outstanding problems in the way of a worldwide economic recovery.

These subjects, Grandi indicated in an interview with newspapermen at the State Department, will occupy most of his conversations with President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson. He said, however, that these conversations were intended to cover "all questions," but appealed to the American press not to put him in "a difficult position" by inquiring too pointedly into some of the more widely known political questions of Europe.

He deftly evaded an attempt to question him on Italy's desire for a revision of the Versailles treaty.

Grandi announced that his "only purpose in America is to work for the peaceful cooperation of all nations of the world for the recovery and return of economic prosperity."

CALLS ON HUGHES

Signor Grandi today called upon Chief Justice Hughes of the Supreme Court and laid a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

He was to resume his conferences with President Hoover late this afternoon but the conversations were postponed until 9:15 tomorrow morning.

Grandi's consultations with American officials actually began last night first with a formal call upon President Hoover, within a few minutes of his arrival, and later, at a dinner at the Stimson home. There, Grandi and his signora met Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah and Senator and Mrs. David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania.

FEAR FOR SAFETY

Fear of the State Department for the safety of Grandi was evidenced again today when official pressure was brought to bear on the international committee of anti-fascist protest to postpone its scheduled meeting here today.

The committee intended to pass resolutions condemning Senor Grandi's presence in the United States and his recognition by the American government on grounds he participated in the "castor oil policy" of Mussolini and used other violent tactics to crush Fascist opposition in the days before Mussolini became dictator.

ACTRESS TELLS OF MOORE GIFT

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Her kindness to the late Alexander P. Moore, American Ambassador to Spain, prompted his gift of a $25,000 necklace, Beth Leary, actress, testified yesterday in an examination before Supreme Court Justice Richard H. Mitchell.

Pressed by counsel for Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of Lillian Russell and stepdaughter of Moore, who is suing for recovery of the necklace, to explain the kindness referred to, Miss Leary refused and was sustained by the court.

Miss Leary, daughter of Daniel J. Leary, banker and lumberman, is socially prominent here and abroad.

The disputed necklace, Mrs. Calvit claims, is part of jewels belonging to her mother which were distributed by Moore to other women after his wife's death.

Miss Leary quoted Moore as saying:

"You've been very kind to me; I want to show you my appreciation. I want you to accept this necklace."

Fog Again Delays Lindbergh Flight

HICKSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—For the second successive day fog balked the flying plans of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today.

Yesterday Col. Lindbergh was here ready to fly Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, of Italy, to Washington, but fog prevented. Today he planned to return to the South, from which he was hastily recalled to undertake the Grandi mission, but again fog stood in his way.

Mayor Held in Two Deaths From Fumes

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Poison fumes seeping through a forgotten hotel room pipe from a room being fumigated yesterday, brought death to Earl Bowman, 22, and his 15-year-old brother Eugene, in quarters on the floor above.

The District Attorney's office ordered Ray B. Darby, Mayor of Inglewood, a suburb, and operator of the fumigation company, held on a charge of suspicion of manslaughter.

Europe Safe From War For Century, Koenig Says

There will not be another war in Europe for 100 years, declared Capt. Paul Koenig, commander of the German merchant submarine Deutschland, which made two trips to America before United States entered the World War.

Capt. Koenig is in Pittsburgh to talk on conditions in Germany before the Technischer Verein tonight at the Smithfield Street German Evangelical Protestant Church.

The submarine always will be a powerful weapon in war, Capt. Koenig believes. Its usefulness as a commercial carrier, however, he thinks, will be confined to war times, when small and valuable cargoes may be carried through blockaded waters. He said:

"Don't be afraid of the European powers having another war in this generation. Even France, well-armed as she is, steers away from it. There is enough to do to rebuild what has been destroyed."

Capt. Koenig, now director of the nautical department of the North German Lloyd, startled America when he landed his merchant submarine at Baltimore in the World War. With the Allied navies combing the seas for him, he made a second trip, bobbing up at New London, Conn.

Regarding these trips, Capt. Koenig says:

"We had some narrow escapes. The worst danger was the mines in the North Sea. We had good luck, that's all."

Capt. Koenig visited Pittsburgh in 1924. His talk tonight will be in the German language in which he says he can express himself better, although he speaks fluent English.

'Bluebeard' Victim's Dog, Lonesome, Put to Death

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The black bulldog left as the sole survivor of the family of Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher when she and her three children were lured by Harry F. Powers to Clarksburg, W. Va., and slain, was killed today.

Lonesome since the departure several months ago of its former owners, the dog became ill and so weak its new owners, Mrs. Madeline Newell and her children, decided it would be more humane to have it put to death. Mrs. Newell said the animal spent much of its time wandering aimlessly about the now deserted Eicher home.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Harry F. Powers, quintuple slayer, today won a partial victory in his fight for a change of venue.

Judge John C. Southern set Saturday to hear testimony in support of a petition asking that Powers' trial, scheduled for this city December 7, be removed to another county. Defense counsel contends Powers cannot receive a fair trial here because of what they termed inflamed public sentiment.

The public was unaware of today's move as Powers was taken from the county jail into court accompanied by the usual heavy armed guard.

HOUSE BLOCKS RELIEF TAX ACTION

PINCHOT WINS TEST

First test came in the House of Tween those leaders favoring and opposing the executive plan resulted in victory for the administration.

That test came in the House of Representatives. By the overwhelming margin of 167 to 76 the House shelved a resolution taking issue with the governor's program.

Soon after that the House passed finally the first measure included in the list of 19 submitted by Mr. Pinchot by unanimous vote. Providing for the calling of an inter-state conference for "rehabilitation of the bituminous coal industry the measure was considered one of the least controversial of the group.

SENATE PROGRESS

The progress on the Governor's legislation was not confined to the House, however. The more hostile Senate, which has been the scene recently of the introduction of a number of resolutions and other measures criticizing the executive plan, appeared one of the Governor's bills to the point where it may be acted on finally next Monday. This was a proposal permitting local communities to postpone tax sales of property for one year in times of depression.

In addition, it received from committee and passed on first reading bills providing an appropriation for $2,000,000 to state-aided hospitals and releasing $1,500,000 for construction work at the Pymatuning dam.

SENATE ACTION

Reflecting an indication that it does not intend to confine its deliberations to the Governor's program, the Senate took the same action on two non-administration measures. One would appropriate $4,500,000 for a new state office building at Harrisburg and the other $515,000 for construction at the Torrance State Hospital.

Meanwhile the House received from committee two other administration bills. One of these a proposal to permit the state to construct streets and highways, whether they are on the state system or not, was reported favorable for passage by the Highway Committee after vigorous debate in the closed session for and against that bill. The Pymatuning Dam proposal similar to one in the Senate also came out for passage.

MUSMANNO RESOLUTION

In the House Musmanno, Allegheny, called up his resolution asking the General Assembly to memorialize Congress to pass a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for national unemployment relief work.

Representative Hefferan, Washington, moved to commit the resolution to the Rules Committee and the House approved the motion by a vote of 119 to 28.

Both houses adjourned soon after noon for the week. They will reconvene next Monday at 9 p. m.

Plot to Free Author From Prison Foiled

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—District Attorney Earl Warren, of Alameda County, has announced discovery of a plot which he said sought the release of Ernest Booth, nationally known author, from Folsom Prison, where he is serving a sentence on a robbery charge.

Warren Mulvey, 38, a former San Quentin Prison convict, arrested in San Francisco, was declared to have possessed all legal papers in connection with the Booth case. Warren said Mulvey attempted to change the official record to leave legal loopholes which, when brought into court, would result in the release of the convict.

Italy's $26,000,000 Credit Pool Raised

ROME, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The capital of Italy's new credit institution, organized by Premier Mussolini to ease the country's economic situation has been underwritten in its entirety—$26,000,000.

In view of its having been raised within a week after the institution was decided upon, the amount of the capital may be increased, a government statement said.

Man Runs Against Auto in Fog Dies

YORK, Pa., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—His vision impaired by a heavy fog, Harry Urich, 61, ran against an automobile this morning with such force that he was killed. He was on his way to work and was running to board a street car. The man's head shattered the glass in a front door of the automobile, and his skull was fractured.

Auto Plants to Call 7,000 Back to Jobs

DETROIT, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—W. J. McAneeny, president of the Hudson Motor Car Company, told 300 Hudson and Essex distributors today that 7,000 men will be returned to work in the company plants here within the next few days.

More than 2,000 men were given employment yesterday, McAneeny said.

Brazil Finance Minister Resigns

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Jose Maria Whitaker, who is well known in banking circles in London, Paris and New York, resigned yesterday as minister of finance because of ill health. Oswaldo Aranha, minister of justice, will take over the portfolio temporarily.

TRADE REVIVAL SEEN BY INSULL

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(INS.)—Authentic evidences of a marked revival in business are seen in various parts of the country, Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Company, stated today.

The utility executive drew his conclusions from reports of investigations made in 31 states scattered from Maine to Texas and from Florida to North Dakota.

The favorable changes are taking place at a much earlier stage of the upswing than has been the case in previous depressions, he stated.

MISSING, FOUND DEAD OF FUMES

Missing from his home since Friday night, Frank Seidel, Jr., 34, electrician and radio supply merchant of 1357 Tennessee avenue, Dormont, was found dead early today from monoxide gas in a garage half a block from his home.

The body slumped behind the steering wheel of his automobile, was found by Police Chief Ralph Miller of Dormont Police Department.

The garage doors were closed, the ignition was turned on, and the gasoline tank of the car was empty, according to a Coroner's report. At the morgue the death was classified as accidental, due to monoxide poisoning.

Seidel was not married. He lived with his father, the proprietor of the Seidel Electric Company, West Liberty avenue, Dormont.

Congressman Clyde Kelly and James M. Mead of Buffalo, N. Y., will be among the guests. The dinner is being sponsored by all the postal groups affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Virginia Lee Sues Theater Over Fall

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(INS.)—Virginia Lee, blonde stage actress, has filed a damage suit for $150,665 against the Fox Theater at Detroit, Mich., charging she tripped on the stage and was hurt in such a way that her beauty was marred. The suit was filed in the United States District Court here.

3 Women Outtalk 10 Men, Test By Watch Proves

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Once again the woman has had the last word.

This female prerogative was brought into prominence yesterday when a stop watch was used to record the length of time each member of the Board of County Commissioners talked during a one-hour session at routine committee meetings.

And three of the four women members outtalked their 10 male associates, 3 to 2.

The test was made at the suggestion of a male Commissioner who begged that his name be withheld from publication for obvious reasons.

The three leading women contributed 3,162 seconds against 2,085 for the 10 men.

PHONE NUMBER IDENTIFIES MAN

A telephone number today led to identification of a Pittsburgh man whose crushed body was found on a gondola in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yard at Willard, O.

He was identified as John McBride, 56, brother of Mrs. Katherine Brown, of 307 Main street, Bloomfield.

In the notebook were Mrs. Brown's name and address and a telephone number. When the number proved that of Mrs. Brown's sister in Fairport Harbor, O., she told the Sun-Telegraph there could be no doubt that the man was her brother.

McBride apparently had been crushed to death beneath the steel beams in the car when they shifted.

TRUNK MURDER TRIAL DEC. 15

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Over the objections of her attorneys, the trial date of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, alleged "trunk murderess" of Mrs. Agnes Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, was set yesterday for December 15. Mrs. Judd pleaded not guilty to murder charges.

Judge Howard Speakman granted her attorneys 10 days in which to change her plea after Herman Lewkowitz stipulated Mrs. Judd be granted the privilege of filing a demurrer or any dilatory plea or to change the plea of not guilty to one of guilty.

Mrs. Judd confessed slaying her two best friends in Phoenix and sending their bodies to Los Angeles in trunks. She surrendered to police in Los Angeles.

Man Housekeeper, Wife Worker, Romance Off

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Judge Joseph Sabath was told yesterday that it's discouraging for a young woman to come home after a hard day at the office and find that her husband hasn't dusted the radio or washed the dishes.

The complainant was Mrs. Elizabeth Didier, who asked for a divorce, charging cruelty.

She alleged that when she and Didier were married last spring a contract was drawn up whereby she was to keep the wolf from the door while he did the housework. He fulfilled part of the contract, she said, in that he turned out some mighty fine meals, but the trouble started when she came home from a trying day at the office to find there was dust on the chairs and that other housework was left undone.

When she complained about it he beat her, she alleged.

'DADDY' INSISTS 'PEACHES' TELL

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(INS.)—Edward W. (Daddy) Browning, who has already denied all, came into Supreme Court today with a motion that his estranged wife, "Peaches," be forced to furnish him with a bill of particulars in their coming divorce trial.

Through his counsel, James D. C. Murray, Browning asked that "Peaches" be forced first to tell her story and then stick to it—just when and where he is supposed to have yielded his love to another.

Trial of the divorce suit brought by "Peaches" was to have started Monday in Supreme Court, but will probably now be postponed. Justice Wasservogel is to hear argument on the motion tomorrow.

In her suit "Peaches" charges that "Daddy" became unduly amorous while driving with young women in his automobile—the same automobile in which she used to ride with him before she went back to home and mother.

U. S. TAX BOOST FORECAST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Prospects for increased taxation continued to engross legislators today with renewed proposals for higher income levies mingling with doubt that increases are imperative in the next session.

Representative Bacharach (Rep.), New Jersey, advanced a plan which contemplated a graduated increase on income taxes above $20,000, application of a gift tax and luxury taxes and an increase in estate taxes. He estimated it would bring an additional $750,000,000 in revenue.

Senate administration leaders have become convinced that increased taxes will be necessary, Senator Watson, Republican leader, announcing yesterday, after he thought higher levies would have to come.

From a House Republican leader, Representative Hawley, of Oregon, today, however, came word he was not convinced a revision was a necessity.

CHILDREN AIDED, HUNGRY WEEKS

Their appetites appeased for the first time in several weeks, Frank, 7, Stella, 4, and Walter Kiklerich, 3, of 1722 Branchport street, faced life anew today with only one thing to mar their happiness—separation from their mother, Mrs. Mary Kiklerich, and five-month-old brother, Joseph.

Mrs. Kiklerich is a mental patient in Mayview, while Joseph, dangerously ill of pneumonia, was taken to St. John's Hospital.

Neighbors told police of their plight yesterday when they reported that the mother was acting queerly. Police said they found the family unkempt and scantily clad.

Annulment Denied In Nicholas' Romance

VIENNA, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—A report published in Vienna yesterday that the marriage of Prince Nicholas, of Rumania, and Mme. Jana Lucia Deleti has been annulled at Bucharest was scouted inasmuch as the Rumanian government never has recognized the marriage, and therefore could not nullify it.

It was recalled here that records of the ceremony were destroyed immediately after the marriage, which took place in a small village outside Bucharest a week ago.

Italian-American Club Plans Dance

The first annual dance of the Itamerica Club, composed of Italian residents of the Fourteenth Ward, will be held in Schenley Hotel next Tuesday night. City and county officials will act as patrons.

JUVENILE HOME GETS FUNDS

An appropriation of $107,000 to pay caretakers for the wards of the County Juvenile Home, which has been held up for some time, was passed today by County Commissioners on the request of Judge Sarah M. Soffel.

Commissioner E. V. Babcock asked if the appropriation could not be delayed until the opening of the 1932 budget. Commissioner Charles C. McGovern took an emphatic stand that the money was due the caretakers and should be paid immediately.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

Patricia Pitt

Society flocked to the theaters last night and no wonder, with delightful Helen Hayes in Molnar's delectable comedy, "The Good Fairy," at the Alvin, the second offering of the Professional Players for the season, and Glenn Anders and Zita Johann at the Nixon in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," the Theatre Guild's second offering this season.

During intermission the spacious Alvin foyer, decorated with autumnal flowers, was crowded with groups of folks chatting about the comedy. Caroline Mitchell, wearing a black velvet gown with the one shoulder confined to the back, was chatting with a sister beauty, Elizabeth Robinson, who chose a sapphire blue crepe gown with a square back decolletage finished with white and magenta flowers.

In another group were Mrs. Lewis A. Park in white satin, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson and Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, Jr., the former Mary Oliver.

Louise Reed chose an unusual gown of silvery gray satin and Mrs. Leonard S. Mudge, who arrived in her party, wore black velvet.

Gowns of Note Seen

Genevieve Bell wore wood-violet satin and Mrs. Thomas Wurts was in black. Mrs. George H. K. Burgwin wore black velvet, too, and Evelyn Evans chose black lace.

Mrs. Richard Beatty Mellon wore a wrap of black velvet with a shawl collar and deep cuffs of ermine, and her daughter, Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife, chose a long black velvet cape with a deep tippet of ermine.

Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III wore black lace and a white bunny coat, and Mrs. W. Edgar Reed was there, and Mrs. John W. Lawrence.

Others I noticed were Mrs. John Crossan Dilworth, Mrs. George A. Benney, Mrs. C. A. Painter, Jr., Mrs. J. P. McKinney, Jr., Allison Maxwell and Miss Josephine O'Neill.

Mrs. Edward Voss Babcock in black lace and chiffon arrived with her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr. Others I saw were Helen Leovy in a wood-brown chiffon gown and long brown suede gloves, Clodagh McCune in black lace and Mrs. W. P. Snyder, Jr., in dark blue velvet, and Mrs. T. M. Jones III was in black velvet.

Lace Is Favorite

Mrs. J. Shirley Austin chose black lace and chiffon, Mrs. Henry Clay Buchman, black velvet, and Sylvia Robertson, black, too.

Mrs. George H. Lane was in blue and gold brocade and Laura Evans in beruffled beige lace. Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys looked charming in ivy green crepe with two rows of narrow ruffles decorating the hip-line.

Others I noticed were Miss Alice Gray, Mrs. C. E. Lott in black velvet and white lapin, Mrs. Gordon King in turquoise blue chiffon, the A. P. Brills, Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, Mrs. H. D. Williams in black lace and chiffon, Miss Mary McCune, the A. C. Martins of Greensburg and Mrs. George S. Baton in orchid crepe.

Mrs. A. Rex Flinn was in black velvet and Mrs. Blair Childs wore patriotic blue crepe with criss-cross straps making a novel decolletage in black.

Mrs. Charles Flarcus was in gold lace, Mrs. William Zang in blue brocade, Mrs. Jack Bissell in a scarlet mandarin coat, Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in black crepe with cowl drapery marking the back decolletage.

Others there were Mrs. Harvey Childs III and Mrs. T. Howe Nimick in coral and gold, Mrs. Herbert A. May, Mrs. John F. Walton, Jr., Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland in seafoam green velvet and lace, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., in black satin.

Nixon Attracts

Maj. and Mrs. Reginald Macdonald were among the first-nighters, with Mrs. Macdonald in a gown of black lace and a jacket of golden-ivory satin with flowing sleeves banded in Rolinsky. Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly wore black lace, too, and striking Frances Fitzgerald wore electric blue satin with rhinestone clips on the shoulder bands. Her mother, Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, was regal in deep Spanish Tile lace having a tiered skirt, and I saw the B. J. Joneses III, too, and Mrs. Jones was wearing a sophisticated gown of black velvet having a wide peplum below the hipline.

Luxurious Fabrics

In the foyer was Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby in a gown of yellow chiffon molded to below-the-hipline, and fluttering in innumerable godets to the floor with which she wore a wrap of lame with a mink collar.

The George A. Kellys III I noticed chatting during intermission with Mrs. Kelly in black velvet with a black velvet wrap having a collar of chinchilla.

Mrs. Joseph Scrivener wore black lace, with the skirt fashioned of dozens of tiny ruffles terminating in the briefest of trains, with a black velvet jacket having a scarf collar of ivory transparent velvet. Mrs. Clinton Childs chose black lace with a coat of black caracul.

Mrs. John Byerly appeared in black velvet and Mrs. Mortimer Miller, in garnet lace and a wrap of black velvet, was with her son, Torrance Miller. Mary Louise Bucop was there, and with Martha Edmondson, in a quaint gown of brown chiffon fashioned with a deep Bertha of ecru lace, was Betty McCance wearing a gown of green crepe, shirred at the hemline, with a jacket of tangerine velvet. The James Samuel O'Neils were there. Mrs. O'Neil is the former Frances Henry, you'll recall, and I saw Mrs. G. B. Ryland with her daughter, Dorothy, who wore a gown of golden brown crepe with a jacket of lace over brown crepe. Mrs. J. G. Pontefract was there, too, and Mrs. Nathaniel Speer. Mrs. George Pratson wore a wrap of Paisley with a seal collar. Others among the faithful Theater-Guilders included Mrs. Frank D. Newberry in black, Mrs. Samuel K. Cunningham, Mrs. T. C. Donovan and the L. H. Burnetts.

Black Is Dominant

The Thanksgiving season is always a popular time for debuts and this year the tradition still holds true. On Wednesday, the day before Thanksgiving, Lucretia Billings, the popular daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederic T. Billings, of Wallingford street, is to make her bow at a tea. And she has named her aides, the buds of the season. Lois Tack, Lucile Todd, Elinor Reed, Virginia Doyle, Katharine Frazer, Betty Kennedy, Polly Schuyer, Martha Mitchell Yost, Cecelia McCormick, Anne Emmeline Betts Higgins, Gretchen Bickford, Margaret Mann, Nancy Jane Longenecker, Rita Bernitzgeer, Caroline Mitchell and Elizabeth Robinson, and two of last season's buds, Betty McKay and Mary Black.

Billings Debut

And on Thanksgiving Day Katharine Frazer will make her bow at a team dance in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

At a small ceremony this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club, Dorothy Isabel Dalz, daughter of the John J. Dalzes of North Highland avenue, becomes the bride of Grant D. Wainwright, son of E. J. Wainwright of Bartlett street. The setting for the ceremony is a screen of ribbonium ferns, bamboo and cretons, and officiating is the Rev. Dr. George C. Fisher of the Highland Presbyterian Church.

East End Girl Weds

The bride, being given in marriage by her father, is wearing a gown of Patou beige velvet, fashioned with long sleeves, close-fitting to the elbow and flowing in bell-effect to the wrist, and her turban is of wood-brown velvet. She is wearing a shoulder spray of green and cyperpeium orchids.

Mrs. W. C. Reitz, II, is her sister's matron of honor and only attendant, wearing a gown of Persian green velvet with a matching turban, and a shoulder corsage of lavender orchids. The mother of the bride has chosen a gown having a skirt of black velvet and a bodice of blue and silver lame, with a matching hat. A small dinner and reception is being given after the ceremony, with the bride's table centered with chrysanthemums, pompons, and other fall flowers, and tall ivory tapers in silver candelabra.

Mr. Wainwright and his bride will honeymoon in Havana, returning about December 6 to make their home temporarily in North Highland avenue. The brides parents will leave shortly for California to remain until spring.

The bride is a graduate of Miss Mason's School, Tarrytown, N. Y., and the bridegroom of the University of Pittsburgh.

SEWICKLEY WOMEN HEAR ABBE

Polish Corridor Held Most Likely Cause If Nations War

The Polish Corridor is the most neuralgic point in Europe; take it away from the Poles and the wound will be incurable, Abbe Ernest Dimnet, author of "The Fine Art of Thinking," told the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club yesterday afternoon. The possibility of another war is not between France and Germany, he said, but between Poland and Germany, and if this happens, all Poland's allies will come to her aid and it will probably be another European war. Customs unions, not revision, is the way in which to bring about a change, he declared, adding that Germany and Poland can perfectly well come to a commercial understanding without changing conditions, as Germany has a railroad through the Corridor.

Speaking of the changes in the European map since the World War, the abbe said some of the countries had not lost what was their own, but what for several centuries they had imagined was their own, and he recalled that Woodrow Wilson was responsible for the Corridor, having suggested it in his 14 points. The abbe termed it "an historical restoration."

Of Japan he said, with gentle irony:

"She is the most highly civilized country; she has the largest navy, the best army, the greatest ambition and the hugest appetite and she wants to interfere wherever she can, she has signed the Kellogg peace pact and she is ready to sign any other pact tomorrow."

Germany, he said, has had the only crisis in the world of nations. Other countries have had depressions, revolutions, mistakes, but the only real crisis came in Germany four months ago when there was a threat of the national bank closing down. This was not caused by reparations. Had this been the case Germany would have been satisfied with the moratorium instead of asking for credits. Germany, he said, is suffering from the war and its after-effects. Her wealth has disappeared with her shells; goods ordinarily exchange hands, but not so with shells; they are shot off and vanish. He suggested the working out of the Young Plan and increased informal economic agreements between France and Germany to pull Germany out of the crisis. The country has no reserves in industry, which is excellent only in time of prosperity and American money is "frozen" there, he remarked.

German Crisis

The abbe spoke with a fine keen sense of humor. This, together with a very pronounced kindliness, impressed his audience of nearly 400 women and a few men.

Preceding the lecture there was the usual buffet luncheon, a custom which the club has inaugurated this season at the Edgeworth Club where the weekly meetings are held.

Suspended judgment on the Far East situation was recommended by Dr. William Star Meyers in his talk before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning. Dr. Meyers expressed confidence in the rising generation and held that these changing are testing times. America, he said, has gone through such times before but there has never been so much emotion as now. He explained that this is because present day business men have had no experience in dealing with similar conditions. Dr. Meyers believes England has turned the corner and is now facing facts. The speaker warned against any form of unemployment insurance, saying that it inevitably leads to the dole; that the problem is a community one.

B.P.W. to Discuss Ways Of Meeting Club's 10-Year Plan

At the meeting of the Pittsburgh Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday evening in the Congress of Clubs, a program will be given under the direction of the educational and research committees setting forth the plans of the committee for following out the National Federation's 10-year plan. During the next decade the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs expects to fit itself to assume leadership in thinking on economic problems and their social implications, with a view toward helping in the establishment through scientific methods, of conditions which assure both men and women the fullest possible opportunity and reward for the development of whatever capacities they may possess.

Students who have received the award of merit within the past few years from the club will be guests.

Bervard Nichols, of the research department of the University of Pittsburgh, will be the speaker and will discuss "Some Measures of the Current Business Situation and the Present Outlook of the Business Situation."

S. C. Mathews, piano, and Miss Susie Saniel, violin, will offer a duet, and Mrs. S. C. Mathews will sing. The Pittsburgh Academy Sextet will add to the program.

Miss Jennie Munroe, chairman of the education committee, and Miss Marie Maloney, chairman of research, are in charge of the program.

Another Floor Covering Scoop! Sale of 5000 Yards of Wilton Carpet

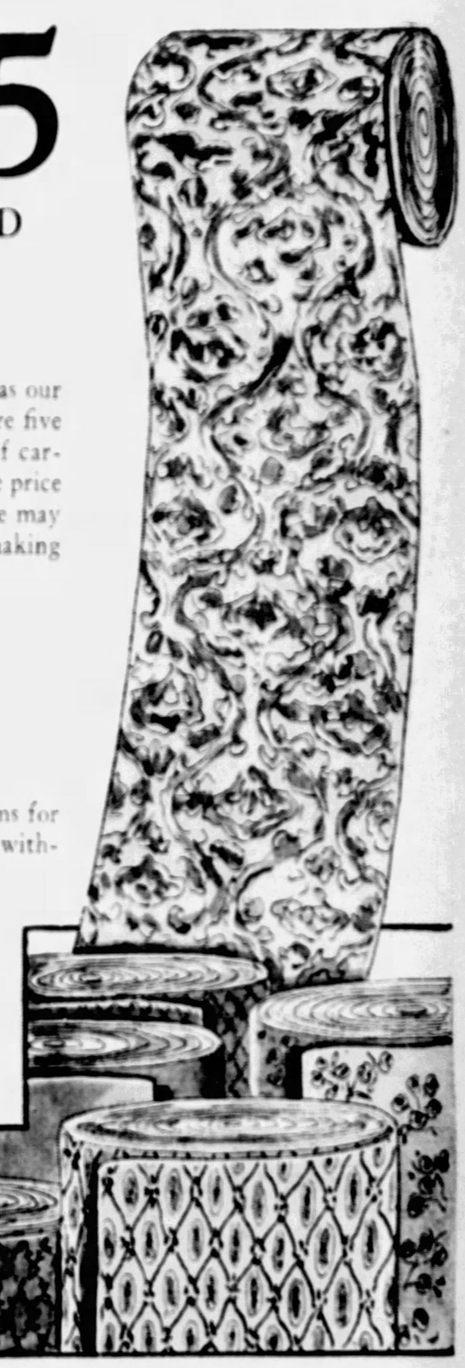
$1.95 YARD



A saving opportunity quite as extraordinary in every way as our recent celebrated Persiakhan Rug Sale, for which there were five times as many customers as rugs. There are 5000 yards of carpet, however, which should meet all requirements. The Sale price is less than the regular wholesale cost of this grade, and one may carpet a floor, from wall to wall, including the cost of making and laying, for less than the price of a rug of like quality.

Standard 27-inch width—genuine Wiltons, with the pattern woven through on jacquard looms. Choice of 23 selected patterns, including solid colors, neat florals and chintz effects, and large all-over Oriental designs—suitable for bedrooms, living rooms, dining rooms, libraries, halls, stairs, offices, etc.

It is only necessary to ascertain the approximate size of rooms for selection purposes. An estimator will measure and size them, without charge, before cutting.

A special charge of 30c a yd. will be made for making and laying.

We are prepared to promise the making and laying of all carpets purchased during this Sale, before Thanksgiving!

AUTO JAM LAID TO KLINE CHAT

That chat between Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and Mayor Kline in the Mayor's office appeared today the cause for the traffic jam which followed the downtown parade of the West Point cadets.

Lewis McIntyre, city traffic engineer, didn't place the blame on the Mayor, but he did explain that the jam was caused when the cadets were halted near the Smithfield Street Bridge. Halted, Secretary Hurley and Mayor Kline finally reached the reviewing stand at the City-County building, which they did 20 minutes late.

Meanwhile, traffic in streets crossing Grant was held back.

Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey reported to Public Safety Director James M. Clark that he had ordered the lights turned off at certain intersections, principally downtown, and on the boulevard during the peak of the rush and had extinguished the lights for outgoing traffic one game time and for inbound traffic after the game.

Clark said Dorsey was on the street during the time and was in a position to know if the situation would warrant extinguishing the lights. Dorsey was ordered to make a complete report that it might be returned to Council.

BEERY'S PARTY SAFE IN SNOW

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A storm which trapped dozens of persons in the snow-covered mountains of California, among them Noah Beery, screen actor, held much of the American Northwest and the Pacific slope in its cold grip today.

Dozens of motorists were rescued after having been forced to abandon their automobiles.

With but six exceptions, all those marooned were reported safe last night, including Beery and two companions who struck out Sunday morning into the snow-clad San Gabriel Mountains near Palmdale, Cal., to search for Robert Elliott, of Llano, Cal., who was reported lost.

Elliott was found by an Indian and brought to safety.

Search was under way for two men believed to be near Bloods, an outpost in the high Sierras east of Angels Camp. The two, Alexander and Fred Lombardi, father and son, were rounding up cattle when the storm broke.

Woman Testifies Against Ex-Jurist

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The state today recalled Mrs. Opal Eversole, in its effort to convict former Probate Judge Homer Z. Bostwick and four other men of an atttempt to blackmail the woman. Charged by defense counsel with having obtained gifts from the ex-jurist by threatening to expose their clandestine friendship Mrs. Eversole reiterated charges that led to Bostwick's removal from office and denied she was a "gold digger."

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, tiredness, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound, known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

5 HELD IN VOTE FRAUD CHARGES

Five persons were held for court for alleged violations of election laws, with bail fixed at $1,000 each, by Alderman Louis Wicks, of the Fourth Ward, records show.

Joseph Berillo, of McKees Rocks, was charged with irregularities in offering assistance to voters; Justice of the Peace J. L. Moore, Emory Toskey, Cora Penny and Frank Span, all of Kilbuck Township, were accused of voting on fraudulent tax receipts.

Moore was charged with having handled the tax receipts.

Study Beatification Of American Nun

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The Congregation of Rites today began an examination of cause for the beatification of Sister Francesca Saverio Cabrini, founder of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart, who died in Chicago in 1917.

Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, recently brought proof of the nun's holiness to Rome. Cardinal Verde recommended her beatification.

PLOT TO BLAST BOATS FOILED

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Enough dynamite "to blow up half the town"—dynamite cached for a time in a coin-in-the-slot locker of a busy downtown subway station—has been found by police in time to thwart what they charge was a plot to blow up barges on the Manhattan waterfront.

Five men are under arrest today. Police said the dynamite had been stolen, carted through the busy city streets and cached against the hour when it was to have been used to destroy barges in a warfare between rival factions among harbor workers.

The five under arrest are members of the independent tidewater boatmen's union, which, police said, is a Communist organization which has been in conflict with the boatmen's union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

MILLER TO GIVE SPEECH HERE

Dr. Herbert A. Miller, sociologist of international renown, whose penetrating analysis of race problems and free expression of views regarding them have led to his dismissal from the faculty of the Ohio State University, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women, in the Y. M. & W. H. A. next Tuesday afternoon. His subject will be "The New World Era."

To Break Up a Cold In a Jiffy

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It's a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

HILL'S Cascara Quinine Compound

(Advertisement)

Gray Hair

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Corns Now Come Out Easily—Right Away

In only three minutes, with this new, safe, scientific method—and you'll be rid of your corn. Simply apply a few drops of Shur-Off. Don't worry if it gets on healthy flesh also. Shur-Off is safe, harmless—can't injure you. It softens and loosens the calloused tissue and in three minutes the corn is gone—roots and all. Magic?—yes, and what joyous relief! Just try Shur-Off. 50-cent bottle enough for 3 corns or callouses—it's mighty economical. All druggists—with money-back guarantee.

COMEDY AND DRAMA -:- Molnar and Barry Plays New Offerings -:- STAGE AND SCREEN -:- Reviews of Three Bills and Amusement Chat

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Three's a —" no, not the grammar— three's a crowd when the three are such ones as Clifton Webb, Fred Allen and Libby Holman, stars of a show that is called "Three's a Crowd." Thanksgiving week attraction at the Nixon, opening Monday. To carry out the three idea, the world's most beautiful playhouse will have three matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The local boys will be ready to discuss the situation with seat shoppers Thursday.

Small Timer says the prediction that automobile building never would reach the saturation point appears to have been all wet.

Al Jolson will have to work Thanksgiving Day, but the scene of his labors being the Alvin where his Wonder Bar will be the holiday attraction afternoon and evening. Opens Monday to be sure and the only other matinee of the week will be held on Sat. With Al in this show are Claire Windsor, formerly of the filliums. Seats will be available Thursday. It's Al's first visit in five years.

Small Timer says the wind may be tempered to the shorn lamb but hot air got a lot of them in Wall street.

Philip Barry's new play, "The Animal Kingdom," will have Leslie Howard in it when it is produced by Gilbert Miller a little later. Les has been abroad.

Douglas Fairbanks is going to make the home-stayers pay for that trip around the old ball of mud. He made pix of it, and same are titled "Around the World in 80 Minutes With Douglas Fairbanks." It is being lauded as a member of the wow class of celluloids. Bert Lahr, who has been on a Hollywooday has been signed by Ziegfeld to be one of his Follies. "Pop Goes the Weasel," will be the title of "Chu Chin Chow's" next.

Small Timer says the prima donna's beauty cream, guaranteed to work magically, merely proves that she's no magician.

This New Molnar Comedy For Helen Hayes Is a Gem

By GEORGE SEIBEL

It takes Ferenc Molnar to blow up a soap-bubble and fill it with shining lights that make it look like the spacious firmament hung with golden stars. Any other playwright would have made a sorry mess out of the idea he worked into "The Good Fairy," who tripped into the Alvin Theater last night in the person of Helen Hayes. Molnar turns it into a delicious morsel, spicy and sweet, like some dainty Viennese confection more airy than nourishing, with a crust of pathos and a sprinkling of wit.

George Seibel

And Helen Hayes, who serves this dainty morsel, does it so daintily that one wonders if its flavor is due to the cuisine or the service.

She appears as the representative of a profession that has never before found its way into drama. She is "an unemployed glow-worm." A glow-worm, in Viennese jargon, is the usherette in a movie theater who leads you to your seat by means of a little electric lamp.

She describes herself as having "a big heart and no one to put into it." She has no place in the story of life—her part "always comes in the next instalment." She "never makes a mistake, because she never stops to think." All of which delightful traits—50 per cent idiotic—qualify her to make other people happy by acting the good fairy.

The comedy opens in a hotel room where Lu is dining alone with a rich Argentinian who thinks she is the truant wife of a very jealous husband. Lu has no husband—so she has to invent one when the nabob wishes to do something for her and for him. She finds an attorney in the telephone book—and in the second act she calls upon this attorney, who is unmarried and informs him that she is his wife, that she is about to be unfaithful to him and that he is to get all the enormous legal business of the Argentinian firm in recompense.

Walter Connolly is the poor devil of a lawyer, with scruples of conscience and a mental reservoir of laws, who very nearly takes the play away from Miss Hayes by his rare gifts of comedy and power of pathos.

HIS DREAM REALIZED

Just as it has always been Lu's dream to make people happy, so it has always been his dream to own a pencil-sharpener. How he acquires the pencil-sharpener, how he loses it again, how he compromises with his conscience, how he always turns to his Bible where he keeps his spectacles, how his ethical integrity is restored by his self-appointed wife changing her mind . . . all this you must witness in order to appreciate it.

There is comedy as fine as filigree and point lace by Helen Hayes and Walter Connolly, and it makes this tenuous and prankish play seem a masterpiece. Yet most of the time Ferenc Molnar is only doing what Lu calls "making conversation." Can any other living playwright make such conversation as Molnar makes? And keep it up for three acts?

A SPOOFISH EPILOGUE

Not satisfied with that, he appends an epilogue. Gilbert Miller appears as himself, the producer, and reads a letter telling how Molnar has written this epilogue at Miller's request, because the comedy as written was not finished as an audience would have it.

Whether in this satiric appendix Molnar is spoofing the public or spoofing the managers, doesn't matter. It is obviously spoofy. May be it is intended to show Miss Hayes in one resplendent gown.

The comedy is perfectly acted by a cast in which our own Paul McGrath has an important role, though he is known only as "the head waiter." Evelyn Roberts as the rich Argentinian almost makes that sublimely infatuated personage credible. Douglas Wood as a slightly exhilarated minister of state also contributes to the gayety of the situation, and Ruth Hammond as a lady law clerk gives a finely etched portrait of dumb devotion.

The diamond, being carbon, would probably vanish in a flash if a blasting flame touched it. This comedy might turn into a black cinder under critical cautery. Let it alone. It sparkles as a diamond—thanks to Ferenc Molnar, Helen Hayes and Walter Connolly.

Two Hearts in Waltz Time At Last

By MILDRED FILLMORE

At last the most famous of all screen operettas has come to Pittsburgh, and "Zwei Herzen Im ¾ Takt" (Two Hearts in Waltz Time") drew continuous crowds to the new Avenue Cinema yesterday.

Not without reason this picture romance has run steadily for over a year in New York city, for the tunes are most enticing and the story a very pretty bit of sentiment larded with humor.

The hero is a Viennese composer whose librettists have just finished a new book. Everything promises a huge success, but the waltz melody is missing—and a Viennese operetta without a waltz is unthinkable.

Everybody is in despair, especially the two brothers who wrote the libretto. These brothers have a sister, to visit whom they take every Wednesday off. Hedi is a worshiper of the famous composer, but her brothers would never let her meet this dangerous Don Juan.

He has arranged a party for 30 people, but as he hasn't finished their waltz tune the brothers call up all the guests to countermand the invitations. The sister hears them doing this, and decides to be the only guest. Going to the party, her beauty inspires the composer with the waltz melody that would not come.

Alas, as soon as she is gone, he forgets it again.

His faithful servant advertises for the girl, and at the dress rehearsal she appears. She remembers the elusive melody, and the operetta is sure to be a tremendous success, as she sings and dances it with the composer.

That's the pretty plot of this screen romance which has set Europe on fire and sent sparks flying all around the world.

The waltz is not the only catchy tune—there are others just as enticing. The film is very well done, both in orchestral and vocal parts; the actors play with gusto and the comedians catch the real Viennese humor.

No doubt all this week there will be a long line at the box office of the Cinema, and many hearts will beat in waltz time as they watch the romance unfold.

Mammy!

Al Jolson, known any place where mammy songs are known, will be seen in the Alvin next week in his show, "The Wonder Bar."

'Step Lively Girls' Bill in Academy

Harry Bentley, Dutch comic, heads "Step Lively Girls," burlesque in the Academy. Jean Lee, new on the Columbia circuit is featured. Evelyn Murray, whirlwind acrobatic soubret; Stella Williams, prima donna who sings "blues"; Jack Ryan, straight man; Hazel Bernard, dancing ingenue; Charles Wesson, eccentric comedian; Jess Mack, singing and dancing juvenile, and Harry Rose, rube comic are in the cast. Betty and Midge, in runway specialties, are an added feature.

'Tomorrow and Tomorrow,' Guild Play in Nixon, Artistic Success

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Tomorrow And Tomorrow," Gilbert Miller's much-appreciated production of Philip Barry's play that was named by Burns Mantle as one of the "ten best" of last season in New York, was witnessed by a smart audience in the Nixon last night. The second offering of the Theater Guild subscription season, it may be classed as artistically successful as any of the more important plays presented here under Guild auspices, made so by the outstanding merit of the performances given by players of the principal roles, especially reflected in the fine work of Zita Johann and Glenn Anders.

No description of the play can be as satisfactory as the expression of it on the stage, because the tale itself, despite the fine language with which it is clothed and the ostensibly lofty sentiments which purport to be the motives of its characters, is another "triangle." The bald fact remains that the woman principally concerned loves another man more than she does her husband.

MUST MOTHER THEM

It is as plain as all that, even though the author expertly makes out a case in behalf of the lady by giving her too much tenderness to leave with her partner in the deception of her husband, because the latter would be mortally hurt. She must mother her husband as well as her son, destined never to know his true paternity.

It is a beautifully written play about what sophisticates call "the facts of life," developed in a way that makes it appear inoffensive even to what one might term the finer sensibilities, and it has a human quality that exudes a certain warmth through nine scenes, despite a tenseness that does anything but reveal Barry's supposed penchant for whimsical writing.

HAS SCARCELY A SMILE

That touch is but little in evidence and there is scarcely a smile in the whole proceedings. Not that one really is essential.

It is splendidly acted, as stated. Miss Johann imparting to her characterization of a woman hungering for the sweets of motherhood, such wistfulness and honesty as to create decided sympathy. Her vocal gifts are exceptional, and she scored in a measure to indicate that she is an emotional artist of the first rank. It is mostly her play throughout, but Mr. Anders also gives splendid account of himself as a lecturing doctor who becomes more than a guest in the house that accepted Pam as a casual visitor. Excellent support also is given by Harvey Stephens, as the husband; John Eldredge, as the lecturer's secretary, and John T. Doyle as a fine specimen of a local physician of "the old school."

Suit with extra trousers, $30

This is no mere sale; it is an EVENT. Challenger Suits do not have to be sold in sales. They are not "sale" suits.

We do not claim them to be $50 or $60 suits, but they are the greatest clothing value presented by anyone this year.

With every new shipment from Challenger workrooms come surprises in fabric styles, designing and tailoring that sell out each new lot faster than the last.

We urge you to see this new lot soon—single and double-breasted models—variously cut to meet the requirements of style-minded young men or conservative dressers.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough due to a cold. It takes but a moment to mix, costs little, and saves money, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

INDEPENDENTS REORGANIZE

Reorganization of the Eleventh Ward Independent Voters League was accomplished last night with the election of A. C. Nigro as chairman and Max G. Feldman as secretary. County Commissioner C. C. McGovern was elected honorary chairman and Commissioner-elect C. M. Barr as vice chairman.

A ladies' auxiliary to the league is to be organized later.

66 Cases Reported For City Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 11; diphtheria, 2; whooping cough, 1; chickenpox, 5; mumps, 6; measles, 22, and pneumonia, 19.

Women to Organize Welfare Club Here

Mrs. I. L. Young, of Philadelphia, national director and state manager of the Woodmen Circle, will be honor guest at the organization dinner of the society's Allegheny County Welfare club at the Congress of Women's Clubs tomorrow night.

Girl Near Death Calls for Absent Father

The plea of an invalid girl to her father to return after an absence of 10 years was forwarded to the Sun-Telegraph today. The father, George U. Ruff, the letter said, disappeared from his home in Olean, N. Y., in June, 1921, and has never returned. His wife, Mrs. J. M. Ruff, wrote that her daughter is ill and that physicians hold little hope for recovery. The father, aged about 50, at one time was an engineer, but later became an automobile salesman and is thought to be in the Pittsburgh district.

The mother said her child has been ill for a long time and continually calls for her father.

RETIRING BOARD BLOCKADED IN WABASH DEAL

Decision Likely to Await Planners' Reorganizing By New Commissioners

By MARK SHIELDS

Future consideration of a proposal that the county acquire the Wabash bridge and tunnel for a new traffic outlet to the South Hills probably will be left to the new Board of County Commissioners.

Illness of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, and the absence from the city of his colleague, E. C. Babcock, will prevent any early opportunity for rearranging the County Planning Commission, which at the present time is understood to be opposed to the project.

The County Planning Commission, with a normal membership of nine, has been reduced to six through the resignation of R. B. Mellon, Ralph Watson and Marshal Bell. The remaining members are S. J. Topley, J. E. McKirdy, F. G. Lillo, Thomas D. Hester, Samuel Robison and William Todd. Of this membership three are understood to be unalterably opposed to the Wabash purchase and three are regarded as noncommittal. Should the subject be presented to the Planning Commission this week at a special meeting, it is forecast that the vote would be negative due to the probable absence of at least one of the members regarded as noncommittal.

NEW STRATEGY SEEN

It is known that the majority members of the Board of County Commissioners, Babcock and Armstrong, have considered recruiting the Planning Commission up to its full strength. It is reported that Babcock has approached prospective appointees, but has received little encouragement. Opponents of the purchase contend that the design of the County Commissioners would be to create a Planning Commission favorable to the Wabash purchase.

Any new members of the Planning Commission would have to be appointed at an open meeting of the County Commissioners, but such action is improbable in view of the serious illness of Armstrong. So far the majority membership of the County Planning Commission contends it has never been formally notified, as required by law, of the intention of the county to purchase the Wabash property.

LEGAL TANGLE

At the last meeting of the Planning Commission a resolution from the County Commissioners was received reciting the various legal steps which had been taken and setting forth that the Commissioners will "reconsider if necessary, and in order to comply with the law," their resolution for the Wabash purchase and then submit it to the Planning Commission, which was not previously done.

Some time ago the County Commissioners secured approval of both the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission to the deal, thereafter having the project ratified by the grand jury. On petition of opponents of the purchase, represented by Attorney Louis Caplan, the grand jury reopened the question and voted against the contract. Legal opinion is divided as to whether the Commissioners would not again have to secure approval of the Public Service Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Bootlegger Guilty Of Killing Dry Agent

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—George Adams, 37, bootlegger, was convicted today of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of John I. Wilson, federal prohibition agent.

Woman Hurt as Car Hits Steam Shovel

Sussie Kapran, 34, 1116½ Willow way, Braddock, is recovering from cuts and bruises today received when a route 55 street car collided with a steam shovel being towed by two trucks at Fleet street and West Braddock avenue, Rankin, yesterday afternoon.

Many passengers were shaken up and bruised. The injured woman received treatment in Braddock General Hospital and was later released.

Auto Injures Boy, 4, Playing Near Home

Four-year-old Herman Zwolinski, of 44 South Twenty-seventh street, was injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile while he was playing near his home. Davis Dugan, of 1838 Center avenue, driver of the car, was arrested according to police. The child was removed to St. Joseph Hospital where he was reported suffering from probable internal injuries.

Leguia, Ill, Leaves Jail for Hospital

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Former President Augusto B. Leguia, who has been imprisoned since the revolution in August, 1930, was taken from the penitentiary yesterday and started in an ambulance for Callao, where he will enter a naval hospital.

The former president is suffering from bronchial pneumonia and his transfer was approved by the cabinet.

To The Mothers

Whose Children Won't Eat

A Simple Way to Correct Poor Appetite

Nature knows best. Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system. California syrup of figs is all the "medicine" they require.

The Child's Appetite Will Always Respond

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children seem to need is pure, unadulterated syrup of figs.

Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and avoid colds and sluggish spells.

Begin Tonight

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The very next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

A SINGLE "IF"

The promises made by the bottlers of California Syrup of Figs are true, and it will do the same for you, IF it's genuine CALIFORNIA Syrup of Figs. Don't accept substitutes.

IS THERE DOPE IN IT?

THE ONE QUESTION YOU SHOULD ASK ABOUT COUGH SYRUPS

"Both of my children were suffering from coughs. My oldest child would not even taste Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup, but after I let her smell it I didn't have any trouble in getting her to take regular doses. It helped them marvelously. Both children lost their colds completely." Mrs. G. C. Morgan, 518 Jones Ave., Burlington, N. J.

IT IS TRUE that many cough syrups rely on DOPE for their action. DOPE—that means opium, morphine, chloroform, ether—and similar drugs.

Don't take chances with DOPE! Why should you? There is now one SAFE way to stop a cough. That safe way is Smith Brothers' Triple Action Cough Syrup. This new type syrup contains no dope, no drugs, nothing that could upset even a delicate child. Instead of dope, "Triple Action" (—it's safe!) stops coughs quickly and surely. Even hacking coughs and those dangerous "hanging-on" coughs simply melt away! Children like the taste! Only 35c.

When Muscles HURT

Here's good news for everyone who has rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia or any ill or sore muscles and joints. Science has found a new way to end muscular troubles. Just a simple, harmless liquid applied directly to the affected muscle or joint—yet it ends all pain in from 7 to 10 minutes.

Muscletone acts by absorption. Nothing is taken internally. There is nothing to affect stomach or heart. But pain stops completely—almost instantly. The medical principle behind Muscletone is to neutralize accumulated toxins through the skin and effect quick restoration of congested tissues. Almost a million people have found relief. All good druggists have MUSCLETONE for $1.00.

SACRED SONG RADIO BIRTHDAY

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

PITTSBURGH'S OLDEST and most popular radio feature, Sacred Songs, has a birthday tonight. In the last six years hundreds of singers have been heard in this series and thousands of hymns, some of them never on the air before, have been scattered far and wide over KDKA and its short-wave auxiliary, W8XK. The sponsor, who prefers to keep her name anonymous, has arranged two special programs for tonight, the first at 7:30 and the second at 11:15. "Old Rugged Cross" and "Whispering Hope" two hymns requested most frequently, will be sung.

Darrell V. Martin

If you've read the novel "Office Wife" or seen Dorothy Mackaill and Lewis Stone in the picture, you will enjoy, no doubt, the short talk by Faith Baldwin, author, on the Quaker program, KDKA at 8. . . . Lois Bennett, soprano, as the announcer on this program, projects a soothing tranquillity into the air that just seems to find its way to the listener's heart.

Question a Day:

Who plays the part of the woman in "The Stepping Boss"?

Mrs. T. K. Sheraden.

Answer — Adelina Thomason, who is better known perhaps as "Mrs. Pennyfeather" in Raymond Knight's "Cuckoo" sketch.

Mt. Lebanon High School's attempt to throttle Jeannette at Jeannette Saturday afternoon is to be relayed play by play direct from the field by P. F. Dike over WGM, 848 kilocycles. The broadcast is to start at 2:20.

Studio Lights

Marion Harris (WCAE, 11) is a direct descendant of former President Benjamin Harrison.

Lowell Thomas' "Interstate Tall Stars Commission" sits in conference on WJZ, 760 kc., at 10 o'clock tonight to pick a modern Annanias. . . . George Gershwin, Grantland Rice, Ken-mit Roosevelt, Capt. Frank Hawks and Gen. Pershing are to spin their favorite yarns . . .

J. C. Ridgway, Pa., The Mills Brothers are on WABC at 8 o'clock tonight . . . their schedule is rather indefinite.

An automobile manufacturer in Detroit with a penchant for Floyd Gibbons, tuned to hear him every Sunday night, he was on the air for that glass manufacturing concern, and, of course, had to listen to the commercial announcement . . . he became interested in the glass and contracted for several million dollars of it for his auto concern . . . which was fine for the glass company but very cutting for Gibbons, who lost his job when the glass outfit stopped radio advertising . . .

And what's this we hear about Andy Sannella having once played a fiddle in a saloon on the Mexican border?

Checking over the radio plans for the new Allegheny General Hospital the other day we noticed that 57 loudspeakers are to supplement 556 sets of headphones.

Helen Keller is to speak on Uncle Henry's Magazine Hour, KDKA at 8:15 this Sunday.

When Mme. Schumann-Heink sings with Rudy Vallee's Orchestra on Christmas Eve it will mark the first time that a concert artist has appeared in this series.

Weber and Fields are coming back in a new radio act.

This seems to be anniversary month on the air, with NBC celebrating Sunday, Sacred Songs and Little German Band tonight and Ludwig Laurier's Slumber Music in a special program Thursday night.

Merle Tucker, new WLW announcer, is still too young to vote although born in Texas. Merle early developed a preference for the clarinet rather than broncho.

Football games Saturday—Notre Dame vs. Southern California, 5:15 p. m., Graham McNamee on KDKA. Ted Husing on WJAS. Yale vs. Harvard, Bill Munday, 1:45 p. m. on WCAE.

Harvard is said to be reconsidering its ban on Ted Husing, the cleanest liune of all network sports announcers we know. . . . Ted must have erred, but he describes a game pretty.

The Loudspeaker

—By— LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The awarding of a diction medal to announcers does not occasion the excitement in the radio corral as once it did. Wonder if it is because the award has been monopolized by the N. B. C.?

Announcers at stations outside N. B. C. no longer, it is said, take the contest seriously as they feel they haven't a chance to win the medal. Holbrook was evidently a dark horse. There was a belief for a time that the winner would be selected from a group consisting of David Ross, Basil Ruysdale, Dagmar Perkins and Vida Sutton.

Naturalness and humanness are the rarest attributes of all radio speakers. They are absent almost entirely from political speakers. Occasionally a speaker from the political pastures comes to the microphones, as did Albert C. Ritchie, in the Theater of the Air recently, discards the stilted oratory, the high-sounding bunk of the lecture hall and speaks with a naturalness and a frankness that are refreshing.

It is not often these days that you hear a politician saying:

"I do not presume to suggest the way which will lead us out of the wilderness . . . Most of us have been pretty well fed up on plans as it is . . . It may be bad politics to say it, but I do not believe there is any magic remedy . . . The time is near when politics and economics must work together. Had they paid more attention to each other I believe we might not be in our present straits . . . The day for meeting crises by beating political tom-toms has passed."

Yet, Ritchie said it, and it won for him more response from radio listeners than has been given to a political speaker in months.

Most sensitive of people are the armchair cheerers of Notre Dame's football team. We recently had occasion to regret that for the sake of eastern listeners attention was not paid on the radio to the Yale-Dartmouth, Columbia-Cornell game. On the particular day these games were played interest was tense in their outcome since all four teams were evenly matched.

Yet, broadcasters neglected them, you will remember, in favor of Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech, a pretty much foregone conclusion, and Northwestern-Illinois, which carried no appeal whatsoever to eastern listeners.

Letters, thereupon, poured in, taking us to task for disregarding the claims that Notre Dame has—or should have—upon all armchairs tuned the gridiron. One correspondent even wrote:

"The armchairs never tire of listening to a broadcast of a champion, whether it's a Lindbergh, a Babe Ruth, or a Notre Dame."

We are not so sure. It seems to us that even a champion can cloy if he is heard too often. Neither Lindbergh nor Babe Ruth makes the mistake of being heard too frequently. Nor for that matter did Jack Dempsey, nor later on, Gene Tunney.

Safe Pleasant Way To Lose Fat

How would you like to lose 15 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose a load of unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent hips and at the same time make yourself so attractive that you'll compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh, then get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts, which will last you for 4 weeks. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts. Try one bottle—if not completely satisfied money back.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Can Unmarried Woman Hold Man's Loyalty Longest?

Will a man be more faithful to a woman who doesn't bind him with vows and shackle him with jealous suspicions than he will to a woman who does?

Will the woman without a ring hold her charm and magnetism longer than a Missis?

Judith has heard that the answers were all Yes. So when her man, who couldn't be divorced, asked her to flout the conventions she didn't worry.

Didn't worry even when he was off on long business trips and she knew he went with other women.

BAD HAPPY FAMILY

For why should she worry? Wasn't she sure of him? Just as sure, maybe, far surer than any married woman.

But one can't say well.

Read to the voice of herself. Here's a lady who has put herself on the Spot . . . the toughest spot that a wife or can live in. YOU were in her shoes . . . what?

"Dear Sally:

"I've always thought people created their own problems in life and therefore should solve them themselves. But after juggling mine for 24 hours a day for days and days I've lost my sense of values. It seems impossible to solve it alone. So here I am. Can you help me?

"We've been such a happy family for five years. Tom and I and a sweet boy who is just 2. Tom has been so good to me and ours always seemed a union that would go on to eternity. I have always done my best to be a good sport, to keep attractive and have never nagged or argued.

DECEIVED HER

"Tom's work takes him away from home occasionally and sometimes trips run into weeks. Occasionally he's spent his evenings with women friends. He has always told me about it and I have had enough confidence in him to believe him faithful. I've never been jealous.

"Now I find he has deceived me. He even lied to me. He met a girl about my own age in a business way and had seen her several times. That was no cause for alarm, of course, but I've learned that he's gone 100 miles out of his way to see her and wrote to her when he was at home. I know he has been untrue to me.

"When I met him he had been separated from his wife for several years. No doubt some will say that I deserve exactly what I'm getting. But I wonder. Remember, I didn't break up his family. Nor steal him from anyone. On the contrary, I brought him on from the depths of despair and helped him to get a new hold on life, so it seems to me there have been extenuating circumstances, and I have always felt as if I were truly married to him. We were so happy that I was content to go on forever.

CHILD TO THINK OF

Maybe I've been satisfied with too little. Maybe I should have demanded a regular marriage long ago. I've never thought much about it. But now I'm wondering. Somehow the whole thing seems to pivot on that point.

What shall I do? Is he worth fighting for, as I most surely would do if we were really married? Shall I fight? Or shall I quit cold? It seems to me his deceit has shaken the whole foundation of our life together. I can't seem to respect him any more. So you see the bottom has fallen out of my world. For only love and respect can justify our relationship. But there is Junior to think of. What shall I do?

"JUDITH."

Well, what's your answer?

What would you do if you were in that tough spot?

Would you fight—demand an honest marriage even at this late date? Or would you walk out and leave him? Then how about Junior?

Think it over, Stranger, then let's have your verdict.

Women Linked in Crime Undergo Decided Change When Caught—Fay King

By FAY KING

Women involved in crime undergo a decided change when they are apprehended.

How camera shy they become! What an air of injured innocence they assume!

How gentle and demure they stand before the judge and jury, with downcast eyes and trembling lips!

All their gentle helpless femininity comes to the surface like cream.

Where was all this womanliness while they were the inspiration for evil, and brazenly demanded and commanded some weak man in his career of dissipation and crime?

Every act and gesture they now so skillfully use for sympathy shows how well they know what is right.

Better to have thought of these when they were undermining their own and other lives.

It seems a little late for that now.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Low Vitality Prepares the Way for Pneumonia

This is the time of the year when cases of pneumonia are all too common. It is a disease that through the last decade has stricken thousands and thousands of people, yet little progress has been made in its cure. This is particularly true of certain types.

Dr. Copeland

When the disease is better understood and its prevention made possible, it will no longer be regarded as the "Captain of Death." That is the description given to pneumonia by Sir William Osler, one of the greatest physicians who ever lived.

Pneumonia is divided into "types," four types. More than half of all the cases are types of one and two. Type three is the most severe form, but fortunately only about 10 per cent of the cases belong to this group. Group four is the "miscellaneous group." About one-third of all cases of pneumonia fall into the last group and they are the most difficult to handle.

Recently, a serum for the treatment of pneumonia was discovered. This remedy was exceedingly successful in treating the pneumonia of animals. Animals injected with this serum appeared to develop an "immunity," or resistance to the disease.

Unfortunately, when the serum was used on human beings, only a small number of cases were benefitted. With further study, it is hoped, this serum may become very valuable. It is believed that in addition to curing pneumonia, it may also prove a preventive.

Too many persons permit themselves to get into such a rundown condition that they prepare the way for this disease. Lack of sleep, excessive fatigue, exposure to cold and dampness, lack of nourishing food—these are a few things that lower resistance and create a degree of lowered vitality that invites pneumonia.

Children should be guarded against chilling by undue exposure to severe cold and dampness. Children who are so exposed may suffer from pneumonia if they lack the necessary nourishment.

The disease is particularly common among the young and the aged. In these age groups, if the body is lacking in vitality from wrong feeding habits, undue exposure is extremely harmful.

Carelessness and neglect of the common cold may be followed by another kind of pneumonia. This is what the doctors call "broncho-pneumonia." It differs from the types I have mentioned, but it is an ailment that should be avoided.

Every infection involving the upper air passages, especially when the throat is involved, requires immediate attention. Do not take for granted that it will pass without attention.

Madge Learns Chinese Letter Has Disappeared

Before I had a chance to answer Dicky's question, Lillian saved me the trouble.

"Will you please prove to your little world that you are not the world's champion moron, Dicky-bird?" she queried. "If that isn't you all over, bring a woman out of a fainting fit and then begin to bother her with questions. She'll tell you. I fancy, when she's able to hold her head up. All I know is that she started to Southampton on an errand for me. Why she came here, I don't know."

"I meant to tell you," Mrs. Ticer broke in, and I listened with my heart in my mouth, wondering if she would speak of my telephone message to New York. But she was either discreet from her own volition or because Lillian had given her a signaling look. I did not know which. But at any rate her voice flowed steadily on with no embarrassing revelations.

"She had started for Southampton," she said, "and her car broke down, a blowout. Then she walked back here, poor dear—she was almost tuckered out when she got here. I made her lie down and fixed her some coffee, and Ticer went after the car. I told her to lie still and I'd go over and tell your father about the Chinese. Mr. Graham didn't want you to worry about her, didn't want me even to say she was here. But I thought I'd better say that, and you all hustled me back so quick—and I don't wonder—that I didn't have time to explain anything. I'm afraid she's slipping off again."

The last words were in a lower and more frightened tone to Lillian. But I had closed my eyes from fatigue, not from faintness, and I spoke quickly, reassuringly.

"No, I am perfectly all right," I said. "Who's watching the man?"

"Mr. Ticer. Don't you remember, darling?" Dicky's voice was chastened, and I knew that Lillian's bumblebee tactics had succeeded. He would ask no more questions until I was able to answer them. I smiled up at him and uttered a plea of my own.

"Won't you go and see what Mr. Ticer has done?" and Dicky rose promptly, though reluctantly.

"Are you sure you'll . . ." he asked, but my father took his arm.

"Best humor her, Richard," he advised gravely. "And she'll be all right with Mrs. Underwood and Mrs. Ticer."

He smiled down at me, with face that was still white and lined with the terror which I knew he had felt because of my swoon. But he had sensed that I wished to speak with Lillian and he had promptly provided the opportunity.

"I'll make some fresh coffee," Mrs. Ticer offered, her sovereign remedy for all occasions, and she bustled out to the kitchen.

"Well, girl!" Lillian smiled down at me. "Spill whatever's on your mind, but don't use many words. Quiet is the watchword for you, for a while."

"I'm all right," I protested. "But—I don't want Dicky to know about that letter to Jack."

"Why should he?"

"Mr. Ticer will probably tell him I telephoned from here."

"Suppose that he does. Ticer doesn't know anything about the message, does he?"

"No. I don't even know that he knows I talked to New York."

"Then why worry? Your telephoning doesn't mean a thing to the Dicky-bird. He knows you run to a telephone when you have a moment's leisure, in the same way that your great-grandmother probably picked up her knitting and knitted a few rounds. As long as he doesn't think you knew that the Chinese would be here, he won't bother his head about anything. He's simply sore because he thought you ran into danger without letting him in on it."

"But I didn't," I protested. "I didn't know——"

"Save your breath," she admonished. "He'll be back presently and when you're able to, we'll have to find out about this mysterious Chinese goose-stepping at your command through the cornfield. I have to slip it to you, old girl. You surely have a way with you. I'll bet no conservative Chinese ever did that stunt before at the bidding of a slender, titian-haired beauty. Now you shut your eyes and don't talk any more until they come in. As soon as Mrs. Ticer has the hot coffee ready, I'll see that you have a cupful."

It seemed but a few seconds afterward that our hospitable hostess appeared.

"It won't be so good," she apologized, "for I didn't wait for fresh water to boil, just took what was in the teakettle. But I judged you wouldn't want me to wait so long."

"You judged correctly," Lillian told her, and propping my head against her arm she made me drink a cupful of the coffee. It strengthened and revived me as coffee always does, so that when Dicky and my father came in a few minutes later I was not upset by Dicky's excited demand.

"What's this about a Chinese letter pinned to the cushion of your car? Let's see it!"

I unclosed my hand in which for so long I had clutched the letter. But it was not there.

"Oh! Where is it?" I cried. "Did—did he get it after all?"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Age-Old Question

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have quarreled with my boy friend and sent him home saying that I never wanted to see him again. I realize now that I have been very unreasonable and that I really am to blame. How can I apologize? Won't you please help me?

READER

The age-old question, dear girl, and the only thing to do is to take your pen in hand and tell him just what you've told me . . . that you were unreasonable, that you were to blame, and that you are sorry. Tell him that you wish his forgiveness, and that you hope that he will come to see you and tell you that you are forgiven. His answer is in the lap of the gods, but I am sure that he will be understanding and forgiving!

Correct Calling Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a middle-aged widow and I would appreciate your advice as to the correct style name cards for myself.

M.

A widow should use exactly the same form of name on her visiting cards that she used when her husband was living. The formal name:

Mrs. Thomas Wells Davidson

This, too, should be the form of name that you should use on envelopes addressed to yourself, for it is the form that your friends should use when they are addressing letters to you.

The correct signature for your letter to me should be:

Yours very sincerely,
Alice Murray Davidson
(Mrs. Thomas Wells Davidson).

Never, never, should a married woman use the Mrs. in direct signature of any letter, whether social, business, or professional. If you wish, you may omit the middle name of the direct signature, and use only the first name and the last name, and also, if you wish, you may omit the middle name of the formal name. This makes it:

Yours very sincerely,
Alice Davidson,
(Mrs. Thomas Davidson).

But one form or the other must be used if you wish to have your signature correct.

. . . If we fail them now!

Approximately 125,000 men and women are in the ranks of Allegheny county's hopeless, bewildered army of Unemployed. Fifteen thousand families are facing want and privation, and another 10,000 families will be up against it, this winter, through no fault of their own.

Confidence that in time the depression will end doesn't alter the grim fact of the emergency. And it is an emergency that must be met . . . right now.

Not merely for the sake of 1932 . . . but for 1942, ten years from today. If that time seems remote, recollect that the present depression is largely the economic result of a world war which ended thirteen years ago. Consider the lasting effect of present conditions on the lives of little children . . . mentally, morally, physically. Even if we grownups could stand it, we can't ignore the children.

Unless we who are still afloat lend a hand to these sinking unfortunates . . . unless we do something direct and effective in Allegheny county this week and next . . . a great many thousands will be hungry; they will face the bitter fact of a hard winter without income, with savings gone and credit exhausted, with the patient building of a lifetime overthrown by forces beyond their control.

The essential riches of this district . . . the luxuries in which we still indulge . . . are ironic mockeries of their plight.

Let's quit shivering at the depression and do something to lick it! Let's take care of these people, as we should. Let's go at it intelligently by raising, right now, $5,981,184 for welfare work, family relief, and emergency employment. Let's give generously, even if it does mean sacrifice.

For the sake of these people, and for the sake of ourselves, we dare not fail them in the one hour when they need us most.

How deeply do you care?

Don't misjudge your ability to help by what you could give today. Give as large an amount as you can pay over a period of months—the months through which the money will be needed. Six months. Eight months. Write your own ticket! But give with full vision as to the job to be accomplished. And interpret in your gift your prospects for better times ahead. We shall have to do that, to reach our goal.

HEADACHES caused by ACID

ACIDITY haunts its victim like a shadow. No appetite, what you do eat disagrees, causes flatulence and makes you sluggish. Work is an effort. Before night, a headache.

Do you know what is wrong? An acid-soaked system! Too many acid foods. But you need not diet your way out of this difficulty! Take a tablespoonful or two of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

From the hour you relieve that acid condition you will feel like another person. Every spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will neutralize many times as much acid. Take it when stomach nerves are overstimulated through worry, or excitement; when everything ferments in your stomach, and waste matter is poisoning the bloodstream or whenever the bowels are clogged. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia has a gentle, laxative action. It is ever so much better for one than the harsh purgatives that upset the stomach or weaken the bowel muscles. An occasional dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is all that is necessary to avoid those periodical attacks of sluggishness so apt to occur with any person who does not get a great deal of physical exercise.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is sold at drug stores everywhere in 25c and 50c bottles. Be sure to say "Phillips'" when you buy. Then you're sure of getting the product that doctors prescribe.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior toothpaste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

Biddable Suits

The requirements for making an opening suit bid of one, that I prefer to any other list of requirements, are as follows: (1) At least two sure tricks; (2) a biddable suit of not less than four cards; (3) five probable tricks (including the sure tricks); (4) four assisting tricks for partner, or ability to rebid.

My fourth requirement of four assisting tricks for partner includes enough honor values to obviate mentioning more than two sure tricks, or quick tricks, in my first requirement. Many fine players open upon ability to win only four tricks; I never found it to my advantage to bid so weak a hand. Just remember that the purely average hand can win five tricks at its best make, and that an opening bid announces something better than average, either in quick tricks or total probable tricks.

Some tables of biddable suits require from 1 to 1½ quick tricks at the head of four-card or five-card suits; again my experience with these opening bids informs me that no such restrictive rules are desirable. My own rule is as follows: A biddable suit must contain at least four cards worth at least two probable trump tricks. These biddable suits, provided the remainder of the hand justifies, are: A-10-X-X; K-Q-X-X; K-J-10-X; Q-X-X-X-X; J-10-X-X-X; any suit of six or more cards. Not one of these listed holdings counts less than four points or two probable tricks.

Occasionally I have bid a weaker suit than the above when overwhelming side strength urged such action. The other evening I bid 1-heart on Z's hand. When my partner bid 1-spade, then 2-spades over my shift to no-trumps, I bid 3-no trumps, and I made 4-odd; nothing could have prevented my scoring game.

My hand was too strong to pass. I could not bid a suit of less than four cards. I had no desire to bid an immediate no-trump without a probable trick in either major suit. My 2½ probable club tricks plus my three diamond tricks was too great strength to ignore. I made what seemed the soundest declaration when I bid 1-Heart; something which probably would be least harmful in case I found dummy trickless.

DRY VIOLATORS FINED, JAILED

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in United States District Court yesterday fined Gus Lindheimer, of Suismon street, $100 and placed him on probation for two years after Lindheimer pleaded guilty to violating the liquor laws.

Charles Reed, of Station street, who pleaded to similiar charges, was sentenced to jail for two months, while Joseph A. Smith, Sharpsburg, was paroled for two years.

George C. Woodbury, of Montrose, Pa., who pleaded guilty of a Mann Act violation, was paroled for two years.

16 Traffic Deaths October Toll Here

Pittsburgh traffic fatalities totaled 16 in October, raising the year's toll to 135, according to a report made today to the Better Traffic Committee by City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre. These included four children and 12 adults, as compared to five children and 18 adults in October last year.

The 10-month toll for 1930 was 160, including 29 children and 131 adults. The adult record is the lowest since the corresponding 10-month period in 1926.

Write a Name Here for this Movie Actress.....

WIN $750.00 CASH

Here is a movie actress in need of a name. Give her yours, or any other name you think of, it may mean $750.00 in cash to you.

THIS extraordinary announcement has attracted the attention of representatives of leading magazines and newspapers throughout the country and we are sure it will interest you because your suggestion may be the name wanted. This means you can be richer by $750.00 cash if you mail it to us at once.

This movie actress, whom you have probably seen on the screen of your favorite motion picture theatre, is the beautiful Helen Mann. Like most of the stars, she prefers to use a name other than her own, and we have decided to help her obtain it by giving $750.00 in cash to the person who is quick in sending us the most suitable name.

Now what shall we name this beautiful and coming star? Most any name may win. It may be your very own, a name of a friend or relative, or a coined name made up by you. Just make it easy to pronounce, and easy to remember. But send it right away, or you may be late for the promptness prize.

Take a pen or pencil right now and fill in your suggestion for a name at the top of this announcement, tear it out and mail to us with your name and address. There is absolutely nothing else to do to win this big cash prize of $750.00.

$250.00 EXTRA FOR PROMPTNESS

Bear in mind only one name must be submitted by each contestant. If the name we choose has been submitted by a number of people, everyone submitting that name will receive $500.00, and all winners whose name has been mailed and postmarked before Nov. 22, 1931, will receive an extra $250.00, or $750.00 in all. Send your name at once; be in time for the promptness prize, and you will be notified immediately the approximate time of the prize award. Please remember any name may be the winner, so help this beautiful little Hollywood girl by sending your name today. All entries must be sent to the Publicity Director's office. ©MUTCO 1931

Increased Pledges Needed to Attain Welfare Goal

COAL PARLEY TOLD OF VEGETABLE ENGINE FUEL

RELIEF AIDES TOLD TO MAKE RECANVASS

Chairman Exhorts Workers In Effort to Meet Goal; Await Some Large Gifts

Pittsburgh must subscribe in larger amounts to the Welfare Fund-Allegheny County Emergency Association joint campaign if it is to achieve its announced quota of $5,981,184, Chairman Joseph Dilworth told campaign workers at their daily report luncheon in the William Penn Hotel today.

Money has not been forthcoming from those already solicited in sufficient amount to assure raising the total, Dilworth said. Only $2,238,559.50 of the total had been reported after today's collections of $203,078.71 were turned in at the luncheon.

Workers must recanvass those who have contributed already, Dilworth declared, and make a desperate effort to obtain enough new contributors to raise the amount necessary for care of the needy and unemployed during the winter months.

Some large expected gifts have not yet been made, he said, but no contributions have been held back for later announcement to swell the total.

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, spoke, condemning slanderers of the Welfare Fund System. She said:

"I think people who spread such stories should be summarily dealt with in the same way as defamers of our banking system."

An American Red Cross membership card will be given each donor of $1 or more to the drive, it was announced today. The organization is one of the 77 agencies financed by the fund, and is conducting its annual national roll call.

Employes of the Armstrong Cork Company subscribed $4,000, with a contribution from every employe, it was announced. A total of $835.75 was reported by Chief George Murren as the combined subscription of county detectives, and county employes under Law Librarian J. Oscar Emmerich contributed $120, it was reported.

JUNIOR LEAGUE SHOWS SILVER

By PENELOPE REDD

The Junior League is presenting an exhibition of English silver from the collection of James Robinson, of New York, through November 21.

The collection has proportionately a greater number of items pre-dating the Eighteenth Century than is customary in traveling exhibitions.

One of the earliest and most entertaining pieces is a minute tankard of 1688. The London silversmiths of James II's day sent their representatives from one great estate to another. The burdensome bulk and the consequent temptation to highwaymen were both avoided by molding miniature replicas of the objects.

Another rare item is a great tankard which dates from the reign of William and Mary.

A group of silver plates recently acquired from the collection of the Earl of Darnley emphasizes the scrupulously honest habit of marking the precise amount of silver. Every one of the hand-molded plates differs from all the others.

Unhappily, many early and rare examples of the silversmith's art have been lost because of the prevailing custom of re-melting silver to rejuvenate it for the prevailing style of successive generations.

THEATER BOMB SUSPECTS HELD

Four men were being held by police today in connection with the frustrated attempt to bomb the Colonial Theater, 2009 East Carson street, October 26.

One is Ralph Freeman, 32, of 2803 West Liberty avenue, Dormont, business agent for Local 171, Motion Picture Operators' Union, many of whose members have been on strike for several weeks.

Freeman's home was shaken by a bomb explosion September 21.

The others are A. B. Ackard, 32, of 822 Broadway, McKees Rocks, and Donnie B. Flask, 28, of Beltzhoover, motion picture operators, and Mike Ciamacco, 22, of 593 McCoy avenue, Stowe Township.

In Central Police Court this morning detectives asked Magistrate Leo Rothenberg to hold the hearing over until tomorrow.

Detectives Joseph Linden and Sigmund Gorskey told Rothenberg the arrest might result in further apprehensions.

The bomb was found in the lobby of the theater by Patrolmen James Challis and Patrick Coyne. Coyne ripped out the sputtering fuse.

BENEFIT SHOWS TO ATTRACT HUGE THRONG

Capacity Crowds Expected At Sunday Performances Set to Aid Unemployed

Although tickets for the huge motion picture benefit shows in more than 70 motion picture theaters in Allegheny County next Sunday evening have been on sale only one day, early indications today were that capacity crowds would attend the productions for the benefit of the county's unemployed.

A part of the President Hoover-Gifford-Young assistance program, the shows are being given by Allegheny County motion picture exhibitors under the sponsorship of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and the Pittsburgh Press. John H. Harris, chairman of the local exhibitors' committee, said regular programs would be given in most of the theaters. In addition, a number have arranged for extra attractions, he said.

The wholehearted spirit in which producers, exhibitors and advertising companies and employes of theaters have agreed to donate their services gratis augurs for the success of the benefit.

The benefit shows are a part of a nation wide series of entertainments to be held for the unemployed. Only one performance will be given. There are no reserve seats and only the maximum capacity of each theater will be sold. The doors of the theaters will open at 7:30 p. m. with shows scheduled to start at 8.

Every cent paid as admission to the shows will be free for relieving suffering of the needy. The funds obtained will be administered by the Allegheny County Emergency Association.

Report Bares Theft As Police Quiz 2

While Gantana Vanire, 23, of 730 Dunster street, and John Dittmer, 28, of 2000 Plainview avenue, were being questioned in Woods Run Police Station early today following their arrest at McClure avenue, and Eckert street, a report was received telling of a stolen automobile. Investigation, police said, revealed that the machine Vanire and Dittmer were in tallied with a description of one owned by William J. Hannan, of 1933 Watson street, reported stolen. Vanire was charged with violating the automobile laws and Dittmer was held on a charge of being a suspicious person.

NUDE PAINTINGS IN EXHIBITION PRAISED

Chicago Lecturer Urges Children View Canvases As Incentive to Beauty

Proper appreciation of the nudes in the Thirtieth International should inspire the children who see them to care for their bodies and make them beautiful, in the opinion of Dudley Crafts Watson, extension lecturer of the Art Institute of Chicago. He spoke last night at Carnegie Lecture Hall on "The Eloquence of Modern Art" in a series of free lectures on the International.

Interviewed yesterday, Watson said:

"In this year's International is the finest collection of nudes I have ever seen in a contemporary exhibition. They are an inspiration, particularly to the children who thus are shown the human body as it should be. Such examples of beauty should inspire them to care for their bodies so that they become beautiful."

Commenting on the ruling by Chicago customs officials that etchings by James McNeil Whistler and Anders Zorn were obscene, Watson said:

"If the etchings had been tampered with, and I would imagine that they were, they should have been barred. If they were not tampered with the man who barred them is simply an ass.

"There is a very slight line of demarcation between the supremely beautiful and the obscene. A mere scratch might accentuate parts of the etchings and transform them from beauty to obscenity. Zorn was one of the healthiest-minded, frank portrayers of the full beauty of the human body. There is nothing of Whistler's that could be judged obscene."

Water on Both Shoulders and a Bottle on the Hip

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The campaign issue for 1932 will be the old one warmed over.

Roosevelt and Smith meet in New York this week to trot out the 1928 wet plank and touch up the sides a bit.

The Republicans realize that, no matter which way they are facing, they must yell wet to the East.

Senator Jim Wadsworth is trying to figure out a way to be sensible about it without embarrassing the administration.

Which means that the ideal presidential candidate will carry water on both shoulders, a bottle on the hip, and will stick to the straight and narrow path with a minimum of staggering.

The Democratic choices are all walloping wet. Raskob still has a mortgage on the National Committee and has been exchanging portraits with Gov. Ritchie, object matrimony.

The Republican nominee must please the drys and the American Legion. It looks like a job for the four Marx brothers.

TWO-STORIED STILL!

Prohibition Workmen Dismantling Acmetonia Plant

WORKMEN WRECKING 20-FOOT DISTILLING COLUMN OF STILL

LARGE ALCOHOL PLANT RAIDED

A huge alcohol plant, said to be one of the largest ever seized in Allegheny County, was raided last night by prohibition agents in the old Penwick distillery buildings in Acmetonia, Harmar Township.

The agents seized an 1,800-gallon still, a large steam boiler and a 20-foot distilling column. Two 400-gallon settling tanks and a 2,600-gallon wooden vat, half filled with alcohol, were also seized. Other seizures included seven drums of alcohol, 760 pounds of chloroform and other chemicals used in the purification of denatured alcohol.

After a chase of several blocks, Sam Storfer, of Acmetonia, was arrested, agents said.

The plant was dismantled by the agents. Storfer was brought to Pittsburgh, where he will be arraigned before the United States Commissioner.

Robbers Ransack Bellevue Theater

Bellevue police today notified county detectives that thieves had entered the Bellevue Theater Building last night, and had ransacked several offices.

BUHL HOUSING JOB SPEEDED

The Buhl Foundation's modern housing development in Ft. Washington road reached a high point of construction activity yesterday when contractors reported they had 456 men at work.

The first million dollar unit of 125 houses will be under roof by Thanksgiving, W. F. Trimble and Sons Company, contractors, predicted. The first foundation was begun August 25. Brick work already has been completed on 100 homes.

Present plans call for delivery by the contractors of several groups of homes for showing after the first of the year. All are to be ready for showing before May 1, contractors said.

Plant Superintendent Falls Dead at Work

R. J. Rasmussen, 60, of 227 Eighth avenue, McKeesport, superintendent of the Peters Packing Company, McKeesport, fell dead from heart disease today while at work in the plant, the coroner reported. He had been under a physician's care for heart disease.

VIEWS ON CURE FOR INDUSTRY STUDIED

Fifty Solutions Proposed To Spur 'Sleeping Giant' To Profitable Activity

How to run engines with vegetables for fuel—ground peanuts, corn stalks, soya beans, olives and even sunflower seeds, or what have you—was the theme of the address of Rud Pawlikowski, president of the Kosmos Engine Works, Gorlitz, Germany, enthralling the scientists and industrialists who today attended the third international conference on bituminous coal.

The conference, which began its second day in Carnegie Music Hall, swung swiftly from the economic phases of yesterday into the scientific problems that will in all probability determine the future of the coal, gas and other fuel industries.

SUCCESSFUL IN TEST

The Pawlikowski paper, first to be read today, explained the results of experiments on a Rupa engine, which, he maintains, could be operated up to 1,000 revolutions a minute, or more. His papers explained:

"Investigations of the small compressorless high-speed engine have indicated future way for the production of small high-speed compressorless Rupa engines of very simple design that is, without centrifuga spindles, without an air injection valve, and without a control lever system, but with oi pressure control from a pressur oil pump regulated by a gov ernor.

"Engines of this kind will the be used for tractors, dredge cranes, locomotives, agricultura machinery, etc. They may als be operated on vegetable flour which may be produced by the farmer himself from his plant residues, corn stalks, leaves, needles, hulls of rice, coffee or coca beans, or from vegetable residues of oil factories."

EXPLAINS PROBLEMS

The paper, given in the pulverized fuel conference, was read at the same time W. A. Forbes, assistant to the president of the United States Steel Corporation, was explaining what is wrong with the coal industry.

Explaining that at the peak of coal production during the war there had been over 9,000 bituminous mines working, he stated that in 1929, a big business year, more than 6,000 mines were in operation. He said:

"And 1,900 mines can produce more coal than the demands of 1929, although it is both improbable and impractical to cut down the number to that amount, due to location and distance."

Other speakers at the morning conference discussed competition between the various fuels, while the development and effect of pulverized coal was the subject of several addresses.

The meetings will be almost completely devoted to research problems until late Thursday, when a committee appointed by Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Tech and sponsor of the conference, will report.

The committee was asked to receive recommendations as a means to bring about economic coordination in the coal industry.

MANY PLANS OFFERED

The request followed suggestions by various authorities, some of which, in essence, follow:

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 17.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Watch your local movie theaters for the date they are giving their unemployment benefits, with the proceeds going to your own locality. That's a big thing, and should raise a lot of money. Go, even if it's my picture and you have to sleep through it. I always holler at the end of each one, so it wakes everybody up and lets 'em know it's over. Say this new home building idea of Mr. Hoover's sounds good, they are working out a lot of beneficial things. The only thing, it took 'em so long to think of any of 'em. We ought to have plans in case of depression, just like we do in case of a fire—"Walk, don't run to the nearest exit."

Company Donates Coal To Heat Homes of Needy

The Fuel Relief Committee affiliated with the Helping Hand Association has established a coal yard in Dasher street, near West General Robinson street, to furnish coal through organized charities to poor of the city.

J. Rodgers Flannery, of the executive committee of the Helping Hand, has volunteered his services as chairman of the new committee. Alexander Gibson, director of the Helping Hand Association, is in charge of distribution of the coal through the charity organizations.

Free use of its property has been granted by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the storing of the coal. The Empire Coal and Coke Company has agreed to weigh coal free of charge.

The Butler Consolidated Coal Company has offered to furnish a large quantity of the coal to heat buildings of the Helping Hand Association, and remainder to be delivered free to poor families. The offer was made by C. H. Hosford, Jr., president of the company, recently appointed by Gov. Pinchot to the Pennsylvania Coal Commission, and W. P. Vance, general superintendent of the mines.

The only charges in the distribution will be freight rates of 80 cents per ton from the mine to Pittsburgh and other incidental operating expenses. These charges could not be avoided due to the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling governing railroads.

KERR AUDITORS SCAN TAXES

Auditors investigating the administration of the City Treasurer's office under Roy D. Schooley are now checking delinquent tax collections and may not complete the report before December 1, according to Controller James P. Ker.

Dr. Ker attributed the delay of the auditors to the fact that a complete [illegible] the Treasurer's office has not been made for many years. Dr. Ker said:

"I have been blamed for slowness in this matter, but delay has been the farthest thing from my thoughts. I want to see it cleared up and out of the road."

Councilman Charles Anderson said today he expected Council's Finance Committee to act at once on his resolution asking the bonds for the City Treasurer and Collector of Delinquent Taxes from $100,000 to $250,000 in each case.

At the same time the Finance Committee was expected to act on a resolution for a warrant of $25,000 to pay cost of the audit being conducted in the Treasurer's office.

CITY WELFARE BUDGET CUT

Economies in preparation of the 1932 budget have resulted in a reduction of $107,783.83 in the Department of Public Welfare's requirements, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director, announced today. At the same time Mrs. Rauh asserted the department had a balance of $92,129.47 from the 1931 appropriation. This money she declared would be returned to the councilmanic general fund.

At the City Home and Hospital at Mayview the budget estimates have been cut $66,954.83. All estimates have been pared, the director said, except food. Commenting on this she declared:

"We will not cut our estimates for food requirements. We intend to give the patients and personnel at Mayview the best money can buy."

Reductions in the payroll have totaled $39,744.

There are nearly 1,000 more inmates at Mayview now than at the same time last year, according to departmental figures compiled by Dr. James S. Hammers, superintendent.

Holdup Fails When Noise Scares Gunman

Police today are searching for a gunman who early last night attempted to hold up Sam Salensky in his confectionery at 1909 Beaver avenue.

After threatening Salensky with a revolver, the holdup man became frightened by a noise in a rear room and fled, according to a police report.

Monoxide Fumes Cause Man's Death

James Calahan, 73, was found dead yesterday in his room at 841 Western avenue. Death was due, a report to the coroner's office said, to carbon monoxide poisoning. He had not been seen since last Friday.

TROLLEY DEAN VISITS CITY

Frank Julian Sprague, the "Father of Electric Traction" paid a hurried visit to Pittsburgh as the guest of Frank H. Shepard, director of heavy traction at the Westinghouse Electric Company. Sprague and Shepard stopped for a day on their way from Chicago to New York, Sprague's home.

The 74-year-old inventor recalled days when he visited Pittsburgh during the horse car days to watch development of the Allegheny City Electric Railway, the success of which resulted in the development of similar railways throughout the country. In discussing new developments in traction systems, Sprague predicted wide adoption of the "trolley bus."

Pennsy Announces New Appointments

C. I. Leipet, general manager of the Central Region, Pennsylvania Railroad, announced that C. G. Grove, division engineer at Terre Haute, has been appointed division engineer of the Panhandle Division, with headquarters in Pittsburgh. Other changes are:

T. E. Nester, division engineer of the Panhandle, goes to the Monongahela division, succeeding W. S. Wilson, transferred to the Conemaugh division. He replaces A. H. Tasker, who becomes division engineer at Buffalo.

JINGLE AWARDS TOMORROW

Hundreds of Sun-Telegraph readers are anxiously looking for the names of the winners for "Christmas Jingle" No. 1. They will appear tomorrow.

These jingling jingles caught the popular fancy and in many, many homes they have become the evening diversion and recreation for the entire family. In the meantime it is hoped that the jingles are getting the minds of Sun-Telegraph readers on early Christmas shopping—getting into the stores while the bargains are plentiful and the crowds are not what they will be around the holidays. Get your Christmas bargains today and lay them away. Try your hand on No. 7 today. If you submit what the judges think is the best of all "last lines" sent in you get a check for $5.00. The five next best "last lines" will each be awarded $1.00.

All readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with the exception of employes, are invited to enter the "Christmas Jingle" contest.

Each Sun-Telegraph "Christmas Jingle" will be consecutively numbered.

OF YOUR TEETH

You've always realized that to keep your teeth sound and healthy you must give them daily care at home, as well as seeing your dentist regularly. But there's something more to be considered. Frequent brushing won't protect your teeth, if the dentifrice you use contains harsh abrasives or dangerous bleaches.

Make sure first of all that your dentifrice is safe. Squibb Dental Cream is made with more than 50% Milk of Magnesia—a product used and recommended by dentists everywhere in the care of the teeth. There is no grit in Squibb's—no astringent—nothing that can possibly injure tooth-enamel or the delicate tissues of your gums.

Squibb's cleans thoroughly as well as safely. It penetrates the crevices, and its gentle polishing action makes teeth gleam with all their natural luster. Try brushing your teeth with it after a day of smoking, or before going out for the evening. See how it soothes and refreshes your entire mouth! Get a tube from your druggist today.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman finance committee, United States Steel Corporation:

"Anything in reason to get away from unrestricted competition."

Dr. W. T. Thom, Jr., Princeton University:

"Appoint state councils to regulate production to meet consumption, as the oil industry is doing."

A review of 49 proposals for the stabilization of the industry was read by Dr. L. E. Young, vice president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. In it was suggested government control by the "second largest coal company in the nation and by the United Mine Workers."

Dr. Baker, welcomed the speakers and visitors, who came from virtually every state in Europe, the Orient, Canada and the South.

MARKET REPAIR PROFIT SEEN

Remodeling of the South Side market house into a farmers' market at an expense of $10,000 would bring a profit of $12,000 yearly to the city, according to a plan given Council today by the Commercial Adjustment Service, and J. Banks McIntyre, of that organization. Council was petitioned recently to convert the market house into quarters for farmers disposing of produce here.

In McIntyre's plan, 168 individual stalls for produce would be provided at an annual rental cost of $125 each. The stalls would cost $6,720, while other improvements would bring the total figure to $10,000. A gross revenue of $21,000 would be collected, netting a profit of $12,000 for the first year. Succeeding years, according to McIntyre, would increase the profits.

PITTSBURGHERS ON SAFETY BODY

Richard K. Mellon, vice president, Mellon National Bank; H. H. Robertson, president, H. H. Robertson Company, and Frank J. Lanahan, president, Fort Pitt Malleable Iron Company, are included in a newly-formed country-wide advisory body which marks a new era in the operations of the National Safety Council. The group has been named the Special Advisory Committee.

The committee is to bring the heads of some of the largest organizations in the country into active participation in safety work.

VOTE MACHINE WRIT REFUSED

Chief Justice Robert S. Frazer, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, late yesterday refused a writ of supersedeas to restrain County Controller Robert G. Woodside and County Treasurer John Francies from paying $400,577 to the Poole Engineering and Machine Company for voting machines.

The application was made by Attorney C. F. C. Arensberg for Ada B. Bassett, Northumberland street, who appealed from the decision of Judge Elder W. Marshall, of Common Pleas Court, in a mandamus action, requiring the county to pay the money.

Irish Teams Compared. Rated Equal by Devine. Shift Improves Dukes.

Ens' Job Sought by 80. Owner Not Near Choice. Mixup Over Fighters.

SCHWARTZ FIRST ELEVEN'S ONLY EDGE

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE between Notre Dame's first and second football teams? Only the difference between Marchy Schwartz and Mike Koken, Youngstown (O.) lad, at left halfback, in the opinion of Aubrey Devine. And Devine is generally conceded to know his football. He was chosen as all-America quarterback by Walter Camp after he had starred for Iowa in 1921, and he is now a member of the coaching staff at Southern California. It was upon his return to the Trojan camp after scouting the Irish in three games that he expressed the above opinion.

Mike Koken

Devine was in Pittsburgh to watch the tilt between Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech. He also saw Pitt play the Irish in South Bend, and concluded his observations at the meeting of Notre Dame and Penn. He admits that he didn't carry much hope back to Los Angeles with him when he took his reports to Coach Howard Jones to enable the latter better to prepare the Trojans for their sixth annual tussle with Notre Dame at South Bend Saturday.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WAS the last team to defeat the Irish. That was on December 8, 1928, in Los Angeles, the score being 27 to 14. Since that date the South Benders have gone through 26 straight games without a defeat, the scoreless tie with Northwestern this fall having been the only interruption in the long string of victories.

In view of the little shown by Army here Saturday, the general opinion in football circles is that unless Southern California stops the Irish Saturday it won't be done at all this year, and the South Benders will complete a third undefeated season. And although Devine doesn't openly say so, his remarks indicate that he doesn't consider the chances overly encouraging. So far Southern California has beaten Notre Dame only once in five meetings.

"NOTRE DAME is so good that Hunk Anderson could lick any team he has played, Northwestern excepted, with his second string," Devine declared. "It is impossible to set a fool-proof defense for the Irish because they are such a versatile squad.

"Just when you think you have them stopped they break out in another direction. They have plenty of new wrinkles offensively, and they originated with Anderson. He knows his business. All the players are so good that nobody stands out. Why, Anderson has four tackles—Krause, Kurth, Culver and Kozak—and doesn't know which pair to call his first-team men. Culver was a wow against us last year, yet he's on the second team now.

"THERE ISN'T ANY difference between the first and second teams except that with Schwartz at left halfback the first team has a bit more power. But this boy Koken, who replaces him, has come along so swiftly that by the time we meet them he'll be every bit as good as Schwartz. The only time the Irish were extended was against Northwestern, but that was no fair test as the game was played on a terrible field in a driving rain. I am confident that in no game since then has Notre Dame played within 50 per cent of its true ability. The team could have licked Pennsylvania by 100 points."

Elmer Layden

NOW THAT HE shifted Fred Cristina from right halfback to fullback, either to alternate with or supplant Silvio Zaninelli, Head Coach Elmer Layden will have a materially strengthened Duke team to send against the undefeated North Dakota invaders Saturday afternoon at Forbes Field. Though the chances of Cristina's outpunting the hard-kicking Zaninelli are rather slim, he can carry the ball well and is admittedly faster than Zananelli.

The shift is regarded as an effort by Coach Layden to have available a second dependable fullback, since Dick Quill lacks experience. On the other hand, if Zananelli does not improve his form considerably it would not be at all surprising to see Cristina start against the giant Flickertails in the annual Homecoming Day game. The change promises to be a good illustration of the improvement which shifts can bring about.

WHEN COACH LAYDEN moved Ben Pawlina from fullback to the right halfback position, he made the Duke backfield stronger than it has been at any other time this season, and the latest shakeup is likely to make it even better.

With Bud Devenney at quarterback and Al DeLuca at left halfback, the Dukes have the forward-passing threat which revolves about that duo, the kicking of either Cristina or Zananelli—since the new fullback is a fair booter—and the ball-toting prowess of Pawlina, all of which certainly should improve the chances of Duquesne this week-end.

A STACK OF applications at Pirate headquarters for the vacant managerial job attests that baseball has its full share of the jobless. Approximately 80 men who consider themselves qualified to manage a major league club would like to succeed Jewel Ens as manager of the Buccaneers and have asked for the consideration of the club owner. In admitting that surprisingly long list of candidates, President Barney Dreyfuss said that practically all of them have made formal application for the job in writing.

THE PIRATE OWNER expressed doubt that the new manager would be appointed before the league meetings next month. He said he had a big job ahead going over the huge batch of applications to pick out the more desirable men, and then to consider them all in addition to some others who may be available.

"And after that I mean to have personal talks with several of the available men before I make a selection," he added. "I am still determined to avoid haste. We don't need a manager yet and nothing could be gained by rushing matters. It's still a wide open proposition. I am not near to making a choice."

PRESIDENT DREYFUSS plans to leave two weeks from today for West Baden, Ind., where the major league magnates are to hold a conference with the minor club owners, who will be in session there December 2, 3 and 4.

Then he will go to Chicago for the big league meetings starting December 8, and in order to take advantage of any trading opportunities that may arise he probably will put a new skipper on the job about that time.

Jack Gross

THE FISTIC POWERS out on the Pacific Coast are getting their boxers mixed. After due deliberation, the California Boxing Commission announced it positively would not permit Johnny Grosso to meet George Godfrey, and ordered Los Angeles promoters to change their card. They held that Grosso was a virtual unknown who had been fighting only ham-anders since his arrival in San Francisco recently, and that he would be no match for Godfrey. The commissioners meant well and were seeking to protect the fans, but they had things twisted a bit. It wasn't Grosso at all whom the Los Angeles promoters planned to send against Godfrey, but Jack Gross, Philadelphia heavyweight, who has fought Tommy Loughran three times and holds a five-round technical kayo against Godfrey himself. When this was explained to the commission the august body reversed itself as gracefully as possible, and accordingly the Godfrey-Gross bout will be allowed to go on this week as scheduled.

A capacity crowd, the first of the season here, today was trying to recover its mental balance following one of the stormiest nights in the history of boxing at Motor Square Garden, last night.

It was arguing pro and con the merits of the exhibition of Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles, former welterweight champion of the world, who fought 10 of the roughest and bloodiest rounds within recent memory in the old arena to a referee's draw, with the preponderance of ringside opinion favoring Fields as the winner with something to spare, although he did not get a vote in the official balloting. Judge Frank Brown voted for Belmont and Judge Frank Ferris strung along with Referee Al Grayber in ruling the battle a draw.

FIELDS HAS EDGE

Our score sheet credited the blood-besmeared and sorry-looking former champion with outpunching the local man in seven of the 10 rounds, despite the handicap of his injury, with blood blurring his vision. Belmont fought one of his hardest and best fights, and in the early stages looked like a sure winner against the 2-to-1 betting choice, but he bowed to Fields' greater experience and knowledge of ring tricks in the closing heats, and the final round found him well under control, once sagging through the ropes near his own corner and at other times grabbing and maintaining clinches.

Belmont's own left eye was cut in the eighth round, but his manager, Frank Klaus, was able to stem the flow of blood. Fields' gory appearance may have weighed heavily against him in the opinion of the officials.

To cap the tempestuous evening, the usually unruffled Bill Schuster, the announcer, gummed up the decision. He first called the fight a draw, which was correct officially, and then, when he went to read the slips to the press row, reversed himself, blew his whistle for attention and announced that Belmont had won, which drew a protest from Fields and his manager, Ray Alvis, who demanded to see the slips. The tangle finally was straightened out when it developed that the judges had disagreed, in which case, under the boxing commission rules, the referee's vote is final. A third announcement therefore was necessary, by which time the fans were muttering to themselves.

OVERFLOW TURNOUT

The club can rematch Belmont and Fields any time and be sure of another sellout. In fact, more than 1,000 fans were turned away last night after all of the seats had been sold, standing room no longer being permitted. Because of the congestion, the usual intermission before the main bout was eliminated, a fine break for those fans who have to go home early so they can get up in time to be at work the following morning.

Fields really won the fight with his execution at close quarters. He used a jolting short inside uppercut that had Belmont baffled and also cuffed Jimmy with both fists and belted him to the body. Belmont fought a rushing fight from the start and showed rare courage in tearing into such a famous foe in the manner in which he did. He won the first round, in which he was the aggressor all the way. Fields got going on the inside in the second and outscored his man. Just before the bell, he complained to the referee against Belmont's butting with his head, and, as he went to his corner, a trickle of blood came from the side of his left eye. Jackie continued to outbox Jimmy, making the latter miss and scoring effectively in the third until, with less than a minute to go, the cut on his left eye was gashed wide open and the blood began to pour out.

VETERAN COACH TO BE ASKED TO REMAIN

By JESS CARVER

The athletic council at Carnegie Tech has decided to petition Wally Steffen to reconsider his recent decision to resign as head football coach at the Skibo institution. John Laboon, president of the council, has been delegated to name a committee to approach the judge and the chances are that Steffen will remain in the harness for another season at least.

Last week in Chicago, Judge Steffen announced that he was going to resign after the present campaign, which ends with the New York University game in New York Thanksgiving Day. He made the announcement at a Universities of Chicago banquet. The announcement did not come as a complete surprise here, as it was known that Judge Steffen favored stepping out of the picture in the near future, but it did bring about general activity in Carnegie ranks, with the result that the athletic council was gathered last night, with the exception of one member, Lefty Lee, who is suffering with a leg injury, and decided to petition Wally to remain.

VETERAN MAY STAY

This correspondent has been reliably informed that Judge Steffen will not sever all connections with the local school, but will not be as active as he has been during the past two or three years. He may be induced to remain in an advisory capacity, coming over for two or three important games and being on hand for part of the preliminary work early in the fall.

It also is likely that in the event Steffen does decide to relinquish the job here, Bob Waddell, the present assistant coach, will be offered the head job, and a suitable assistant procured.

The fact that Steffen decided to take over the cloak of head coach this fall, after acting in an advisory capacity for two years, just when things looked blackest for the Tartans, indicated that he had some idea of stepping out. His political duties and the cares of his judgeship in Chicago are taking up more and more of his time.

Being a good sport, he did not wish to put Waddell on the spot by giving up this year in the event the Tartans suffered a disastrous season. As a matter of fact, the Skibos may defeat New York U. next week, which, with the wins over Temple and Georgia Tech, will perk the Skibo record up considerable, despite defeats at the hands of Pitt, Purdue, Notre Dame and Wash-Jeff.

HARPSTER MENTIONED

The name of Howard Harpster has been mentioned prominently as a possible assistant for Wad-

SCHMELING NOT BOOKED HERE

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—An exhibition tour of 23 cities, carefully designed to land Max Schmeling in Oakland, Cal., January 16, has been announced for the heavyweight champion, Schmeling, who arrives in New York next month, expects to defend his title against Mickey Walker, in Los Angeles, February 22.

He will carry two sparring partners on the tour that opens in Boston, December 14, and will box two rounds against each man in each appearance.

While no definite announcements have been made regarding a Schmeling-Walker match in Los Angeles, Joe Jacobs, manager of the champion, has discussed with William F. Carey, president of the Madison Square Garden, the possibility of the Garden joining forces with California interests to promote the match. No decision has been reached.

Schmeling's tour and the tentative dates for his appearances follow:

December 14, Boston; 15, New Haven, Conn.; 16, Paterson, N. J.; 17, Newark, N. J.; 18, Camden, N. J., or Wilmington, Del.; 21, Pittsburgh; 22, Canton, O.; 23, Charleston, W. Va.; 24, Huntington, W. Va.; 25, Terre Haute or Evansville, Ind.; 28, Grand Rapids, Mich.; 29, Fort Wayne, Ind.; 30, Champaign or Urbana, Ill.; 31, Peoria, Ill. January 1, Milwaukee; 4, Kansas City, Mo.; Topeka, Kas.; 8, Oklahoma City; 9, Colorado Springs, Col.; 11, Salt Lake City, Utah; 13, Ogden, Utah; 15, Reno, Nev.; 18, Oakland, Cal.

A. A. CONFAB OPENS TODAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Unless there is a last-minute switch in sentiment, Thomas Jefferson Hickey will defeat the annual campaign to unseat him as president of the American Association at today's meeting.

As the eight club owners gathered in Chicago for their annual meeting to elect officers, the veteran leader of the Class A circuit had at least four votes in his pocket—enough to assure his re-election for another year anyway.

George Belden, owner of the Minneapolis Club, was regarded as Hickey's rival for the post, and his entry into the race brought the rumor that Mike Kelley, present Miller manager, would succeed him as head of the Millers, and Donie Bush, former pilot of the Chicago White Sox, would be named manager of the club.

Hickey, one of the founders of the American Association, has been president of the organization for 18 years.

Actual schedule making will be postponed until the league meeting at West Baden, Ind., next month, although it was understood an agreement would be drawn up for sectional openings of the 1932 season.

Mike Koken Lost To Irish for Season

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Coach Heartly (Hunk) Anderson, of Notre Dame, today said Mike Koken, one of his star reserve backs, would be out of the football wars for the rest of the season because of injuries suffered in the Navy game.

Koken complained of a sore back and it was first believed that one of his ribs were cracked. X-rays were taken and revealed that he was suffering from three cracked vertabrae.

George Melinkovich, regular Notre Dame fullback, also was suffering from a shoulder injury, but may be able to get into Saturday's important battle with the Trojans of Southern California. Bill Pierce, reserve guard, was nursing a fractured elbow.

BEAVER COUNTY CHAMPS HAVE FINE RECORD

By JULIUS LEVIN

The elimination of Ambridge High School, which suffered its first defeat in three years at the hands of the powerful Midland High eleven, likewise undefeated, marked the only change among the leaders in the fight for the W. P. I. A. L. football championship during the past week-end.

The victory of Coach Lemmon's Crucibles enabled them to complete their regular schedule with a string of nine successive triumphs, giving them the Beaver County championship and placing them among the strongest contenders for the W. P. I. A. L. championship.

IMPRESSIVE RECORD

The record compiled by Midland this season compares favorably with the best of any school in the district and is worthy of the highest consideration from the W. P. I. A. L. championship committee.

Midland's record shows a 40-0 victory over Freedom, a 26-0 victory over Ellwood City, a 19-0 victory over New Brighton, a 32-0 victory over Monaca, a 13-0 victory over Beaver Falls, a 34-0 victory over East Liverpool, a 13-0 victory over Rochester, a 14-6 victory over Aliquippa (the only team to score on Midland), and a 14-0 victory over Ambridge.

EDGEWOOD IN FRONT

Edgewood sets the pace for the teams in the Greater Pittsburgh district with six victories and one tie game. Clairton, McKeesport and Washington continue to lead in the Monongahela valley, the first two with eight victories and no defeats, while the last-named shows six victories and no defeats. Swissvale is the leader in the Turtle Creek valley with six victories, two defeats and one tie. McDonald has moved into first place in the Panhandle district with seven victories and one defeat; Sharon leads all rivals in the Shenango valley with seven straight triumphs, while in the Mercer County crown, Springdale and Freeport head the Allegheny valley elevens each with eight victories and no defeats, and North Union and Greensburg are deadlocked for the top honors in Westmoreland and Fayette counties, each with seven victories and one defeat. The records:

Coach Charley Reid aims to have the Yellow Jackets' handicap of lack of condition inflicted on them by their abbreviated training campaign completely erased when the Buffalo Bisons come here for an International League hockey fixture Thursday night. The local skaters, who were put through a long workout yesterday, went through their paces for more than an hour at the Craig street arena this morning and at the finish of the grind Coach Reid expressed confidence that they would be able to put the pressure on Buffalo from start to finish.

Buffalo is under new ownership and new management but the Bison squad is made up of the same skaters who finished in front in the races of 1929-30 and 1930-31. The Jackets weren't able to win a tilt from the New Yorkers until their last meeting of the season last spring, and there is no reason to believe that they will encounter any shortage of opposition this season.

The game with Buffalo is the only engagement on the Jackets' slate this week. Cleveland is to appear at Windsor for the only tilt scheduled in the International circuit tonight.

MONAR VICTOR OVER KELLY

The Homestead Community Welfare Fund Committee staged a smoker last night at Turners Hall. Six amateur boxing bouts and other entertainment helped a large gathering to enjoy a pleasant evening.

Paul Monar, of Homestead Library junior A. M. A. flyweight champion, and Wildcat Kelly, of the Boys' Club, gave the fans three rounds of fast fighting, Monar winning the decision.

Rev. James R. Cox and Honus Wagner made addresses.

112-pound class—Paul Monar, Homestead Library A. C., defeated Wildcat Kelly, Boys' Club, three rounds. Lee Berkeley, Boys' Club, defeated Frank Molnar, Homestead Library A. C., three rounds. Joe Johnny Timko, Homestead A. A., defeated Buster Fisher, on attached, three rounds.

147-pound class—Dick Blackwell, Homestead A. A., defeated Tim Tyne, Boys' Club, three rounds. Jack Barry, Homestead A. A., defeated Andy Sabolcik, Boys' Club, three rounds. Joe Bonetti, Homestead A. A., defeated Angelo Pecchioni, Boys' Club, three rounds.

DEAN CAPTURES COLLEGE RUN

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Setting a pace that lowered the course record by more than 42 seconds, Dan Dean, of the University of Pennsylvania, yesterday led 116 college harriers over the hills and dales of Van Cortlandt Park to win the twenty-third renewal of the intercollegiate cross-country run.

Dean covered the six-mile course in 29.23 3-5 to break the record of 30.06 established jointly by Francis Lindsey and Harry Richardson, of Maine, two years ago. Harvard carried off team honors for the first time since 1912. The Crimson posted a victorious low total of 44 points.

Four other runners also bettered the previous record time. Clark Chamberlain, of Michigan State, was timed in 29.28, but could do no better than second. Third place went to George Barker, of New York University, in 29.30, and fourth to Bill McKiniff, of Pennsylvania, who outgamed Joe McCluskey, of Fordham, the national two-mile steeplechase champion. McKiniff's time was 29.51, one second faster than McCluskey.

106-TO-1 SHOT WINS

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 17.—(INS.)—A 106-to-1 shot, the seventh race here yesterday, at odds of 106 to 1 in the mutuel pools, won on an American track this year, a check-up showed today.

Dink Templeton Seriously Ill From Infection

CADDIES DINED BY CLUBS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Prizes for conduct during the playing season, awards for meritorious work, entertainment galore, turkey and trimmin's—the more than 700 caddies who yesterday were the guests of the clubs by whom they are employed today are wondering whether or not they are going to awaken suddenly and find it all to be only a dream.

Members, committees and executives of the Pittsburgh Field Club, South Hills Country Club and Longue Vue Club served the bag-toters their annual platter last night, and it was "big doings."

At the South Hills Country Club, where Bill Muchler is caddiemaster, each and every caddie, regardless of his season's record, was predented with sweater and cap of quality, a most commendable bit of generosity. And, besides, amateur boxing bouts were staged.

The members of the Pittsburgh Field Club joined the caddies of that course, at least those who were not required to attend school, in a blind bogey tourney—and there was much merrymaking.

Harry Kelly is caddie-master at the Field Club, and Phil Murray at Longue Vue.

At 110 pounds, M. H. S. defeated Wally Pinto, A. C. Billy Boyle, Lincoln A. C., defeated Bobby Rankin, Emerald A. C. Pat Powers, Lindwood A. C., defeating John Trunk, Braddock A. C. Mike Barto, Arnold, defeated Leo Myron, Lincoln A. C. Jack Hall, M. H. S., defeated Mike Mavenda, Emerald A. C.; John Rizo, Willow A. C., defeated Marty Mehalic, Wilmo A. C.

JOHNSTON, BARR QUALIFY

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 17.—Two Pittsburgh golfers qualified in the second division of the sixteenth annual Carolina golf tournament here yesterday. Graham Johnston scored 55-51—106, and Lawrence Barr, 54-53—107.

PITTSBURGHER COPS

BALTIMORE, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The shady Brook Farm's inconsistent Pittsburgher, ran to form to capture the Prince George Autumn Handicap, feature race of the closing day's card of a 12-day run at Bowie yesterday.

BELMONT DRAWS WITH FIELDS

to continue doing so until the finish of the fight. Belmont worked on the eye immediately, but it was Fields' round on his early lead.

FIELDS FINISHES STRONG

Fields slackened his pace as Belmont tore after him with a big bid for victory in the fourth and fifth rounds, and Jimmy carried both of them and it appeared as if the fight might be stopped because of the condition of Fields' eye, which Jackie was trying to protect.

The sixth round saw Fields begin to assert himself again, and he carried every session from then on until the finish. Belmont was tough and strong and aggressive, and both were guilty of fouling. Fields mainly of hitting on the breaks and once using his shoulder, while Jimmy constantly used his head and was warned three times for hitting low with his left in the eighth round and then followed with a low right, for which he apologized. Belmont's own left eye was cut as he went to his corner at the end of this round.

Fields put on what should have been a decision-clinching finish in the last round, when, as already related, he made Jimmy sag into the ropes as he hammered the body and also forced him to clinch frequently.

Belmont weighed 148¼ pounds and Fields 148½ at 3 p. m.

FLANAGAN BEATS BRENT

The eight-round semi-final also was a bruising tussle, with Billy Flanagan, of Braddock, 158, defeating Billy Brent, Negro, of the Hill, 155. Flanagan was a decisive winner, but it required Referee Jack Henderson's vote to decide the issue when Judge Ferris voted for a draw.

Davy Grove, of the North Side, 144¾, knocked out Francisco Marino, Cuban Negro, 141½, in 1 minute 35 seconds of the opening round of the third bout, scheduled for six rounds. A left to the body felled Marino, who arose after the count of 10 and protested in vain that he be permitted to continue.

SENICH WINS OVER ZIVIC

Steve Senich, of Homestead, 129½, proved too rugged for Fritzie Zivic, of Lawrenceville, recent amateur star, and a brother of Jack and Pete Zivic, 129, and outpunched the latter in the first six-rounder. Fritzie started off well, but tired under a body pounding.

Patsy Hennegan, of Clairton, 135½, bested Frankie Reilly, of McKeesport, 132, in the four-round opener.

No show was announced for next Monday night.

Between Rounds

There will be no boxing show in McKeesport either this week or next, Promoter Jim Mullen announces.

A benefit boxing show for Jack Sherman, veteran referee, will be staged in Boston, November 30. Al Brown, world bantamweight champion, likely will box in the main bout.

Patsy Perrotti, Canton (O.) light-heavyweight, will box Hugh Heise in the main bout of a show at Ashtabula, O., tomorrow night.

Joe Ashland boxes Jack Dorrenbee, Eddie Simms meets Jack O'Dowd, and Frankie Chatterton clashes with Eddie Bojarck in bouts in Cleveland Friday night.

Babe Titterton engages Rice Brown in the main bout of a show in Cleveland next Monday night.

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, boxes Johnny Hill, of Edgewood, O., at Huntington, W. Va., Wednesday night of next week.

Danny Russell and Danny Devlin box the main bout of a show in Philadelphia Friday night. Billy Ritchie and Lew Lafferty are in the semi-final.

BARONS SIGN M'NALLY

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Mike McNally, who has won two pennants and finished second twice in his four seasons in the New York-Pennsylvania League, last night signed to manage the Barons next season. The former Yankee outfielder succeeds Ira Bingham as pilot of the club. In 1928 and again the following year, the Barons led the race in 1930 and finished second last season.

CALLAHAN WINNER

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Andy Callahan, of Lawrence, retained his New England lightweight championship here last night by defeating Sammy Fuller, of Boston, by a narrow margin in a sizzling 15-round go.

Fight Results

At Motor Square Garden: Jackie Fields and Jimmy Belmont drew (referee's decision, 10 rounds). Billy Flanagan defeated Billy Brent (referee's decision, 8 rounds). Davy Grove knocked out Francisco Marino, 1 round. Steve Senich defeated Fritzie Zivic (referee's decision, 6 rounds). Patsy Hennegan defeated Frankie Reilly, 4 rounds.

At Detroit, Mich.: Young Terry defeated Billy Hood, 10 rounds.

At Paris, Ark.: Jack Delaney won on foul from Frankie Genaro, 7 rounds.

At Charleston, S. C.: Wilbur Moore knocked out Abe Small, 1 round.

At New York: Ray Miller and Mickey Walsh drew, 10 rounds. Louis Angel Torres defeated G. Palladino, 6 rounds. Steve Addonizio knocked out Frankie McKeefrey, 2 rounds. Charley Rodriguez defeated Willie Simmons, 4 rounds. Al Stuart defeated Jackie Wade, 10 rounds. Pete Stone and Joe Thornton drew, 8 rounds. Willie Siegel defeated Mike Shiro, 4 rounds. Vincente Campos knocked out Sam Singer, 1 round. Hans Moeller defeated Harry Wallace, 8 rounds.

At Boston: Andy Callahan defeated Sammy Fuller, 15 rounds.

At Wheeling, W. Va.: Battling Gary defeated Eddie Edelman, 10 rounds. Al Gainer defeated Harry Morris, 6 rounds. Young Terry defeated Tony Quinto, 6 rounds. Jack Gibbs and Mike Thobet drew, 6 rounds.

At Atlantic City: Billy Jones knocked out Frankie Higgins, 3 rounds. Pal Harwood defeated Mike Sullivan, 8 rounds. Kid Wolf here defeated Dudley Whitley, 6 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.: Young Firpo and Bud Maguire drew, 10 rounds. Carl Lauro, schnarr defeated Lee Chimento, 6 rounds.

STEFFEN MAY NOT RESIGN

dell if Steffen does remain firm in his decision to quit. Harpster knows nothing of the matter, however, nor has Waddell been offered Steffen's job.

The chances are that Steffen will agree to continue in an advisory capacity, not as active as he has been since 1928, and that Waddell will be given full charge and permitted to acquire a first assistant.

Both the Panthers and Tartan varsity squads were given a day off yesterday following their thrilling triumphs of Saturday. Pitt over the Army here and Tech over Temple in Philadelphia. Work for the Thanksgiving Day encounters with Nebraska and New York U. will be started today.

Meanwhile, Elmer Layden gave his Dukes a stiff drill to inaugurate final preparation for the game with the powerful North Dakota University Flickertails here Saturday afternoon.

Coach Layden, more or less satisfied with the defensive play of his team in the games with Catholic University and Holy Cross, has decided to pay special attention to the perfecting of the offensive.

A year ago, a crack Flickertail eleven, led by Jarrett, a speedy halfback and Burma, a hard-hitting fullback, defeated the Dukes, 14 to 6, and with greater ease than the score indicated.

Jarrett is gone from the North Dakota lineup this year, but Burma is back, bigger, better, faster and tougher than ever, and as captain, he has led his eleven through an undefeated season so far, a tie with Oregon, the same Oregon that tied New York U., being the only blemish on its record.

Layden is about resigned to using Freddy Cristina at fullback, with Ben Pawlina at right half, Chacko or Sepsi at left half and Devergney or Red Sullivan in at quarter, Zanarelli and Dick Quill will be ready to take Cristina's place if he falters against North Dakota.

The Carnegie Tech basketball team assembled yesterday for its initial drill of the season. The Skibo courtmen found Coach Ralph Hogan in optimistic mood for the forthcoming season. A number of fine plebe players from last season are out to make the varsity.

The Tipoff

Yesterday's sensation—Duke (French Line) Emery and Jimmy Robertson, former Fordites, playing ping-pong at the Carnegie Tech Club downtown. Mister Emery wound up on the short end.

A session of Army coaches in the William Penn Saturday night after the Pitt-Army game started off with a lot of arguments over the why and wherefore of the game, until Charley Born, the end coach, stood up and declared that the Army had lost because it faced a better team.

There appears to be some question as to whether Bulldog Reider kicked or batted the bounding punt out of bounds in the first half of the Army game, after he had touched it, and an Army end, Quinn, was about to recover it. Reider batted it out with his left hand, for if he had kicked it, the officials could have given Army possession of the ball.

One of the fairest football fans I've ever had the pleasure of meeting is George Haggerty, Brooklyn sports newspaper. Here gives the winning team the credit, it deserves, can see the good points of the defeated and argues that a good team makes its own breaks.

'Police Can't Win'—Sing Sing Slogan

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 17.—(INS.)—"The police can't win."

That was the slogan adopted today by Sing Sing's football team, while its members practiced for the clash next Sunday on the prison gridiron with the Port Jervis, N. Y., police department eleven.

The Sing Sing team has a record of never having been beaten.

A. A. U. ELECTS EXECUTIVES

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The Amateur Athletic Union filed away its major problems of the forty-third annual convention here today and turned to a program listing official award of tournament dates and cities and selection of officers and trustees.

The only matter to break the otherwise harmonious atmosphere of the conference yesterday arose over a proposed amendment to the by-laws to limit the functions of the redistricting committee.

Avery Brundage, Chicago, the president, however, pointed out that under the constitution redistricting must be done by agreement of the constitution with 50 days notice. He then referred the matter to a committee.

SITES OF TRIALS SELECTED

Virtual completion of recommendations to the United States Olympic Executive Committee at New York, November 29, was reported by the track and field and swimming committee of the American Olympic Association, also in session here.

The track and field committee recommended that trials for positions on the American decathlon team in the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles be held at Chicago, June 24 and 25, with the site of be selected later.

This body also favored adoption of metric measurements to conform with Olympic distances and in another recommendation suggested that the 1932 track and field championships of the I. C. A. A. A. A. and the National Collegiate Athletic Association adopt the plan. These championships will qualify competitors for the final Olympic tryouts at Stanford University.

MOTION PICTURE TIMER

A two-eyed motion picture camera will backstop the work of human timers at the Olympics.

One eye-witness records the movements of a stop watch and the other catches the finish of the races. An electrical attachment on the starter's gun sets the watch in motion.

In case of a dispute, the film can be projected and the race reviewed with the watch showing on the screen and the time each competitor finished.

Gustavus I. Kerby, New York lawyer, and chairman of the advisory committee of the I. C. A. A. A., developed the device.

The camera will be used only experimentally at the 1932 games, however. If it is successful, Kirby said, it will be adopted to time many major championships.

PITT ON PENN '32 SCHEDULE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—The University of Pennsylvania football schedule for 1932, announced yesterday, calls for eight games. This is the first time since 1819 that Pennsylvania's schedule has called for less than nine contests.

Ohio State will be met for the first time, the game to be played in Columbus, and will be the only one away from home. Dartmouth will come to Philadelphia for the first time since 1921, and Pittsburgh will be played for the first time since 1925.

The Navy game has been advanced to the middle of the season, Pennsylvania thus returning to its long-established practice of closing the season on Thanksgiving Day with its traditional game with Cornell. The schedule follows:

October 1, Franklin and Marshall; 8, Swarthmore; 15, Dartmouth; 22, Lehigh; 29, Navy; November 5, Pittsburgh; 12, Ohio State at Columbus; 24, Cornell.

THREE CENTRAL LEAGUE TILTS ON SCHEDULE

By TOM BIRKS

One national cup game and three Central League games are on the soccer card for local fans Saturday afternoon. In the National cup game, the Morrys, of Castle Shannon meet the Green-and-White-clad Celtics, at Leslie Field. It is expected the Morrys will have tougher sledding than they did in bumping the Rovers at the same park two weeks ago.

The Celtics are favored to beat the Morrys, in spite of the big upset of last Saturday, when the Rovers shut out the Green machine.

The Celtics have a cup-fighting aggregation who will play an entirely different game against Morrys than they did against the Rovers. It was thought that the Celtics treated the Rovers too lightly last Saturday.

SHAKEUP LIKELY

A shakeup in the ranks of the Celtics for Saturday's game is most likely. The team appeared stale last week, and never was in the picture.

The three scheduled league games should find the Clan Douglas team annexing two points at the expense of National Tube, at Westinghouse Stadium. The champions, with the Celtics and Union Switch stepping at a lively clip, hardly will loaf in the remainder of their league games. Jimmy Moremen, the vetman old time center forward, has added punch to Douglas' attack. Douglas plays splendid soccer. Too much, in fact, because scoring goals has been sacrificed to this end. Moremen's bustle, plus Thom's science should pay Manager Minnher a good return.

SWITCH FAVORED

Campbells' Swissvale club has Westinghouse as its opposition, and the Switch eleven should have little difficulty in annexing two points.

The Rovers are cocky since their victory over the Celtics. They figure to beat Tarentum, and this game also should be in their bag.

Curry is likely to have a big day Sunday when the juniors and seniors clash in National amateur cup competition. If the juniors are fortunate enough to win, the Keystone Leaguers may as well leave town.

Morgan clashes with Cuddy, at Morgan in the same tourney on Sunday, but fans are wondering whether any club is strong enough to stop the former this season.

The Keystone League holds a meeting in German Hall, Bridgeville, tonight.

STERLING FIVE WINS

The Morningside Sterlings scored a 32-31 victory over the Braddock Merchant passers last night.

NEW BUSINESS UNITY SEEN BY DURANT

Scrapping of Wasteful, Chaotic Production War For Co-Operation Predicted

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Can the business cycle be controlled or influenced by human conduct? President Hoover lent aid and comfort to those who tentatively answered this question affirmatively by holding White House conference in November, 1929, immediately after the panic, but since that time he has not consistently followed through. Will Durant, who turns his penetrating eyes from philosophy to business, concludes in his newest book, "A Program for America":

Mr. Rukeyser

"Having been compelled to pass from instinct to halting intelligence in one field after another as a result of the industrial revolution, so we shall probably have to abandon instinct in our economic life, and replace our unconscious industrialists with conscious central control. Leadership will graduate from competitive mastery to co-operative strength; government will be no abjudication of disputes among struggling individuals and groups, but a source and center of knowledge and guidance, unity and order, for our chaotic and industrial life. Statesmanship will be conceived hereafter not in terms of diplomacy and war, but in terms of national planning, of economic foresight and control."

General business looks to the construction industry and the automobile trade for stimulus. The motor executives are ready soon to embark on a great campaign to break the buyer's strike.

Simultaneous bringing out of new models by most manufacturers, redoubled energy in sales and advertising, will reach a climax at the automobile show in New York in January. The Hoover plan for a central mortgage bank may give stimulus to the sick building trades.

Western Pacific President Retires

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—With the resignation of Harry M. Adams as president of the Western Pacific Railroad, three lines in which Arthur Curtiss James, capitalist, is heavily interested will come under new management after the first of the year.

Adams, whose resignation was announced here yesterday, will be succeeded by Charles Elsey, now executive vice president of Western Pacific.

Previous announcements of changes on the James lines were that Ralph Budd, now president of the Great Northern, would go to the presidency of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and that William P. Kennedy would succeed Budd as president of the Great Northern.

Utilities System Cuts Stock Price

Must America Await Foreign Revival? No!

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

MUCH PERHAPS too much attention is being paid by American financial interests to events abroad.

Many talk as if the United States couldn't possibly enjoy any measure of recovery until grave foreign troubles have been settled. That notion is not warranted.

The probability is that this country will be able to make substantial progress before European clouds have passed.

If America never had enjoyed prosperity when there was any cloud on the European horizon we would have experienced mighty little prosperity since our birth.

OF COURSE no sweeping prosperity is likely to be witnessed here until most of the rest of the world has become distinctly more stabilized.

But meanwhile we can and probably will advance far toward normal before foreign unsettlement completely disappears—if it ever does.

ADMITTEDLY THE world has worries aplenty.

Germany is once again the critically sore spot. American bankers tumbled over one another in their fight for the "privilege" of lending to Germany and to Germans the savings of American investors. Competition to furnish German loans, public, corporate, municipal, etc., rushed to ridiculous extremes.

Our bankers who should have been very much more careful apparently didn't stop to analyze just how Germany was going to meet all her public and private borrowings after the torrent of outside money dried up.

Everything looked superficially rosy so long as American investors were induced to pump into Germany far more money than she was paying out in reparations and all other forms combined.

Conditions in Germany today are perilous. She has several hundreds of millions of short-term obligations which she hasn't met and which she perhaps entirely sincerely declares she is unable to meet. Therefore, her ability to borrow more, her credit, has been blasted.

Her financial position has been sorely aggravated by industrial depression, unemployment, political uncertainty, and other adverse influences common to the greater part of the world at this moment.

FRANCE HERETOFORE has been uncompromising. She has been riding a very high horse. She has amassed almost $3,000,000,000 of gold and has heretofore experienced distinctly less depression than most countries.

But indications increase that France is finding it advisable to get off her proud perch. Unemployment and depression are now reaching her. She finds that it is terribly costly to hoard such gigantic mountain of idle gold.

Earlier in the year she rebuked Britain regarding tariff concessions, and now finds that Britain is getting ready to hit back effectively. France has discovered President Hoover does not intend to take the lead next time in rescuing Germany, but has put that responsibility up to those more directly and seriously concerned.

Moreover, France can hardly feel elated over the attitude she has aroused in the principal nations. Nor is it thinkable that she will willingly court precipitating a major upheaval in Germany.

ALL IN ALL, there is at least an even chance that somehow or other Germany's dire emergencies will be amicably met.

BRITAIN HAS taken on a new lease of life.

IT IS AT LEAST permissible to hope that the present visit to Washington of Italy's foreign minister will be productive of beneficial results.

WHAT OF MANCHURIA? There the world is confronted with a bewilderingly tangled skein. Chinese, Russian, Japanese Railway and economic interests are extraordinarily intertwined.

The overshadowing fact is, however, that Japan's population multiplies so rapidly that she simply must find outlets for her overflow, and Manchuria offers the most attractive possibilities. What the upshot will be, no human being can foretell.

YES, THE WORLD has its woes. But they promise gradually to become fewer and lighter rather than heavier and more numerous.

Our own country, notwithstanding its heartbreaking unemployment, appears to have overcome the worst of its difficulties, and there is no reason for becoming obsessed with the defeatist attitude that genuine progress cannot be made here until something approaching the millennium has dawned throughout the rest of the world.

SENATE WHEAT PROBE ASKED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(INS.)—A senatorial investigation into the cause of the recent rapid fluctuation in the price of wheat was demanded today by Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana.

The millions alleged to have been made by grain operators in the sharp rise and fall of wheat prices, Wheeler declared, added nothing to the income of the growers. Thousands of them, he asserted, are destitute and many are dependent upon charity for food.

Wheeler plans first to ask the Senate Agricultural Committee to inquire into the matter. Wheeler proposes to ask the committee to call leading grain operators and question them on the recent market trends.

One of the operators Wheeler wants summoned and subjected to interrogation is Arthur W. Cutten, who is widely reported to have made many millions in the sensational rise in wheat prices.

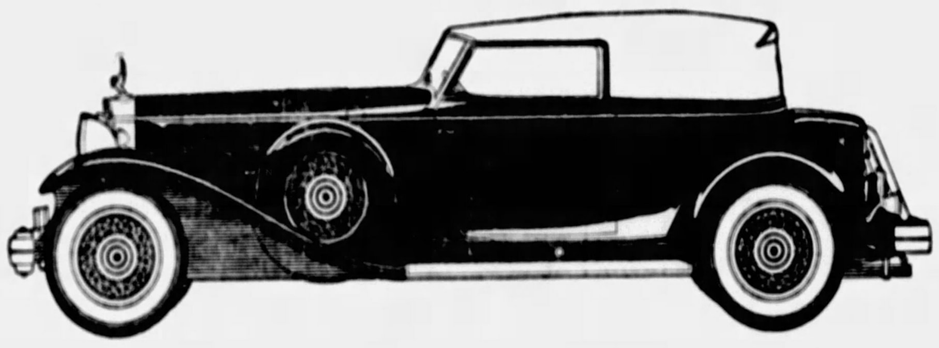
INDIVIDUAL CUSTOM CARS



AT OUR SHOWROOMS—4 DAYS ONLY

NOVEMBER 17th TO 20th

A distinguished new group of Individual Custom Cars has just been announced by the Packard Motor Car Company—all built on the new Packard Eight De Luxe chassis, with its longer wheelbase, wider tread, Ride Control and many other refinements.

We are privileged to display a representative selection of these new Packard custom creations in a special, advance Salon—and cordially invite you to come in and see them. Included are Sport Sedans, Town Cars and the smartly new transformable types of Formal Cars—all with coachwork by Packard's own custom body department. In addition, there are several interesting convertible stylings by Dietrich.

Our Salon Pre-Showing offers you the opportunity to inspect right here at home, just prior to the annual New York and Chicago exhibits, the most luxurious personal transportation the motoring world has to offer.

For the convenience of anyone wishing to purchase one of these distinguished Custom Models, we have arranged to make delivery from the floor. Thus you now may have your Custom Packard without the delay usually encountered in acquiring a truly custom car.

But whether or not you are interested in securing a Custom Car, we urge you to visit our Pre-Showing of the new models. We firmly believe you will be well repaid by a new conception of motoring beauty and luxury to be gained from an inspection of these rich creations.

STOCK LOSSES TURNED INTO ADVANCES

Numerous Shares Rise 1 to 2 Points After Early Sag; Trading Pace Quickens

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—After sagging for six successive sessions, the stock market dug in its heels and managed to resume its climb today, as further strength in wheat gave bulls new courage.

The market was under pressure during the first hour, but selling was checked some after the opening of the Chicago grain pit, and the list began to rally. Trading quickened on the advance.

Early losses, ranging from 1 to 3 points, especially in the rails, were generally regained, and by early afternoon, shares showing net advances of 1 to 2 points included United States Steel, American Telephone, North American, Consolidated Gas, General Motors, Electric Autolite, United Aircraft, National Biscuit, Borden, Sears-Kennecott, American Smelting, International Harvester, Standard of California, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, American Can, Eastman and others.

The share market had ignored the resumption of the advance in wheat yesterday, but, as the rise continue for the second day, Wall street was apparently impressed.

Bullish demonstrations appeared in some of the motor shares.

The petroleum group also firmed up for a time. The preliminary report of crude oil production for last week indicated a negligible gain, and gasoline prices have continued to harden in various parts of the country.

The good support accorded German and Japanese bonds tended to quiet uneasiness over the Central European financial situation and the continued military clashes in Manchuria.

WHEAT MAKES BRISK RISE

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Brisk early upturns today in grain prices here accompanied Liverpool wheat quotations higher than expected, together with reports that Russian wheat supplies were declining. It was asserted that since July the Soviet government's grain collections had decreased 62 per cent. Opening at ⅝@1⅛c gain, Chicago wheat futures afterward rose further. Corn started ⅛@⅜c higher and continued to point upward.

General commission demand for wheat quickly proved more than sufficient to absorb active profit taking which broadened out as the market advanced. Beneficial rains in domestic winter wheat territory southwest were almost ignored. An offset to the improved moisture situation was word from Kansas City that cash buying of wheat was increasing instead of falling off. Southwestern mills were reported anxious buyers, presumably to cover flour sales already made.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. R. Marion & Co.

STEEL OUTPUT UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Steel ingot production for the week ended Monday is estimated by Dow, Jones & Co. at about 31 per cent of capacity, comparing with a shade over 31 per cent in the preceding week and about 30 per cent two weeks ago. Independents recorded a good increase, but activities of United States Steel Corporation were curtailed during the week.

At this time a year ago, the industry was averaging about 43 per cent, unchanged from the preceding week. In the same week in 1929, there was a drop of 2 per cent to 71 per cent of capacity.

50 Four-High Mills Built by United

Since the advent of the four-high mill method of rolling steel and non-ferrous metals, United Engineering and Foundry Company has built such equipment for a total of 50 plants.

Seventeen plants now use four-high mill equipment for cold rolling of all kinds of commercial steels, 15 plants now use it for hot rolling of sheets, strips and plates, and 12 plants now use it on non-ferrous metals.

Six plants now use this equipment for stainless steel strips, one of the most difficult of rolling mill operations because of the extreme hardness of such material.

Motor Production Still at Low Level

DETROIT, Nov. 17.—Automobile production still continues at a low level, although a slight increase was reported for last week. According to Cram's automotive reports, actual ouput for the week ended November 14 totaled 9,156 units, which compares with 8,592 units in the previous week and 43,194 units in the corresponding week of last year.

AMERICA HOLDS FINANCIAL SCEPTER

'Impregnable Dollar' Only Major Currency Remaining At Its Pre-War Valuation

Universal Service

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17. — Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, financial columnist for Universal Service and member of the teaching staff of Columbia University, in a speech before the New Haven Advertising Club at the Hotel Garde yesterday, declared that London had turned over the scepter of financial leadership to New York. He said New York was destined to fulfill the role in a novel manner.

In the course of his speech Mr. Rukeyser, who is the author of four books on finance including "Financial Advice to a Young Man," declared that the prestige of the American dollar was never greater than at present as a result of its having met and repulsed a recent international onslaught.

PROPAGANDA FAILS

Mr. Rukeyser said:

"An epidemic of skepticism and fright concerning the stability of monetary systems has swept from country to country—in Latin America, Europe, Asia, Australia and elsewhere. The panic gained in momentum as it moved across international borders. The climax of the reactionary movement was the abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain on September 20. Feeding on its own flames, the destructive fire of rumor, innuendo and gossip at length was directed to our shores against the American dollar, which alone of the principal currencies remained at the pre-war parity.

"The only currency which was beset by this ruthless attack, and which repulsed it, was the American dollar. In the light of the insidious propaganda arising from stupid, envious and irresponsible sources in Europe, it should be a matter of pride to Americans that their currency system was tested to the quick and not found wanting.

BRILLIANT FUTURE

"New York and America are at the threshold of new and greater opportunities.

"The rich potentialities should be employed along lines that will prove of maximum benefit to the American people.

"To the extent that outside credit revives, the United States and France will emerge as the principal international lenders, and will exact benefits not only in interest payments and banking commissions, but also in preferential treatment for our goods and machinery and for our shipping and insurance interests."

Blaw-Knox Costs Reduced $1,000,000 a Year

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE BLAW-KNOX COMPANY has cut its expenses $1,000,000 a year. This declaration was made by A. C. Lehman, president, following the directors' meeting yesterday.

Plant operations have declined to between 35 and 40 per cent of capacity but Mr. Lehman declares that the company still is working at a profit.

The decline in volume was the impelling factor in two consecutive reductions in the quarterly dividend rate. Three months ago the payment was cut from 37½ cents a share to 25 cents a share. Yesterday the dividend was again cut to 12½ cents.

Current earnings, according to Mr. Lehman, are in excess of the new rate but directors considered it wise to conserve the company's excellent liquid position in order to be amply prepared for the revival of general business which they believe to be in the making.

Current Position Strong

THE COMPANY HAS NOT PUBLISHED its earnings since the first half of the year but a balance sheet of October 31 has been made public. This showed an exceptionally strong cash position. Current assets amounted to $5,888,827. Against these, current liabilities, including reserves for taxes, amounted to only $379,267. Cash stood at $1,554,457 and securities at $686,955.

The only liability in addition to the current items and tax reserves was a minority interest in the Pittsburgh Rolls Corporation, a subsidiary, of $7,338.

The company has no funded debt or preferred stock. Net current assets, after deducting all current liabilities and tax reserves, were equivalent to $4.16 a share on 1,322,395 shares of capital stock.

Book Value $14 a Share

THE BALANCE SHEET shows that plants and equipment were carried at $12,647,460 after providing for depreciation. In addition the company had investments in foreign subsidiaries and other organizations of $450,663.

The stock, of no par value, was represented by a surplus of $22,409,283. If the value of intangible assets, including patents, trademarks, goodwill and deferred charges are deducted from this, a net surplus of $18,600,345 is indicated. This would be equivalent to $14 a share and is in excess of the present market value. At yesterday's closing price of 11¼, 37 per cent of the market value is represented by net current assets.

Foreign Profits

IN THE FIRST HALF of 1931 net profit was $632,761 or 48 cents a share. This compared with $1,694,002 or $1.28 a share in the corresponding period of 1930.

Earnings in the second half of the year will be less than in the first half. It is not possible to make a close estimate of earnings since income of foreign subsidiaries to be received at the end of the year will be an important factor.

COPPER CONFAB HITS SNAG

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Discord has arisen regarding quotas allowed Katanga and some of the mines in Northern Rhodesia at the copper curtailment conference. It is believed some of the smaller American producers object to an increase in Katanga's maximum output to a figure somewhat between the 400,000,000 pounds that American producers are all willing to concede and the 500,000,000 that Katanga has been claiming. It is also believed at the last minute protests were made against the maximum capacities allowed Northern Rhodesian properties.

The Belgian representatives are still said to plan to sail tonight on the Europa.

Wholesale Prices Dropped in October

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Retailers replenished their shelves during October at wholesale prices just about one-fifth lower than during the corresponding month a year ago.

The Department of Labor, in a report today, placed the index of October prices this year at 17 per cent less than in October, 1930, and about 1 per cent lower than September, this year.

Time Money Market's Action Perplexing To Followers

Close followers of the situation in the money market are more than a little perplexed by the state of things in time money. They maintain that there is practically no such thing as a time money market at the moment and that current quotation of 3½ per cent cannot be regarded as representing either the bid or asked quotation. In fact they doubt even a 4 per cent bid would bring out much in the way of offerings for fixed periods. As near as can be learned the question of rates appears to have little to do with the situation. Rather the dominant influence is the evident determination of New York banks to keep as liquid as possible and avoid tying up their funds for any definite period. Acceptances, it is contended are for the present preferable to time loans so far as institutional funds are concerned.

Foreign trade figures for October were interesting chiefly for the reason that they showed exports had expanded substantially above the September level while imports ran slightly under the total reported for the previous month. Compared with October last year, exports were off 37 per cent, while imports showed a drop of 32 per cent on the basis of dollar value. The report, however, showed a favorable balance for the United States of $36,000,000 compared with an export excess of $10,000,000 the month before, and an unfavorable balance of $1,000,000 in August.

Discussions between copper producers regarding curtailment seem to be on the rocks but the industry is endowed with such a high desire for haggling and as many of the producers are so prone to strive for some special advantage that it is not surprising when things are about settled to have difficulties again crop up. There is still reason for feeling that everything will be adjusted in the end and some plan satisfactory to all arrived at.

The stock market is certainly proving itself to be temperamental in character. It was but a short time ago, comparatively, that bulls seized upon the slightest indication of improvement in commodities as sufficient reason to whirl up prices of leading stocks. Yet yesterday, when wheat soared briskly after a fairly protracted period of decline, the market paid virtually no heed, preferring to pay closer attention to the weakness in silver.

The Reading Company's October results are expected to make an exceptionally good showing on their publication in the near future. Net operating income is expected to be shown at a new high for any month this year, standing well above the September figure of $1,049,072 which thus far has proven the best. Gross revenues last month probably closely approximated $6,500,000 which would compare with $5,700,313, reported for September and $7,753,604 in October last year when net operating income of $1,539,641 was reported. Reading's improvement reflects the normal expansion in the coal movement at this season of the year. If the net operating income for last month runs above that for October, 1930, it will mark the first time this year that the results have been better than in the same month a year ago.

London dispatches this morning said that bankers' committee there on the German "standstill" agreement had been informed by the Reichsbank that new bills drawn to replace those maturing November 26, would be covered by the agreement. The Gold Discount Bank of Berlin had previously said that the agreement would not apply to such new bills. New York bankers who are interested in that phase of the German financial situation were anxiously awaiting official word from the Reichsbank relative to the position of new bills to be drawn against such maturities, and thus far have had no advice on the matter from that source.

TRADE BALANCE FAVORS U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Department of Commerce reports imports of merchandise for October as $169,000,000, as against $247,367,000 in October, 1930. Exports as $205,000,000 compared to $326,896,000 a year ago, and excess of exports as $36,000,000 against $79,529,000 in the like 1930 month.

Ten months exports totaled $2,046,731,000 compared with $3,279,346,000 in the similar 1930 period. Imports totaled $1,787,657,000 against $2,648,679,000 and excess of exports $259,074,000 against $630,667,000.

Atlantic Refining Reduces Gasoline

Atlantic Refining Company has reduced the service station price of gasoline 1 cent a gallon in the Philadelphia area to 16 cents. Tank wagon price remains unchanged.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has advanced tank wagon and service station price of gasoline 1 cent a gallon throughout its territory, except Delaware, effective tomorrow.

GRAND JESTER LAUDS KOMIC CLUB MEETS

Large Attendance Shows Enthusiasm of Members, Who Defy Traffic Jam

By THE SUPREME GRAND JESTER

In spite of the cloudy skies last Saturday morning, members of the Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club turned out in great numbers to attend the meetings and take part in the festivities in the 13 chapters having headquarters in neighborhood theaters.

At the Enright, Schenley, Harris (Diamond street) and South Hills Harris members went nearly wild over the movie dog Dauntless presented on the stage of these theaters.

HARRIS (DIAMOND STREET)

Every avenue of traffic leading to the Harris (Diamond street) theater was tied up Saturday morning with crowds waiting for the parade of cadets from West Point, here for the Army-Pitt football game. Having fought my own way through the crowds I wondered if there would be any children at the meeting. Much to my surprise the meeting was bigger than ever! Nothing, it seems, will keep members away from their Chapter meetings on Saturday mornings.

It was my first visit to the Etna Harris Chapter and I was surely delighted at the size of the meeting and the orderly manner in which it is conducted. The Grand Jester and Board of Governors conduct their own meeting. Of course Manager Morty Henderson is there to help them if they need him but the officers handled the meeting Saturday morning in a manner that would have been a credit to any grown up club.

Kippy, the Komic Club Clown, went with me to the Harris, Etna, and how the children howled with delight at his antics.

There was a pie eating contest, a cracker eating contest, a milk drinking contest, and, to top it all off, a Barrel of Fun! Congratulations to the Harris, Etna Chapter!

KENYON—ARSENAL

The Kenyon and Arsenal chapters had good turnouts at their meetings, and the members were very much excited about plans for the big show at the Stanley Sunday. Kippy paid a visit to the Arsenal, too.

We wish to extend birthday greetings to the following members who will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow:

Arsenal—Mary Moran, Stanley Kelek, May Agnes Moran; Cameraphone — Louis Chiccarelli, Henry Pauley, Robert Raymond; Enright—Ray Donaldson; Harris (Diamond street)—Harry Bodura, John Coury; Kenyon—Martha Ingles, Ethel Hawkins, Frank Argarlic, Jack Abernathy, Frank Connelley, Leo Leonard; Rowland (Wilkinsburg)—Theodora Renda, Horn Emery, Hordin Emery; Schenley — Milton Braverman, Rose Sciulli; South Hills Harris—Helen Erdle, Kathryn Glaser, Gwendolyn Stunagle, Glenn Murray; Belmar—Regis Logue; Mt. Oliver Harris—Anna Ackerman.

Germany to Take Emergency Action

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—(INS)—New government emergency measures to compel exporters to deliver foreign exchange to the Reichsbank was forecast here today as a result of a new decline in the bank's currency coverage.

It was understood that the bank lost 72,100,000 marks of currency coverage last week, the percentage dropping from 27.8 to 26.7.

ALL IN A DAY By Mark Hellinger

The Only Way Out

ANOTHER of Mr. Lew Brown's notions—and this one, to my mind, is a classic—concerns an actor who seemed to take a keen delight in being hated by other ones. There are such people, you know, in every walk of life. They derive a certain pleasure from being insulting.

Such a man was Gregory, our actor. Never an actual star, he was important enough as a theatrical figure to be always in demand. If it hadn't been for his nature, there wasn't a doubt that he would have gone to the very top of his profession. But he was the kind of a bird who didn't give himself a chance. He insulted managers right and left. He refused to cater to anyone.

He had no friends, of course, but he did have one acquaintance who was a little closer than the rest. Gregory was 40 years of age, and had known this other man for some 15 of those years. One night, as they sat in a restaurant, the acquaintance unburdened his mind.

"Gregory," he asserted, "I'm not going to preach to you. I once tried to talk to you about your violent attitude toward everyone in general, and the result was that we didn't speak for five years.

"Since then I haven't tried to influence you in any way. I've watched you go on making a fool of yourself through the years. I've watched you making the least of a splendid talent. What you have done and are doing with your life, of course, is your own business. But have you ever stopped to think what people say about you now, or what they will say about you when you are gone?"

"That's absurd," gasped Gregory. "You talk exactly like the fool you are. What do I care what the morons say when I'm gone?"

His acquaintance sighed.

"I knew you were going to say that, Gregory," he said tiredly, "because it wouldn't be you if you didn't. And since you have already commenced calling me a fool, I know it's useless to talk to you much more along these lines. We'll only wind up in an argument that will never be patched up.

"Accordingly, I'll say just a few words more and call it a day. As you stand today, you're one of the most detested men on Broadway.

"You say you don't care. You tell me that it means nothing what people say now or when you are gone. Very well. That ends the discussion. I can say nothing more."

Gregory looked very sour.

"You have said nothing yet," he grunted. "As a matter of fact, I can't remember you saying anything in the 15 years I have known you. I'm going. Good night."

At home that night Gregory got to thinking. Even though he hated to admit it to himself, the other man's words had had a definite effect upon him. What did other people really say about him? What would they say about him when he was gone? If there was only some way to find out, how amusing it would be!

The idea became an obsession with him. He thought of little else. He racked his brains for ways and means of reading his obituary notices without having gone to the trouble of dying. Suddenly, in an instant, the right notion came to him.

He would set out, ostensibly on a holiday, for a spot in Maine. He would leave his clothes and a short suicide note, on the edge of a large lake. He would retire to the woods. Word would be flashed to New York. The papers would make much of it. He could read his obituary and then return to Broadway.

"Those fools can say what they will," he chuckled. "How I'll laugh at them when I come back as alive as I ever was!"

A few days later he chose a resort in Maine and left to carry out his plan . . .

The entire scheme went off without a hitch. The suicide note was brief and to the point. He placed it on top of some of his clothing at the water's edge. He walked rapidly away to a vantage point he had chosen. And in the morning, with the aid of a powerful pair of glasses, he watched the discovery and the attendant excitement.

"The New York papers will have it soon," he exulted. "Ah, this is a grand game I am playing. How I will enjoy the prods and the knocks!"

Some two days later, in an appropriate disguise, he visited the newspaper stands in the town and bought all the New York papers he could get. Feverishly he turned the pages. Feverishly he began to read.

Slowly, the smile faded from his face. What was this? Instead of rapping him, the first obituary had praised him highly. He had been, it said, a highly distinguished artist, and a definite asset to the legitimate stage. At the end of the article, there was a statement from Jake Levy, the theatrical manager who had hated Gregory beyond all words.

"In company with all Broadway," was Levy's statement, "I mourn the passing of Gregory; a true friend and a great artist. It will be many, many years before the theater finds another actor who was so true to his craft, so faithful to his art and so honest in his relations with his fellow men. I am too grieved to say any more at the moment."

Gregory swallowed hard. He picked up another paper. Again he was praised. More statements. Still another paper, from which he learned that the Lambs and the Friars were holding special services for him. He shivered slightly and picked up a tabloid. There was a columnist on this paper who had always rapped him severely. Surely he would write something about Gregory's passing and he, at least, would not mince words. . . Yes, there it was. The actor read on:

"Now that Gregory is dead," the columnist had written, "I must tell you that everything I ever wrote about him was merely said in jest. I, above all others, know the grand heart that was hidden by a gruff exterior; the grand heart that is now stilled forever.

"Gregory was a fine man, and a charitable one. Few people know the many good deeds he did every day in the year. Few people know of the thousand-and-one things he did to make other humans happy.

"I will miss Gregory, and so will all Broadway. He was a grand guy" . . .

Gregory threw away those papers. He walked, and he walked, and he walked. Finally he stopped dead and clenched his fists.

"Will I ever get such notices again?" he cried unhappily. "No! There's only one thing for me to do."

He ran to the lake, jumped in and drowned himself . . .

CONTRACT BRIDGE

ERNEST H. HEINRICHS

Bridge Editor of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph and Author of "Common Sense Bridge,"

which won the praise of experts in every country, has long been an outstanding authority on "Contract." Following the adoption of the rules known as "Official Contract," Mr. Heinrichs has prepared a book that will be welcomed by every player, beginner or old-timer. Mr. Heinrichs' new book is written in easily understandable language and describes all of the fundamentals and essentials of "Contract."

This book has been brought from the press by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph as a service to players of the game and a help to beginners. It will be found of particular value to the thousands and thousands who have been playing Auction Bridge but have failed to get in step with the popular trend of the times—Contract Bridge.

This valuable and interesting book will be sent to you by mail if you will address your request to the

CHAPTER XXIII.

Mary missed Steve. Without him, New York lost all its magic. the year would pass more quickly, she realized, if she could find the kind of employment that would actually interest her. The employment agency suggested a number of jobs, but they were all office work. There was a proprietor of a book store in the Forties who wanted a secretary who could be capable, also, of meeting customers. Mary applied for and got the job.

She was an excellent stenographer and was paid accordingly. In her spare moments she was expected to help in the two crowded rooms of the shop. The proprietor, Lloyd Wade, was not interested in the sale of a pretty girl to his shop trade. the atmosphere of culture and scholarship created by his two men clerks who were elderly and bespectacled. Wade himself, who seemed almost literate in speech, possessed an uncanny knowledge of the world's literature. He was a specialist in rare and old editions which he handled personally.

"We are a happy family, here and we do business with the finest ladies and gentlemen in town," he told Mary. "I want you to study the business and make yourself one I can't get along without you. That's what I tell all my help. Why don't you make me an offer? Make a hundred dollars a week. I would have to do it, Miss Kennedy, if you was worth it. And sure you earn a hundred a week here, you'll get it."

He was a master of efficiency and shrewdness and had built up a mail order business that exceeded the shop sales. His immense knowledge of books overwhelmed Mary, but curiously, he was considerably intimidated by Mary. he excelled her, of course, in shrewdness, but he seemed to sense in her a basic kind of intelligence that he lacked himself. He was fat and carelessly clothed. her sure, smart youthfulness gave him a feeling of coarseness and vulgarity that puzzled him and kept him half apologetic in his relations with her. After the first day, Mary thought this was the best job she had ever had in her life.

WEEKLY LETTERS

Steve's letters came to her twice a week for a while and then dropped to once a week.

"Every day here is hot as the devil and when I come home at night I'm dog tired," he wrote. "They tell me I won't mind the summer heat so much after I get acclimated. It's all new to me, but I'm simply enchanted with the crudeness and barbarity of it all—it's opportunity in the raw. On Sundays we rest and from now on I shall devote most of the day to writing a long weekly letter."

He made no mention of Eileen Calvert being there and for the present Mary had no worry on that score. Eileen was too wise to present herself in the blistering heat of mid-summer to a fatigued and perspiring young man. Her attack would be withheld until the cooler season. No, Mary had no need, so far, to worry.

She was back now, rooming at her old place in the Eighties. Inasmuch as she expected to stay right there for the balance of the year she tried to make the room more cheerful with cretonne curtains which she bought herself. A domestic impulse stirred her and she used needle and scissors to make slip covers for her two chairs, a cot, masquerading by day as a sofa, replaced the iron bed. From now on, the room would be a snug little home until Steve returned. She seldom went out evenings since it was pleasanter to stay in with a book and dream of Steve. Bill took her to the theater and dinner twice; then he left for Europe with his mother and father. Eileen, too, went broad.

NEW INTERESTS AWAKENED

Jacob Woolfe encouraged Mary to read and allowed her to take books home from the shop. With thousands of volumes to select from she invariably chose books of travel. When she was married to Steve they would probably live in foreign parts, and she was engrossed with the descriptions and pictures of strange places. Oh, life was going to be—wonderful.

With a book in her lap she would lean back happily with closed eyes while imagined scenes formed visions in her mind. Herself and Steve riding horseback on a mountain trail in some far off country—she was exquisitely happy now with these self-made pictures. Once a week his letters arrived filled with love and descriptions of Cuba. He was fascinated with the sugar business—he was counting the months until they could be married. Apparently, he had forgotten all about Eileen Calvert's proposed visit to the plantation, for he never mentioned it. Eileen even in Mary's mind became a remote and vague figure.

Each day at the shop she learned more about books, and gradually new interests began to awaken in her mind. The whole world of literature was beginning to open up like a flower unfolding. her eager intelligence foresaw an endless pursuit of enduring mental treasures. Without being aware of it she was beginning to grasp the fundamentals of a deep education. Since her high school days she had done little or no reading and she was surprised at this new thirst of the mind.

SEES CARLOTTA

One day walking home from the shop she met Carlotta Guido on the street. The woman smartly gowned as usual, stopped her. the dark eyes still sultry.

"So I've been wondering what ever became of you," she said. "You got away from Buck Landers with your sweetheart . . . do you ever see him any more?"

"Not for ages," Mary told her. "And you?"

Carlotta shrugged her curving shoulders. "Oh I see him now and then for dinner, maybe—but what is that? We are no longer lovers. It is not satisfactory, but it is better than nothing. At least I know no other woman has him." The dark brow clouded with suspicion. "Are you sure you never see him any more?"

Mary laughed. "Oh no, and it wouldn't matter if I did. The last time I saw him he told me he was all over his grand passion as it were. I think he's thoroughly cured."

"He had better be!" said Carlotta crisply. "Some day he's going to wish he had treated me right. I've let him off darn easy, so far."

"You don't sound very affectionate," Mary smiled.

"You know what men are yourself—all they bring to a woman is unhappiness. You love a man, and how does he treat you? Like a dog."

At home that night, Mary tried to puzzle out in her own mind the nature of a woman like Carlotta Guido, but she failed. Both were women, yet their instincts were incomprehensible to each other. Love, with Carlotta, was solely a thing of passion and jealousy . . . and vengeance.

LANDERS VISITS

She fell to wondering about Buck Landers, too. Was it coincidence—or telepathy—that brought him back into her life? Who could explain the association of personalities, and the vague but powerful power of human thought . . . While Landers was in Mary's mind, as she sat in her room after dinner, he stood on the stoop of her house, ringing the door bell . . .

"Do you mind—very much—because I've dropped around to see you?" he asked, when she came to the door.

"Yes—I'd rather you hadn't," she told him frankly. "What's the good of it?"

"I've been worried and dissatisfied," he said, with strange meekness. "Things are all mixed up for me—and I want to straighten them out somehow. Carlotta told me at dinner that she'd seen you on the street, and I had a hunch that you might be living back here at your old address. Where's Steve?"

The mention of Steve's name was like pressing an electric button that flooded Mary with illumination. Landers himself was unimportant—but he gave her the excuse to talk about Steve! All of her pent-up longing, her lonesomeness could find an outlet in words. Without realizing it, she had been dying for expression . . . She could rattle on for hours about Steve.

"Oh, he has a marvelous job in Cuba—on a sugar plantation——"

BECOMES TALKATIVE

A quick flicker of surprised satisfaction crossed Lander's eyes, but Mary did not see it. Merely to mention Steve, to put his name and his doings into words, gave her a quickened interest that brought a flower-like blossom to her whole personality. Buck Landers was nothing, he was nobody—he was merely an excuse to talk about Steve.

"I'm still interested in the boy," he said. "He got a rotten break from me, and it's sort of on my conscience. Tell me all about him——"

She came out of the house, and they sat on the stoop. The hum of the city, busy with its million summer evening activities was all around them, but Mary saw and heard nothing. Her heart, her mind, were in Cuba. Landers, with an occasional question, drew forth all her information. Stimulated, she gave way to impulsiveness and he was shrewdly quiet, she confessed, even that she was dreading the time when Eileen Calvert would be in Cuba with Steve. Oh, she was not really afraid that this former sweetheart would prove dangerous. It was just a little nagging worry.

"Wait a minute," Landers cut in. "I told you that night at the Mortgenhoff that I'd like Steve to come back and work for me——"

No, he's definitely in the sugar business."

"Okay, but listen Mary—don't you realize that you're a fool to leave him alone with another woman in Cuba? You say he was engaged to this Calvert girl, and she wants him back. When is she going to Cuba?"

"In a month or two."

He said nothing for several seconds, but there was in his eyes that curious concentration that marked—had Mary been able to read him—the cunning operation of a devious mind, grappling with a delicate problem. His thoughts moved as tentatively as a cat picking its way through broken glass . . .

"I wouldn't go as far as to say that with Steve, it's a case of out of sight, out of mind"—but you've got plenty to worry about, if you only realized it. A tropical place like Cuba mixed with a beautiful girl, and a lot of hot blood, is certainly a perfect prescription for losing a sweetheart."

Like a tiny, poisoned arrow, a dart of apprehension slithered into Mary's breast. The wound was practically painless, but she felt it. "Oh, I could trust Steve anywhere," she declared.

"Probably . . . but I'm just warning you, Mary. Most people would consider it a pretty dangerous situation." He looked at her warily. "Why don't you go to Cuba yourself, in a month or two? Personally, I can't understand why you let this other girl have all the advantage if you want to marry Steve."

His words had found the one treacherous opening in the stone wall that protected her happiness from all outside assaults. If she lost Steve she would die. The mere thought of such a chance was enough to terrify her.

"It would be a fairly expensive trip to Cuba," Landers said. "Can you afford it?"

"No, I can't."

"That's tough luck—it's very tough luck," Landers stated. "I'd be sorry to see you get the worst of it. I wish there was something I could do to help you."

His voice was as searching as a surgeon's scalpal, but to Mary it sounded kindly. "Oh, I don't need any help!"

"Pardon me, but I think you do. You ought to go to Cuba to protect your interests."

Cuba! The longing to see Steve welled up around her, suddenly with a tide of sharp desire. To surprise him, to feel his arms once more around her—how marvelous! Ah, then Eileen would be wasting her time . . .

"If you like, I'll give you the trip," Landers said.

"But I can't accept a trip to Cuba from you!" she told him hastily.

"Don't be ruled by foolish pride. A few hundred dollars means nothing to me."

"Oh, I can't—Steve would object frightfully."

"Steve needn't ever know. If you're a wise girl, you'll begin to plan the trip to Cuba right away."

His sympathetic words seemed flavored with wisdom. Who else in all the world have made her such a generous offer? Still, it was almost unbelievable that Landers had become so considerate. It was a topsy-turvy world indeed!

"Why do you make me this offer?" she asked, with a remnant of suspicion.

"Because I don't want to see you unhappy. Maybe, because I've always wanted to do nice things for you, Mary. What harm is it, if I will always have a soft spot in my heart for you? When I first saw that I had lost out with you, I was furious—but now, I'm trying to learn to handle my hard luck in a different way."

He was striving to be friendly and agreeable; Mary could not find it in her nature to hold a grudge against him. Besides, she was beginning to be in a delirium of anticipation at the thought of seeing Steve in Cuba.

"If you won't accept the trip—I can lend you the money."

Her mind juggled the desire to say yes! But there was the question of repayment of the loan, reluctantly she decided not to accept his offer.

"Have you a little money of your own saved up?"

"Only a hundred dollars or so."

"I don't do very much for people as a rule, but I think I'll do you a favor, Mary," he said thoughtfully. "Let me take your hundred dollars and invest it in some bets on the fights at the Garden, Friday night. I happen to know of two sure things. Both are three to one shots. I'll shoot your hundred on one fight and lay your winnings on the next one. You'll have a thousand dollars free and clear Saturday morning."

A wave of excitement at the chance ran through her like electricity. Heaven had dropped a ticket to Cuba—to Steve—into her lap.

"Oh, I could trust Steve anywhere," Mary declared.

Warnings Unheeded

Propriety, Caution, Wisdom and Common Sense cried out to 19-year-old Laurel Oakes to check her mad pace. Utterly reckless, wildly gay, Laurel sought only the pleasure of the moment.

That sort of life was expected of many of the young playboys and playgirls in Laurel's set—but with Laurel it was a shame! She could be different! All who knew her said so.

A Sensible Relief Plan

As Musmanno Points Out, the Federal Bond Issue Advocated by W. R. Hearst Would End Unemployment

Representative M. A. Musmanno, whose courage and clear thinking have so often been of service to the people of Pennsylvania, has presented to the Legislature the most sensible plan that has been or is likely to be introduced for the relief of unemployment.

He calls upon the Legislature to urge upon Congress "the wisdom and necessity of immediately appropriating $5,000,000,000 to be used and expended upon public work, and to be raised by the issue and sale of prosperity bonds."

The plan, originally advocated by William Randolph Hearst, has won the indorsement of the soundest thinkers.

Unemployment is not a problem confined to any one state, but is national in its scope. It is accordingly the duty of the nation to solve it, just as it is the duty of the nation to wage war.

If the federal government should wage war on unemployment as energetically and enthusiastically as it carried on military operations in 1917 and 1918 there would soon be no unemployment.

The $5,000,000,000 bond issue offers the Legislature a way out of the dissension that has resulted from the various makeshift proposals in Gov. Pinchot's program.

There is bitter opposition to the proposed state tax on cigarets, the additional tax on gasoline, the tax on billboards and practically every other scheme that the Governor has suggested.

Why not ask Congress to assume the responsibility, as it should?

Representative Musmanno offers a definite, workable plan for putting the matter up to the federal government in a manner that will compel attention and arouse nation-wide interest.

The Coal Conference

The Operators Are Given Some Sound Advice in the Opening Addresses at the Carnegie Tech Meeting

The third international conference on bituminous coal under the auspices of the Carnegie Institute of Technology opened yesterday amid circumstances which promised to make it the most important of all. Certainly public interest was never before so keen.

Pittsburgh has suffered grievously during the last few years from the collapse of the soft coal industry. Inclusion of addresses by business men on the economics of the industry has accordingly given the conference a value which it would not have had if it had been confined, as in other years, almost exclusively to a discussion of chemical problems.

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Tech, and Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation, gave the operators some sound advice in the opening addresses in bidding them strive to raise the industry out of the dumps by their own efforts and not to depend on Federal legislation.

Dr. Baker touched a sore spot when he called for "unselfish goodwill within the industry."

The overproduction and cutthroat competition which have brought so many operators to ruin or the verge of it would not have reached the extent that has now been attained if greed and selfishness had been curbed.

Welfare Fund Donations

Commercial Concerns Are Setting a Fine Example for Private Individuals

The Welfare and Emergency Fund campaign entered upon its final week yesterday with more than $4,000,000 yet to be subscribed of the $5,981,184 required.

The prospect is not bright, yet we cannot believe that Pittsburgh will fall down in this important undertaking.

Indianapolis, Kansas City, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis and scores of other cities have just finished campaigns in which their quotas were oversubscribed. Pittsburgh, with its numerous wealthy and steadily employed citizens, surely will do as well as these other American communities.

The city's commercial firms are setting a good example to private individuals. A restaurant company announces that it will increase by 40 per cent its original donation. A big barber shop donates a day's receipts. Let the citizens generally do as well, and the goal will certainly be reached.

Break the Chain!

Silly Letters Playing Upon Superstitious Fears Should Be Ignored

Silly chain letters have appeared in Pittsburgh.

Such chains can become a great nuisance; so it is desirable that they should be broken promptly.

A letter received by Mrs. William Phillips, of 528 South Winebiddle avenue, wife of a veteran engineman of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is typical. It is unsigned but is in a beautiful feminine handwriting.

Mrs. Phillips is told to make nine copies of the letter and send them to nine friends within 24 hours. She will have good luck if she complies, the letter says, and bad luck if she disobeys. Instances are given of the bad luck and good luck that the chain is said to have brought various persons, and there is other nonsense.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are not credulous. Unfortunately there are many people who are not so sensible, and if these letters should fall into their hands the postoffice department probably would soon be swamped.

Chain letters of this character should be ignored because they are silly, and play upon the superstitious fears of the ignorant, and take up the valuable time of persons who could use it to much better advantage, and place a useless and unnecessary burden on the letter carriers.

The letter carriers will have enough Christmas mail within a few weeks without being loaded down by ridiculous chain letters.

Break the chain!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Few books have caught the Broadway fancy so pronouncedly as Gene Fowler's recent "The Great Mouthpiece." It is the biography of the underworld's most notorious legal trickster, William J. Fallon. To the White Way he was the official ambassador without portfolio.

Celebrated crooks are walking streets today as the result of his masterful, but not too commendatory talents. Threaded among his list of clients were such names as Nickey Arnstein, Arnold Rothstein, Betty Inch, Dapper Dan Collins and Dandy Phil Kastel.

Big Bill Fallon was one of those queer geniuses with shining fistfulls of technical tricks.

With the disarming naivete of a rosy-cheeked school boy he made sedate courts and caribou-faced lawyers often look ridiculous. Against overwhelming evidence, he could always hang a jury.

Born of a rich, aristocratic family and headed for the priesthood, he suddenly switched to law, became an honor student at Fordham, and after graduation the most resourceful and successful criminal lawyer in his particular field. In 10 years he received more than $1,500,000 in fees.

His descent was as quick as his rise—a fallen meteor, hunted by the law, an outcast from his family and decent society, and stone broke. Perhaps only the baroque environs of Broadway could have produced such an amazing combination of triumph and despair.

Gifted superlatively, had he chosen a path other than primrose, it is likely he might have been gracing a high court bench. Yet he preferred with impish and often unscrupulous audacity to shear the courts of their boredom and make clowns of the learned.

He spent huge fees riotously as soon as they came in. He was the playboy of the grills and cabarets. He professed to love a devoted wife and consorted with a vaudeville actress at the same time. In him was a fusion of cupidity and poetry—a fantasy of biology that science can never explain.

Bill Fallon in his day was one of Broadway's best dressed roysters. The first and only time I ever saw him was in Billy La Hiff's Tavern, surrounded by a light-hearted crowd which the late Jimmy Hussey invited me to join. His was the voice of an actor and his every remark took on the finish of an Otis Skinner curtain speech. He was not drinking or smoking that night and was in rare forensic form. Sometimes he would go for weeks without a drop of liquor or a puff of tobacco. He was saying that day almost prophetically: "Humanity shortly will be at war with its own limitations. The leaders, now in the stirrups, will be unhorsed. They are thinking too much of supply and not enough of demand." That was six years ago.

While Fallon patronized the most expensive tailors, boot and hat makers, he never patronized laundries. When his linen became soiled, he tossed it away or gave it to the elevator boy, purchasing fresh crops as needed. In a like manner he bought only one pair of shoes at a time and never had them shined. After his tragic death I once heard a hard boiled patron at Lindy's add up Fallon's career with more accuracy than pages of highblown verbiage. He said: "It was tough to see a guy like that short-change himself."

There is another Sir Galahad, now unleashed in the Broadway current, who sports silk socks, wearing them only once, donning a fresh pair each morning and evening. The discards are tossed in the ash can. The legend goes he was reared in the Arkansas hills and was barefoot until 19, when he donned his first pair of shoes. During all those sockless days he dreamed of the time he could wear silk hose. And when it came, he made it hum. E. Berry Wall, when he was making a sartorial splash in New York, is said to have had 500 pairs of sox, changing thrice daily.

And from the Riviera stylists report short-jacketed Eton suits the business for fashionable beach hounds. It all suggests ship stewards on a holiday. Somehow I'd like to see Gilbert Miller in an Eton suit.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You're sore.

Sore at a lot of things.

Sore because these are hard times and you're not getting the breaks. Somebody Higher Up has surely done you dirt!

Sore because your family doesn't appreciate you . . . because your friends fail you . . . because your enemy has put something over on you.

Sore! All smoked up with bitterness and self pity, resentment and hate—and every day your Mad List grows longer.

I don't blame you. I've been that way myself. Still am! But once upon a time I found the remedy for our sore-heads, Stranger. I found it in this line by Nietsche—

"GROWTH IN WISDOM MAY BE EXACTLY MEASURED BY DECREASE IN BITTERNESS."

In other words—the wiser you are, the less you'll hate, the less you'll be mad. If you were truly 100 per cent wise, you wouldn't be mad at all!

Don't believe it? Stop and think about it.

You CAN'T hate a man if you understand him. For if you really understand that man, you will no longer see him as a deliberate fiend, a liar, a coward, a crook. You will see him as he sees himself. You will see him in his hidden weakness and confusion and fear, hunger and shame. You will see the hurts in him which have made him want to hurt you. You will see his secret dreams and prayers and his futile rebellions.

And something will happen to you when you see that. You will become interested—become involved in that man's problem. You will stop thinking of him as your enemy. You will begin thinking of him as a fellow man. You will be amazed to find that his dreams and rebellions are like your dreams and rebellions—that he has suffered and been ashamed as you have suffered and been ashamed.

And suddenly you'll feel very close to that man. As close as though you were his brother. You'll want to tell him you understand. You'll want to help him—

You'll be like two men, lost in a great forest, suddenly finding each other—with all the old feuds forgotten in that wonder of discovery.

As wisdom grows—bitterness decreases. If you want to get rid of bitterness, GET WISE.

And that goes for more than the bitterness you feel against people—it goes too, for the hate and suspicion and resentment you're feeling against conditions. So easy to think that you're in the grip of a malign conspiracy! But you're not! You're simply in the grip of stupidity.

The Powers-That-Be aren't a group of arch fiends—devilishly clever and cruel—plotting to rob common folk like you and me of our small hope and happiness. The Powers-That-Be are simply saps like ourselves—well intentioned, but befuddled saps. Men are willing to do the decent, sensible thing, but don't know how to get going. Understand that and you'll eliminate your bitterness—which is far worse for you than any amount of hard times.

For bitterness buys you nothing but grief. It doesn't punish the other fellow, but it does poison you. It robs you of any advantage you may have—gives the other fellow all the breaks. Bitterness will always bind and blind you. Only wisdom will set you free. If for no other reason than your own personal profit, cut out bitterness.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Unfair Sex

Man may laugh or growl at woman's foolish feminine weaknesses, but if she lost them all, he would cease to find her interesting.

A woman doesn't have to have a good reason for being jealous—all she needs is a good imagination.

Once a woman has permitted a man to think that she is in love with him, she might as well try to unscramble an egg as to attempt to get that notion out of his consciousness.

It is all right to coddle your husband a little, but when you start picking up his things and waiting on him as though he were a prima donna, you are simply ruining him for his next wife.

Marriage may be full of problems, heartaches and surprises, these hectic days, but you must admit that there are very few dull moments in it.

A man is not old when his arteries begin to harden and his knee-kicks lose their flexibility—but, when his emotions become so petrified that he can't even IMAGINE himself in love.

An old-fashioned woman is one who remembers the time when there were lots of thrills between the first glance and the first kiss.

A woman can escape a lot of arguments and keep a lot of friends, if she can just manage to look blank and protest that she doesn't "understand politics."

Every word a woman says in a curtain lecture GOES—goes in one ear and out of the other!

A really "thoughtful wife" is one who buys a rug to match her husband's cigaret ashes.

He is twice conqueror who conquers himself in the moment of victory.—Syrus.

The Jeering of Dreiser

By Claude G. Bowers

The other day we commented on the fact that after the bankers and professional economists had been commended for "taking the world's problems away from the politicians," the politicians are now being asked to solve the complicated problems of the day. We are not alone in the observation. In his address at Chicago the German ambassador to America said:

"While at the outset the political unrest was chiefly attributed to economic reasons, and it was believed that only economic measures could prevent further political and social difficulties, the reverse opinion seems to prevail now. Whereas at first the political leaders hoped for some kind of economic miracle, the economists and businessmen now call for help from the political leaders."

Of course, that was inevitable. Statesmen worth while will avail themselves of the suggestions and advice of bankers and economists, but in the end will act upon their own judgment. It was Ramsay MacDonald in the Commons who recently said that his government was always glad to have the suggestions of the bankers but that the decision would always be made by the government, acting for the whole people.

In Sympathy With Dreiser

We must confess to complete sympathy with Theodore Dreiser's indignation concerning conditions in Harlan County, Kentucky. We are unable to join in the jeering. He has rendered a distinct service in giving a publicity to the savage and incredible proceedings in that quarter which has been strangely lacking. The spirit animating the dignitaries of the law down there speaks, trumpet-toned, in the observation of the district attorney that had he been governor he would have stationed soldiers on the borders to keep the Dreiser party out.

The novelist gives us a horrible picture. Children of the miners are starving—dying from starvation. When the union men opened a soup kitchen to prevent starvation it was dynamited. This did not interest the officers of the law. Twelve miners have been killed; but no indictments have been asked. A union organizer's car was dynamited; but no indictment was sought.

We all know of the deputy sheriffs who were shot, but not of the miners who have been killed.

When things like these have gone on the representatives of the press have always been instructed to move on; and in West Virginia 20 years ago they were beaten up if they refused. In Harlan County, Kentucky, it appears that two reporters for papers were shot—but there have been no indictments.

In West Virginia 20 years ago newspapermen penetrated to the scene of unspeakable outrages disguised; we know, because they stopped at Senator Kern's office on the way for letters, which we gave.

A News Event Of Importance

We have a vivid recollection of how Kern became interested in the West Virginia reign of terror. He found, by chance, on the market page of a Washington paper, in small print, six lines to the effect that Mother Jones, beloved by millions of miners, was about to be tried by a drum-head court-martial. This amazed him. He knew that the trial by drum-head court-martial of an old woman idolized by millions was a news event of importance; and here were six lines buried in a remote quarter of the paper.

It was at that time that we had a forerunner of the dynamiting of the free soup houses in Harlan County, when an armored car was fitted up in railroad shops in Richmond and "officials" and railroadmen, safe within the speeding car, shot up the tented community where the women and children of the miners were living after their eviction from company houses.

Impossible to Get Indictments

Twenty years ago it was impossible to get indictments for the mere murder of the miners and their families. That was the time that the thugs of the company's private army stood on the banks of a stream, with guns pointed, and made Mother Jones hold her skirts above her knees and wade in the water. She was then a very old woman. In those halcyon days of savagery these thugs of the private army, sanctioned by the state, were wont to swoop down into mine-villages, terrorize the women, and loot their meagre cupboards.

The head of the gunmen brigade, permitted by organized society, was peculiarly savage, and one day, after he and some of his gang had pushed into the hut of an Italian woman who was an expectant mother and left, neighbor women went in and found the woman writhing in agony on the floor, pointing to her stomach and moaning: "I don't hear my baby calling me now."

They had kicked her in the stomach. She died murdered. There was no indictment; scarcely any publicity at all.

Senator Kern Led The Fight

In those days there were Theodore Dreisers to brave the fury of the gang by going into the terror-stricken region. One of these was the gallant wife of Fremont Older, the great journalist and liberal of the Pacific coast. She wrote a series of articles which appeared, as we recall, in The Outlook. She was not bludgeoned, but she was denounced as a "Red," and her distinguished husband came in for a deluge of abuse.

It all seemed so impossible to us then; that such conditions could exist in America seemed impossible. It seemed so unthinkable that the agencies of power remote from the scene of the trouble should have been so keenly interested in the suppression of the facts.

We recall the astonishment of Kern when he was kept busy at the long distance telephone listening to the appeal of some railroad executives and men high in the field of finance. One day a lifelong friend in very high financial circles called him on the phone to beg him to drop the investigation he was trying to force by a resolution.

"I'll see you in hell first."

With that the Senator hung up the receiver and then told me of the conversation. He went into the Senate and in one of the most bitter battles ever waged in the chamber forced his resolution through.

The fight against the investigation was led by a Senator who previously had been a federal judge, and it later developed that he had been a stockholder in the mines when he sat in judgment on the bench.

Private Armies Still Going Strong

On the Senatorial investigating committee was a Senator whose heart was better than his head and who had a weakness for liquor. He was plied with liquor and he made a spectacle of himself. The public heard more about that than about the findings of the committee, which were startling enough—and nothing came of it.

That was 20 years ago, and it appears these things still go on. The Wagner committee recently had something to say about the private armies in the coal fields of Pennsylvania—but they are still going strong.

We know little about the merits of the controversy in Kentucky; but we do know that it is anarchy when no indictments follow the murder of miners; and we do know that it is infamy when children are permitted to starve; and we do know that it is not good for society, for the country, for property that these things should be countenanced under the American flag.

And so we are unable to join in the jeering of Dreiser because he is excited over what he saw. Anyone with a heart would be; anyone with a sense of decency or justice would be. Who wouldn't be?
